Nation's Health 'Improved,' But It Could Be Better

By JOHN STOWELL
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The federal government's first report on the status of the nation's health notes some improvements in U.S. medical care but says that American health could be improved by better personal habits.

The report by the Department of Health, Education and Welfare indicated that excessive use of alcohol and tobacco and the lack of exercise and proper diet contribute heavily to heart disease, cancer and respiratory disease.

Death and disability from those factors "are preventable primarily by changes in individual behavior," said Dr. Theodore Cooper, HEW assistant secretary for health. "The data suggests that much improvement in health status could come from individual action."

The report also said improved medical care of children and young adults is resulting in a larger number of older people who suffer more frequently from chronic diseases.

The three-volume report released Monday attempts for the first time, under congressional mandate, to take the nation's temperature and list its health pluses and minuses.

Infant mortality, frequently considered to be a yardstick of general health conditions, has dropped about 4 per cent a year since 1964 after a decade of little change, the report said.

The 1974 rate of 16.5 infant deaths per 1,000 live births ranked the United States 15th in the world. Just 24 years earlier the U.S. infant mortality rate was 47 per 1000.

"The period 1-14 years of age now has the lowest over-all death rate of any period throughout the span of life," the report said. It said 73 per cent of babies born in 1973 could expect to reach age 65 compared with only 41 per cent born in 1900.

That, in turn, has created new health problems, HEW experts said.

"As a population experiences, as ours has done, a decline in

Outside Opinions Sought In BH Mayor Salary Flap

Private Lawyer, Attorney General To Be Consulted

The Benton Harbor city commission Monday night voted to seek opinions from a private attorney and the state attorney general on the legality of a compensation commission recommendation that includes a $25,000 annual salary for the mayor.

Faced with an opinion by City Atty. Yvonne Hughes that the salary recommendations are in violation of city charter and "improper" for several other reasons, the commission voted 5-3 to seek an additional opinion from Benton Harbor Atty. K. Morris Gavin and 8-0 also to ask for a ruling by Attorney General Frank J. Kelley.

Following the meeting before another standing-room crowd in the commission chambers at city hall, Mayor Charles Joseph and Atty. Hughes disagreed sharply on the commission action.

"She didn't do her homework," Joseph said of the city attorney's opinion on the compensation issue. "She shouldn't have raised some of these questions unless she had the facts. She didn't do her job. She's been placed in a political position."

"If it's legal, it's legal, and if it's not, it's not. Every attorney you talk to will give you a different opinion on some things. We have to find out."

Atty. Hughes said that "I feel I'm being hassled, quite frankly. Some people would like me to resign, but the only way they can fire me is by cause."

"My job is to give them my opinion, and they can take it or leave it. The city attorney is kind of hired as a watchdog function so litigation will be reduced. You can hire a private attorney to support any opinion you want, because he's hired as an advocate."

Atty. Hughes also said she suspected it would be a "long time" before the city could expect a ruling from the attorney general and that the salary recommendations would go into effect 30 days after the report was filed unless rejected by a two-thirds majority of the city commission.

The compensation commission report was filed with the city clerk on Dec. 29, 1975, and the 30-day waiting period will expire on Jan. 28.

Voting to seek the legal opinion of Atty. Gavin were Joseph and four members of his "Clean Slate" ticket — Commissioners Barbara Huckaby, Winston Minott, Charles Shepherd and Alfred Williams.

Commissioners Arnold Bolin, Edmund Eaman and F. Joseph Flaugh opposed the motion and Commissioner Charles Yarbrough was absent.

All present supported Joseph's resolution to refer the matter to the state attorney general.

Atty. Hughes later said there is an additional legal question whether a private attorney consulted by the commission would receive compensation if his legal opinion later proved to be wrong.

She also said that the law was "unclear," but that she believed the commission would have to pass a resolution appropriating funds to pay the recommended salaries before they could go into effect.

Atty. Gavin last year was retained by "Citizens For A Full-Time Mayor," a group supporting a charter change advocated by Joseph to replace the present city manager form of government in Benton Harbor.

Following approval of the two resolutions, Joseph called on Helen Ford, chairman of the compensation commission, who read a "statement of position" supporting the recommendation of increased salaries for elected officials.

The statement was signed by the same three people who signed the compensation recommendation itself — Charles Shepherd, Eddie Thomas and Mrs. Ford.

Mrs. Ford later said they were the only three compensation commission members who played any part in formulating the salary recommendations and that "we were told there were five people on the compensation commission."

One of the legal "irregularities" noted by Atty. Hughes was that city commission minutes of Aug. 12, 1974, showed that seven members had been appointed to the compensation commission by Joseph and confirmed by city commissioners.

Mrs. Ford said that in all other respects the compensation commission followed procedure established by ordinance.

"Our minutes are available," she said, "but no one has asked me — no living human being...and I'm visible and available."

Atty. Hughes said she had offered her services to Mrs. Ford and the compensation commission but had received no reply, and that it was the burden of the compensation commission to show that it had complied with procedures established by law.

She also said the salary recommendations were rendered illegal on one issue alone — the fact that they established a variance in salaries paid the mayor, mayor pro-tem and other commissioners in violation of a city charter provision stating that the mayor and mayor pro-tem be paid only as commissioners.

Joseph later said he felt the state law authorizing the compensation commission overrode the city charter.

African Summit For Peace In Angola Ends In Deadlock

By ANDREW TORCHIA
Associated Press Writer

ADDIS ABABA, Ethiopia (AP) — The African summit meeting to bring peace to Angola ended in deadlock today. The three Angolan nationalist movements vowed to continue their civil war, and African diplomats predicted that the stalemate would encourage wider Soviet, American and South African participation in the conflict.

A spokesman for the Organization of African Unity announced that the chiefs of state and government heads decided to adjourn and to ask the seven-nation Angolan conciliation commission set up six months ago "to continue to follow the Angolan problem closely."

"We have failed the people of Angola," said Vice President Daniel Arap Moi of Kenya as the three-day summit meeting ended at dawn following an all-night debate. "It is a very sad occasion."

Moi said Africa may now seek United Nations intervention in Angola because "there is no point in bringing Angola back to the OAU."

Premier Lopo do Nascimento of the Soviet-backed Popular Movement (MPLA) government in Luanda told reporters his forces would fight on. Jonas Savimbi of the National Union (UNITA) and Holden Roberto of the National Front (FNLA), whose battlefield alliance is supported by the United States, South Africa, Zaire and Zambia, said earlier they would also keep fighting if peace moves deadlocked.

The deadlock was so complete that the meeting even failed to produce a widely expected condemnation of the intervention in the fighting by South Africa's white-minority regime.

Delegates said no votes were taken on a number of compromise proposals or on rival applications for OAU membership by the MPLA and FNLA-UNITA.

OAU officials said 44 of the members divided 22-22 between a Senegalese resolution reaffirming OAU neutrality in the conflict and calling for the three Angolan factions to form a coalition, and a Nigerian proposal to endorse the MPLA and ask the FNLA and UNITA to lay down their arms. Uganda and Ethiopia was the host to the meeting.

African diplomats said the African nations' inability to deal with their gravest political challenge since black Africa emerged from its colonial era 15 years ago could have long-term, damaging effects on African unity.

Some diplomats said the failure of the meeting to endorse the MPLA represented a partial victory for U.S. diplomacy. President Ford had written to African leaders before the summit urging neutrality and asking them not to endorse the Soviet-backed faction.

But some delegates said eventual OAU recognition of the MPLA was inevitable since 21 of the 46 members have already recognized the Popular Movement's government individually.

"The deadlock doesn't matter," said a delegate from Mozambique, another former Portuguese colony which also has a Marxist government. "The MPLA will soon have the votes."

Milliken Backs Down On Shifting Agencies

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — The Milliken administration has backed down on an attempt to move several state agencies from Lansing to a state complex southwest of the city. After a lengthy meeting with Lansing-area lawmakers Monday, Gov. William G. Milliken announced the headquarters of the agencies would remain in the city. He also committed himself to push for immediate construction of additional state office space behind the Capitol. The agreement apparently allows for some state personnel to move to the secondary complex, which is still about 60 per cent empty despite Milliken's vows to fill it. But the heads of the agencies must remain in Lansing. Involved are parts of the Department of Labor and most of the Department of Commerce, which now are scattered in several locations and paying $300,000 in rent each year.

Judge Laity's Assailant Gets Life Imprisonment

An assailant of retired District Judge and Mrs. Harry Laity was sentenced yesterday in Berrien Circuit court to life imprisonment for robbing the couple at knifepoint in the garage of their home.

Sentenced by Judge Chester J. Byrns was Floyd "Sonny" Caldwell, 26, of Benton Harbor. Caldwell, handcuffed during the court proceeding, was sentenced to concurrent prison terms "for the rest of your natural life," Byrns commanded.

Caldwell was convicted by Byrns in a non-jury trial of two counts of armed robbery. Judge Laity, 75, and his wife, Frances, 74, were robbed at knifepoint May 30 when they drove into the garage of their home at 825 Colfax avenue, Benton Harbor. Stolen during the robbery were cash, rings, and other jewelry worth about $2,700, the Laitys initially reported.

During the robbery, the judge was grabbed by the neck and told to give up his money or he would be killed. Laity testified during the trial he kicked his assailant, who then struck the judge in the chest with a knife, but Laity only sustained bruises from the assault.

"Mr. Laity could have been killed," Byrns emphasized to Caldwell. "I don't know when the message will get out that armed robbery is a horrible crime and offenders will get tough sentences in this circuit."

Caldwell's only comment during the sentencing was to ask that the trial transcript be completed as soon as possible so he could begin the appeal process.

Nudist Is Old-Fashioned In Her Choice Of Clothes

LOS GATOS, Calif. (AP) — "Some people say we are im-mo-dest," says the 73-year-old woman manager of a nudist colony in the Santa Cruz hills. "I say the way some people dress is immodest."

Many girls and women wear clothes in public that are too skimpy and too tight," said Ethel Plant. "I wouldn't think of going downtown without wearing hose."

Mrs. Plant, who's been managing the Lupin Lodge nudist camp for 26 years, said she is ready for those who might consider her a prude because of her old-fashioned notions about how people should dress.

"I may be old-fashioned, but I don't think people should appear in public in clothes designed to attract attention," she said. "When everybody's nude, everybody's the same and you can't very well be showing off your body."

Lupin Lodge is a private resort on 119 acres south of here that caters to families who flock there for vacations and weekends.

She said she and her late husband, Ray, became supporters of nudism after reading about it during World War II.

"We liked the freedom of being without clothes, especially in the water. There's nothing worse than a wet bathing suit. Did you ever notice, the swimming pool is the only place people will sit around in wet clothes?"

Mrs. Plant and her husband became joint managers of Lupin Lodge in 1950. She died that after her husband died in 1963 she welcomed the chance to stay on.

"Some are the most farout people I know and some are the most prudish people."

"I become confident to many of our members. People tell me things they say they wouldn't tell anyone else."

Mrs. Plant runs the resort with a staff of six — all of them, nude — who do the gardening and cooking, but of course don't have to bother much with laundry.

"Everybody has to be a nudist here," she said. "The only non-nudists are the man who reads the meter and the fellow who delivers the bread."

She said most of her customers are young couples with small children who can join for a yearly family fee of $135. Individual memberships cost $100.

Were it left to me to decide whether we should have government without newspapers or newspapers without government, I should not hesitate to prefer the latter. — Thomas Jefferson.

Judicial Muddying Of A Muddy Question

In the American system the courts are the last resort for a citizen to resist arbitrary action by the government's legislative and executive branches, and to resolve a purely private controversy with another party.

Whether or not the appeal process is available or invoked, their decisions exude the finality which St. Peter exercises when scanning the record of a soul leaving earth for other realms.

For this reason the judges tend to take their time to explore every facet in the cases before them, to allow all parties a seemingly inexhaustible right of ancillary proceedings, and then when the last play has been run off, think long and carefully before rendering a decision.

By and large the system's fine grinding delivers a good result.

In some instances, however, the attention to niceties can be counterproductive.

The Reserve Mining Company dispute at Silver Bay, Minn., is a prime example of a sound theory delivering a questionable outcome.

Since 1955 the company has been at odds with the state governments of Minnesota, Wisconsin and Michigan over dumping of waste products into Lake Superior.

Reserve is a large producer of taconite iron ore pellets. Taconite is a low grade ore of about five per cent iron content. Following World War II, the engineers found a means to process the ore on a commercially feasible basis as a substitute for the richer ores from the famous Mesabi Range which the war's military requirements had exhausted.

Getting rid of the surplus rock is a major problem.

Reserve, at first with Minnesota's tacit consent, sluiced the material into the lake.

Currently about 87,000 tons a day are sent into the waters.

Eventually health authorities complained that asbestos fibers in waste material posed a cancer question. Fishermen and shoreline residents raised wildlife and aesthetic arguments.

Negotiations between Reserve and the three state governments to find an alternate disposition on land dragged on inconclusively; and in 1972 the federal government filed suit in the federal district court at Minneapolis to halt the dumping.

In April, 1974, following prolonged testimony, Judge Miles Lord ordered Reserve to close the Silver Bay plant.

Two days later the Eighth Circuit Court of Appeals at St. Louis set aside the order and allowed Reserve to perfect its appeal.

Twice later in the same year, in July and October, the Supreme Court denied petitions from Minnesota, Wisconsin and Michigan to restore Judge Lord's order.

In mid-March of 1975 the Appeals Court issued a lengthy opinion conceding the health and environmental hazards created by the Silver Bay operation, and ordered Reserve and Minnesota to work out a mutually acceptable land site for dumping. Later in the same month the court declined to set a deadline on an effective implementation date.

Last week on its own volition the Appeals Court removed Judge Miles from the case saying he had turned into an advocate against Reserve and no longer was displaying judicial impartiality. The same order appointed a substitute trial judge to supervise the long stalled negotiations for the substitute dumping site.

The rare action does not lack for precedent and possibly the case would have not dragged on as it has if Judge Lord two years ago had tempered his shutdown order with a compliance date by Reserve.

The company's obstinence had a justification in prior years. Foreign steel was underselling U.S. mills and a multi-million investment for a different disposal system would only compound the economic difficulty at the manufacturing and selling levels.

The foreign mills lost their cost advantages over domestic producers a year ago.

Consequently the economic policy argument raised by Reserve against the public health and environment questions has lost much of its validity.

Having taken the initiative in the trial court's function, the Appeals Court should move now to implement its 1975 order to halt further damage to the lake and those about it.

Policemen Have Many Varied Duties

Police forces, since their inception, have been maintained to enforce laws and, by doing so, keep order. Crime control is important but it is by no means the sole function of a police department.

Laws define not only crime but regulations governing traffic, liquor, sanitation, trespassing, the hanging of advertising signs and several thousand other things.

Some laws, such as health and construction rules, are enforced by specialists of other governmental departments. But police enforce the vast majority of regulations.

Police training, comprehensive as it is in many communities, recognizes the policeman's scope transcends the limits of crime control. Formal courses cover general law, traffic rules and accident investigation, court and evidence procedures and crime detection and prevention.

Urban police departments' administrative structures also reflect the small percentage of manpower mustered against crime alone.

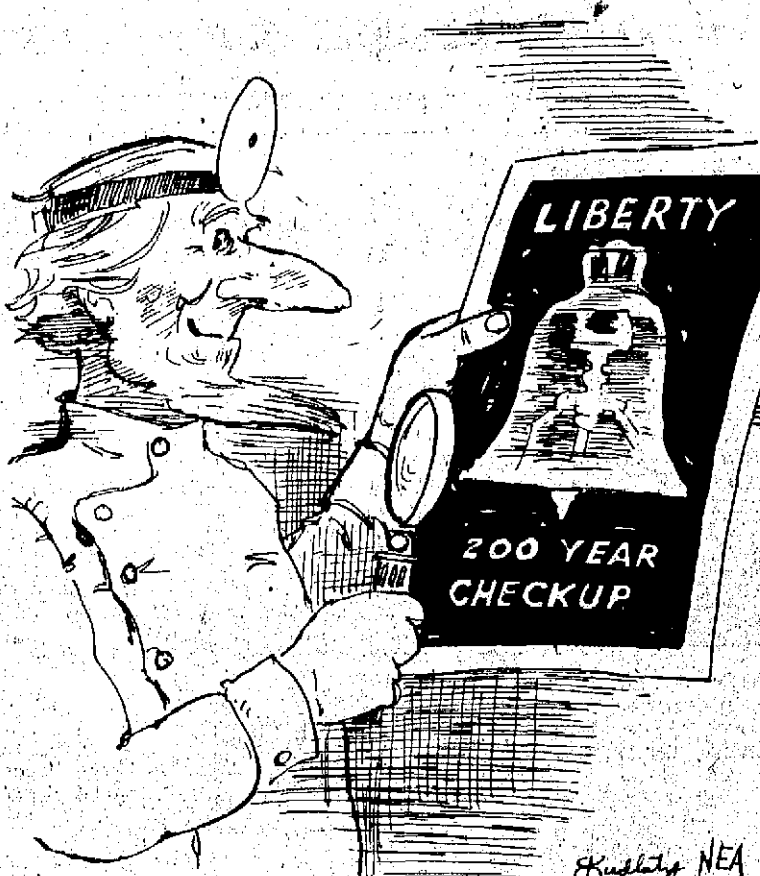

Perhaps there is no glory in directing traffic, arbitrating neighbors' disputes, controlling crowds, clearing blocked driveways, sorting out accidents, collaring drunks, rounding up lost children, admonishing street-corner rowdies and the hundreds of other day-to-day police duties.

Yet the performance of those duties is just as necessary to the maintenance of public order as the capture of criminals.

Investors Watch Stock Averages, Interest Rates

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Probably 90 per cent of the investment community these days glances at the prime interest rate with one eye and the Dow Jones industrial average with the other. Down goes one reading, up goes the other.

Investors don't spend all their time so occupied, of course, because to a great extent the prime rate and the stock average are mere symptoms of other factors, particularly the underlying economic condition.

For investment purposes, however, the two readings condense and summarize millions upon millions of words contained in reports, analyses, forecasts, estimates, opinions and guesses. Right now, these two readings are the temperature and the blood pressure of the patient.

The prime has been falling and is likely to continue to do so. It is down to 6.75 per cent now and seems headed to 6.50. Money is more plentiful; loans are easier to obtain, and they come at lower prices.

Over the longer term, lowered borrowing costs are reflected in lower operating costs and finally in higher profits, assuming other factors remain in balance. The corporate stock outlook, therefore, is improved.

The immediate situation improves also, because stocks become relatively more attractive and fixed-income securities become less so. Money is siphoned from the bond to the stock market.

Billions of dollars that temporarily reside in credit markets are now being drawn toward the stock market, and the process might continue if interest rates drop. The process, while not automatic, happens quickly.

Today's market is much more institutionalized than markets of 15 years ago. While a quarter-point of interest might not make a tremendous difference to an individual, it can mean an enormous amount of money to a wealthy institution. Moreover, portfolio managers today are more inclined to move their money to where the action is, even though several studies suggest that quick shifting of that sort fails to pay off over the long term.

There are still dangers and plenty of them, despite the tremendous surge taken by the market during the first week of the new year. Can we be certain, for example, that the improved business climate will continue?

An aborted recovery would not be the first. Inflation still lingers, and those same eyes that watch the stock average and the interest rate glance warily at the inflation rate.

The factor of public confidence is involved. Individuals, who are still necessary to the market, take time to convince, especially after such problems as they encountered over the past decade or so.

And there is that matter of federal policy. That prime rate, for example, not only reflects existing and anticipated business conditions, but it is a measure also of Federal Reserve policy.

Fed policy has taken sudden switches before. At the moment, the trend seems to be for easier money, but with the fires of inflation still burning that could change before many months pass.

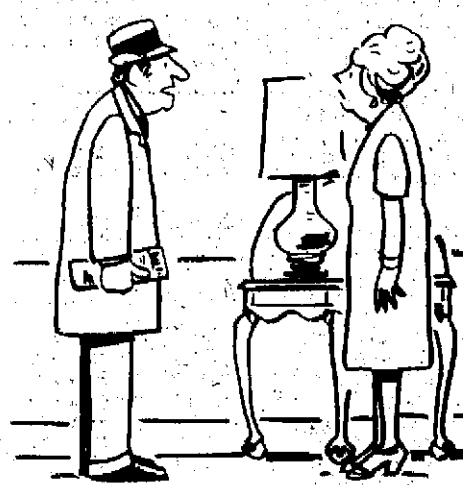

On the other hand — and there is always another hand, an alibi, an excuse, a rationale when you're dealing with stocks — this is an election year, and government policy generally supports expansion during such times.

But in the meantime, there are few measures of stock market and economic activity that offer so much information at a glance as the stock averages and the prime rate.

Help Make Days A Little Better

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Poet Robert Southey once wrote of a man who put on his spectacles when eating cherries, "so that they might look bigger and more tempting." The nation could use more of the people who make the most of their enjoyments.

The calendar has changed, but not the public melancholy. Gloom prevails, fear of the future seems seeded in the national soul, some academics believe America may be worrying itself into unprecedented peril.

In all of this disconsolation, there is at least one fellow who is urging an uplifting of the nation's spirit. Orville Kelly, age 45, husband of one and father of four, a fellow who puts on his spectacles before eating cherries. He preaches appreciation of life. The fact he is dying of cancer gives him solid credibility.

"Make the day count," he says, echoing again poet Southey who wrote that although the fortunate man is not able to cast his cares away, he can "pack them in as little as a compass" as convenience allows.

Kelly is the founder of Make The Day Count, an organization established to help the fatally ill face the realities of both their disease and their remaining time.

In all honesty, Kelly admits, he and the others were not always so wise about the human condition. A one-time newspaperman, Kelly says he spent most of his life not caring much about it.

In 1973 doctors informed Kelly he had terminal lymphoma, and gave him a statistical life expectancy of from six months to five years. He panicked at first, unbelieving, angry, terribly frightened. His wife panicked also, wandering his hospital looking for advice and understanding that were not forthcoming.

Eventually, both decided they were wasting time in grief. They gathered cancer victims together in Burlington, Iowa, all agreeing they weren't dead yet, that they still had things to do and appreciate, and Make The Day Count was born. There are now 50 chapters in 20 states.

The group's ideology is primarily geared to those who can count their days, but is equally suitable for those who can not. Says Kelly: "We stress the awareness of life. For everyone."

In a sense, Kelly indicates, it is probably more important that the well hear his message than the sick, the well being the majority and the stuff of the future. "If people would only learn what matters and what doesn't matter, I watch the television and read the news and see they are killing one another in Angola, killing one another in the streets of New York, and for what? I wonder if we could bring back the dead from Vietnam, what would they say about sacrificing for something already forgotten?"

The early Orville Kelly was like that. He says he was something of an SOB, which means he fit quite nicely in the workaday world. He neglected his wife, his kids, his friends, he couldn't spot a flower in a garden. "I suppose it's hard for most people to understand," he says, "and I certainly don't mean that I want to die, but I'd rather have the cancer than have to go back to being what I was before."

Ronald Reagan Given Advice

As Ronald Reagan descends upon New Hampshire in his quest for the presidency, I offer to him, free of charge, the following campaign themes. Should Reagan fail to pick them up, any other candidate is welcome to ride them all the way to 1800 Pennsylvania Avenue.

1. Taxes and Federal-state relations: Reagan is said to be newly vulnerable in New Hampshire because of his proposal to cut some $30 billion out of the Federal budget and allow the individual states to re-institute the canceled programs and raise the money for them if they so desire.

New Hampshire happens to be a tax paradise, with no state income tax and no sales tax, and Reagan's proposal supposedly would saddle the citizenry there with new and unwanted state taxes. But, Reagan could point out, the citizens of New Hampshire also pay a Federal income tax. A large reduction in the Federal budget, such as he proposes, would entail a sharply reduced Federal income tax.

The state of New Hampshire, like the other states, would then have the option of adopting what programs it chose, rather than having them sent up from Washington. As it is now, the citizens of New Hampshire are being taxed at the Federal level to support all sorts of programs on which they have had no say at all, many of which are of no interest to New Hampshire.

2. Foreign relations, and particularly detente. On detente, the rhetoric of both Henry Kissinger and his critics tends to be simplistic, though there are valid criticisms to be made of Kissinger's approach.

A good formulation in the present juncture might be to ask: In view of Kissinger's conduct of our relations with the Soviets, where have our traditional talents as "Yankee traders" disappeared to? Grain sales are popular in the farm belt and no one wants a nuclear war, but it is legitimate to demand that we get something in return for our largesse.

3. Defense policy. Reagan and other conservative candidates are correct to stress the gap that is opening up between U.S. and Soviet military power. But conservatives have made a mistake in merely coming out against cuts in the Pentagon budget. Too many Americans have served in the armed forces to believe the argument that the military is simply starved for funds. Millions of Americans have had first-hand experience of military waste, of armed forces top-heavy with brass, and of costly perquisites. The sort of criticisms offered by Senator William Proxmire often strikes a sympathetic cord.

In 1976, the theme should be a strong defense posture, but a lean one.

4. Busing. In 1976, the busing issue stands as a symbol of the entire social issue. Any candidate would be smart to attack both President Ford and Congress for inaction on this.

Senator Henry Jackson's proposal for a legislative solution, doubtless well intended, is an exercise in futility. Whatever the merits of the various features of the Jackson plan — decisions by a panel of three judges, a court determination of whether education would be improved or damaged by busing, etc. — nothing much would actually be changed. In fact, Jackson's approach might bring the Federal judiciary even more intrusively into the administration of local affairs.

5. Involvement. In the wake of Vietnam, there is a quiet but powerful current of nationalist feeling stirring in the country. Notice the overwhelmingly favorable public reaction to Daniel Moynihan's plain speaking at the UN.

By and large, the American people are fed up with the UN, with the Third World, and all the rest of it.

Were it left to me to decide whether we should have government without newspapers or newspapers without government, I should not hesitate to prefer the latter. — Thomas Jefferson.

Judicial Muddying Of A Muddy Question

In the American system the courts are the last resort for a citizen to resist arbitrary action by the government's legislative and executive branches, and to resolve a purely private controversy with another party.

Whether or not the appeal process is available or invoked, their decisions exude the finality which St. Peter exercises when scanning the record of a soul leaving earth for other realms.

For this reason the judges tend to take their time to explore every facet in the cases before them, to allow all parties a seemingly inexhaustible right of ancillary proceedings, and then when the last play has been run off, think long and carefully before rendering a decision.

By and large the system's fine grinding delivers a good result.

In some instances, however, the attention to niceties can be counterproductive.

The Reserve Mining Company dispute at Silver Bay, Minn., is a prime example of a sound theory delivering a questionable outcome.

Since 1955 the company has been at odds with the state governments of Minnesota, Wisconsin and Michigan over dumping of waste products into Lake Superior.

Reserve is a large producer of taconite iron ore pellets. Taconite is a low grade ore of about five per cent iron content. Following World War II, the engineers found a means to process the ore on a commercially feasible basis as a substitute for the richer ores from the famous Mesabi Range which the war's military requirements had exhausted.

Getting rid of the surplus rock is a major problem.

Reserve, at first with Minnesota's tacit consent, sluiced the material into the lake.

Currently about 67,000 tons a day are sent into the waters.

Eventually health authorities complained that asbestos fibers in waste material posed a cancer question, fishermen and shoreline residents raised wildlife and aesthetic arguments.

Negotiations between Reserve and the three state governments to find an alternate disposition on land dragged on inconclusively; and in 1972 the federal government filed suit in the federal district court at Minneapolis to halt the dumping.

In April, 1974, following prolonged testimony, Judge Miles Lord ordered Reserve to close the Silver Bay plant.

Two days later the Eighth Circuit Court of Appeals at St. Louis set aside the order and allowed Reserve to perfect its appeal.

Twice later in the same year, in July and October, the Supreme Court denied petitions from Minnesota, Wisconsin and Michigan to restore Judge Lord's order.

In mid-March of 1975 the Appeals Court issued a lengthy opinion conceding the health and environmental hazards created by the Silver Bay operation, and ordered Reserve and Minnesota to work out a mutually acceptable land site for dumping. Later in the same month the court declined to set a deadline on an effective implementation date.

Last week on its own volition the Appeals Court removed Judge Miles from the case saying he had turned into an advocate against Reserve and no longer was displaying judicial impartiality. The same order appointed a substitute trial judge to supervise the long stalled negotiations for the substitute dumping site.

The rare action does not lack for precedent and possibly the case would have not dragged on as it has if Judge Lord two years ago had tempered his shutdown order with a compliance date by Reserve.

The company's obstinence had a justification in prior years. Foreign steel was underselling U.S. mills and a multi-million investment for a different disposal system would only compound the economic difficulty at the manufacturing and selling levels.

The foreign mills lost their cost advantages over domestic producers a year ago.

Consequently the economic policy argument raised by Reserve against the public health and environment questions has lost much of its validity.

Having taken the initiative in the trial court's function, the Appeals Court should move now to implement its 1975 order to halt further damage to the lake and those about it.

BH Lifts 'Hiring Freeze' To Fill City Hall Vacancies

The Benton Harbor city commission last night voted unanimously to temporarily lift its hiring freeze of city employees to fill five vacant positions at city hall.

Positions to be filled were outlined as personnel director, water superintendent, mayor-commissioner secretary, and a city auditor and clerk-cashier for the city's finance department.

The commission had voted Dec. 29 to freeze all hiring, promotions and transfers of city employees in an attempt to save money for next year's budget.

Last week, however, City Atty. Yvonne Hughes issued an opinion calling the hiring freeze illegal because it conflicted with the charter which she said delegates the duties of hiring to the city manager.

The commission did not discuss Atty. Hughes' opinion on the hiring freeze last night, but Mayor Charles Joseph said after the meeting that he thought "her interpretation of the hiring freeze was hogwash."

The personnel director's post became vacant with the resignation of Ronald Momany. Momany was appointed manager of the Ross field airport by the Twin Cities Airport board Thursday. The commission last night "noted on record" Momany's resignation which becomes effective Jan. 29.

The city must hire a water superintendent to replace Jack M. Mulder, Sr., current superintendent who announced earlier that he was retiring from that post Feb. 29.

The post of secretary to the mayor and the commission became vacant Dec. 18 when Aquilla Wright resigned.

In other business, the commission voted unanimously to refuse the resignation of James Dudley, chairman of the recreation board. In a letter to the commission, Dudley said he was "forced to resign" when he became aware of "administrative and policy problems" within the recreation board. The commission agreed to meet with Dudley to air his grievances.

The commission directed Betty Smith, director of the Benton Harbor-Benton township senior citizens center, to meet with city officials to determine if the city will provide $2,388 she requested last night for the center.

Mrs. Smith appeared before the commission last night requesting the $2,388 to provide a portion of a 25 per cent local match so that she can receive $38,215 in federal funds.

Mrs. Smith said she needed the money because a $15,000 federal Community Development "urgent needs" grant slated for the senior citizens center has not been received to provide the local match.

The commission earlier approved $2,388 for one-quarter of the senior citizens operation and had voted to fund the center out of the city's contingency fund on a quarter-by-quarter basis.

The commission accepted a $5,000 donation from an anonymous donor to be used for a "mammoth" fireworks display July 4, 1976, for the city's celebration of the U.S. Bicentennial.

Mayor Charles Joseph said that he had been misquoted in The Herald-Palladium's account of the city commission last week. The Jan. 6 story in this newspaper had said Joseph had left the commission meeting to ask BNS Development Corp. officials, proposed developers of an apartment complex in Benton Harbor, if they would appear before the commission to answer recent charges against the company. Joseph said last night that both he and Commissioner Charles Yarbrough had left the commission meeting and that Yarbrough had asked the BNS officials to appear before the commission.

The developers declined to appear at the public meeting, but met later with commissioners in executive session.

City Clerk Evelyn Grenawitzke announced that a special election will be held throughout the city Monday to determine if Benton Harbor Cable Television, Inc., will receive a 15-year cable television franchise in the city. The franchise must be approved by three-fifths of the voters, she said, and the cost of holding the election will be borne by the cable television company.

SJ Commission Will Get Tax Proposal Next Week

St. Joseph city commissioners once again last night approved a subsidy for Action ambulance service, and learned that an amendment to the city charter to increase the property tax limit will be presented to them next week.

City Atty. A.G. Preston assured the commission that he would have the amendment to increase the property tax limit to the maximum 20 mills permitted under state law prepared in time for consideration at next week's meeting.

Presently the city's property tax limit for general operations is 13.9 mills as set by the 1928 city charter. The increase in millage was one of a number of recommendations made last week to the commission by a special finance committee.

Details of the millage increase and what it will mean were reported in the Jan. 6 edition of this newspaper.

If the commission approves the amendment it will be presented to voters for a simple majority approval. A vote on the amendment could come in April.

Commission approval of a referendum for a charter change is required at least 60 days before the election can be held on the issue.

In other business last night the commission approved a subsidy of $10,574.44 per year be paid to Action ambulance as the city's share as part of a corporation consisting of five area municipalities.

Last year the commissioners approved paying about $8,250 per year to Action as part of a seven-unit corporation. Since then two members of the corporation, Benton Harbor and Benton township, have dropped out of the plan leaving the City of St. Joseph, and the townships of St. Joseph, Royalton, Lincoln and Sodus as members of the corporation.

Under the seven-unit corporation Action was to receive a total subsidy of about $53,000. The five-unit corporation will drop the total subsidy to $38,000 per year.

City Managers G.W. Hepler emphasized that St. Joseph, St. Joseph township and Lincoln township, the three largest municipalities in the corporation, will all pay about $10,000 each per year. He said, "I still think it's a bargain. The city by itself couldn't do as well."

Improvement of all five municipalities is required before a contract between the corporation and Action goes into effect. St. Joseph was the first to approve last night.

The commission also passed a resolution at the request of the Twin City Chamber of Commerce to support either of two US-31 relocation alternatives that run to the west of Berrien Springs.

The chamber requested that the resolution be sent to the state highway department. The chamber, in a letter signed by Executive Vice President Roger Curry, said the two westerly alternatives would tend to direct traffic getting off at Berrien Springs back toward the Twin Cities. According to the chamber, if an alternate to the east of Berrien Springs were selected, traffic would be headed toward Niles-South Bend.

Hepler said the chamber is asking other area municipalities to pass similar resolutions and send them on to the highway department.

Also last night the commission —Accepted a planning commission recommendation to deny a request by Dave Flister to have property at 819 Myrtle avenue rezoned from single family dwelling to zoning that would permit construction of a professional building.

—Learned that an earlier request by Dr. Gene Stout for a special use permit for property at 1401 Wolcott avenue had been withdrawn by Stout.

—Accepted the low of two bids ($3,138.78) by Ridge & Kramer Supply Co., St. Joseph, for a steam cleaner to clean machinery for the public works department. The second bid was $4,960 by the Clayton Manufacturing Co., Southfield.

Dr. King Honored In BH

Benton Harbor Mayor Charles F. Joseph last night proclaimed Thursday a day of special observance in Benton Harbor in honor of the birthday of Martin Luther King Jr.

Joseph read a portion of King's noted "I Had A Dream" speech in proclaiming the day in honor of the slain civil rights leader at the city commission meeting last night. King was assassinated in Memphis on April 4, 1968.

"He was a man who gave much to all people and especially minorities. But he gave to all," Joseph said. The observance was particularly special, Joseph said, in view of the fact that it is also the observance of the nation's 200th anniversary.

Fire Officers Are Chosen At Hartford

HARTFORD — Harold Walker Jr., has been re-elected chief of the Hartford fire department at the department's recent annual meeting.

Other officers re-elected were Elmer Hadley, assistant chief, and Peter Sinclair, captain. Newly elected officers include Paul Markille, lieutenant; Donald Woodward, secretary-treasurer; and Richard Robbins, sergeant.

Fire Hits Residence In Benton

Benton township firemen said the living room at the Mike Martin residence, 1482 Rose avenue, was extensively damaged by fire this morning. Firemen reported the 7:37 a.m. fire apparently started in a closet in the room, but the cause is undetermined. No one was injured, firemen indicated.

Home Owner Denies Heater 'Explosion'

Lonnie Smith of 418 Bridgman avenue, Benton township, told this newspaper this morning there was no fire or fire damage caused from a malfunctioning oil space heater in his home Saturday night.

Smith said a pipe came loose and soot came out, but that there was no explosion.

It was reported in this newspaper Monday that township firemen extinguished a small fire and five young children were found unattended, while their parents were reported at a church choir practice.

The fire department today said its report lists the situation at the home as "explosion, no fire." L. William Klemm said the report says the explosion blew the pipe off a wall. The report was signed by L. Harold Durham, Klemm said. The report lists the probable cause as lack of maintenance. Klemm said.

Robbed For Drugs, Ex-Con Tells Judge

By SCOTT WILLIAMSON
Staff Writer

An ex-convict who pleaded guilty to robbing a St. Joseph jewelry store told a Berrien Circuit court judge he pulled the hookup to get money for drugs.

The confession came yesterday during a re-arraignment for Robert Lee Williams, 34, of Lansing, who pleaded guilty before Judge Julian E. Hughes to one charge of armed robbery.

Williams admitted to Hughes he is a heroin addict, and said he robbed Green's Jewelers, at 315 State street, to get money for drugs.

Williams was remanded to the county jail following arraignment to await sentencing of up to life imprisonment. The prosecutor's office said four other armed robbery charges against Williams will be dismissed.

Two co-defendants in the St. Joseph jewelry store robbery, Rolanda Carter, 20, and Diane Stokes, 22, previously pleaded innocent to one charge of armed robbery each and are awaiting trial.

Williams pleaded guilty to robbing Robert Green, owner of the store, of more than $7,000 worth of rings and about $251 in cash and checks on Nov. 28 at gunpoint.

He was also accused of robbing Patrolman Max Keschull of his service revolver during the robbery at the St. Joseph store. That charge, along with three others in connection with a Nov. 3 armed robbery at Rees Jewelry store in Buchanan in which $20,251 in cash and jewelry were allegedly stolen, will all be dismissed, Asst. Prosecutor Jeff Long reported.

Royalton Approves New Drain District

Royalton township board last night gave its approval to the establishment of the K and K drainage district.

The proposed drain would be just off the Scottdale and Lincoln roads intersection, according to Otto Jasper, township clerk.

He said the proposed drainage district will now go to the Berrien county drain commissioner office for a feasibility study before being forwarded to a board of determination.

The board also authorized a partial payment of $1,000 to the Tri-Unit fire department as part of the township's subsidy and authorized the expenditure of not more than $300 for the purchase of a map display rack at the township hall.

SJ Test Results Decline From 4th To 8th Grade

St. Joseph public school students excel in mathematics and reading comprehension, but are falling short in spelling and punctuation, the board of education was told Monday night.

And according to one standard achievement test, there is a progressive decline in student performance from grades four through eight.

Composite results for all areas in the Iowa Test of Basic Skills ranged from an 83 percentile mark for fourth graders down to 38 for Upton junior high eighth graders and 52 for Milton junior high's eighth grade.

This means that St. Joseph fourth graders ranked above 82 per cent of all students taking the test nationwide, while eighth graders at Milton ranked above only 51 per cent.

Results of the Iowa test and the Michigan Assessment Test were reported to the board by Daly Macgrayne, curriculum coordinator for the district. Both tests were given last October — the Iowa test to all students in grades 4-8 and the Michigan test to students in grades 4 and 7.

The report produced considerable discussion on the merits of teaching social behavior and promoting extra-curricular activities compared with stressing the basics of grammar.

The board took no action, but agreed to await reports from several committees working toward a district-wide curriculum program. The effort to establish curriculum priorities is expected to be completed next fall.

A breakdown of Iowa test scores by subject showed that eighth graders at both Milton and Upton junior high schools ranked only in the 27th percentile in punctuation. Fourth graders were in the 44th percentile.

In spelling, fourth graders were in the 69th percentile, while eighth graders at both junior high schools were in the 43rd percentile.

In other areas, such as use of graphs, fourth graders were in the 95th percentile, while eighth graders at Milton and Upton schools were in the 66th percentile.

In vocabulary, fourth graders were in the 85th percentile while eighth graders at Milton school were in the 65th percentile and those at Upton were in the 61st percentile.

In the Michigan test, fourth graders in math scored 95 per cent or better in 25 of the 30 objectives. The objectives ranged from indicating objects of the same size to identifying temperatures.

Macgrayne said percentages, rather than percentiles, are used in the Michigan test. The percentage shows how close the students came to objectives set by the state department of education, but does not compare their scores with other schools. Fourth graders in reading scored 80 per cent or better in 16 of 19 categories objectives. These included matching words with definitions and matching quotations from stories with the speakers.

Seventh graders in math scored 80 per cent or higher in 26 of 40 objectives, and hit 100 per cent in identifying arabic numerals and over 90 per cent in various addition and subtraction objectives.

In nearly all areas, students exceeded state objectives sought and improved from the district's test scores last year.

The Iowa test is geared to grammar basics and has been given since 1961 in its present form. The Michigan test was the third to be given. It stresses minimal performances in tasks geared to reading and math.

The school board in other areas last night approved an agreement with Peoples Savings association, Benton Harbor, to enable the vocational education students to construct and sell a house. The project is an annual one. This year's house will be built on a lot at 1562 Old Hickory lane, St. Joseph township. A $28,000 mortgage loan is interest free and is to be repaid from sale of the house.

The board approved an increase in rent charged by the First United Methodist church, St. Joseph, for the use of five rooms for Gard special education programs. The increase is from $2,000 per room per year to $2,500. The total cost for the second semester will be $6,250.

Mrs. Mary Wilhelmson, principal of Gard school, was named for additional duties as Title 9 coordinator for the district. There will be no additional pay, it was reported. The post is required by the federal Department of Health, Education and Welfare under a Title 9 program aimed at a complete non-discriminatory policy in all areas of education in the district.

BH Lifts 'Hiring Freeze' To Fill City Hall Vacancies

The Benton Harbor city commission last night voted unanimously to temporarily lift its hiring freeze of city employees to fill five vacant positions at city hall.

Positions to be filled were outlined as personnel director, water superintendent, mayor-commission secretary, and a city auditor and clerk-cashier for the city's finance department.

The commission had voted Dec. 29 to freeze all hiring, promotions and transfers of city employees in an attempt to save money for next year's budget.

Last week, however, City Atty. Yvonne Hughes issued an opinion calling the hiring freeze illegal because it conflicted with the charter which she said delegates the duties of hiring to the city manager.

The commission did not discuss Atty. Hughes' opinion on the hiring freeze last night, but Mayor Charles Joseph said after the meeting that he thought "her interpretation of the hiring freeze was hogwash."

The personnel director's post became vacant with the resignation of Ronald Momany. Momany was appointed manager of the Ross field airport by the Twin Cities Airport board Thursday. The commission last night "noted on record" Momany's resignation which becomes effective Jan. 29.

The city must hire a water superintendent to replace Jack M. Mulder, Sr., current superintendent who announced earlier that he was retiring from that post Feb. 29.

The post of secretary to the mayor and the commission became vacant Dec. 18 when Aquilla Wright resigned.

In other business, the commission voted unanimously to refuse the resignation of James Dudley, chairman of the the recreation board. In a letter to the commission, Dudley said he was "forced to resign" when he became aware of "administrative and policy problems" within the recreation board. The commission agreed to meet with Dudley to air his grievances.

The commission directed Betty Smith, director of the Benton Harbor-Benton township senior citizens center, to meet with city officials to determine if the city will provide $2,388 she requested last night for the center.

Mrs. Smith appeared before the commission last night requesting the $2,388 to provide a portion of a 25 per cent local match so that she can receive $38,215 in federal funds.

Mrs. Smith said she needed the money because a $15,000 federal Community Development "urgent needs" grant slated for the senior citizens center has not been received to provide the local match.

The commission earlier approved $2,388 for one-quarter of the senior citizens operation and had voted to fund the center out of the city's contingency fund on a quarter-by-quarter basis.

The commission accepted a $5,000 donation from an anonymous donor to be used for a "mammoth" fireworks display July 4, 1976, for the city's celebration of the U.S. Bicentennial.

Mayor Charles Joseph said that he had been misquoted in The Herald-Palladium's account of the city commission last week. The Jan. 6 story in this newspaper had said Joseph had left the commission meeting to ask BNS Development Corp. officials, proposed developers of an apartment complex in Benton Harbor, if they would appear before the commission to answer recent charges against the company. Joseph said last night that both he and Commissioner Charles Yarbrough had left the commission meeting and that Yarbrough had asked the BNS officials to appear before the commission.

The developers declined to appear at the public meeting, but met later with commissioners in executive session.

City Clerk Evelyn Grenawitzke announced that a special election will be held throughout the city Monday to determine if Benton Harbor Cable Television, Inc., will receive a 15-year cable television franchise in the city. The franchise must be approved by three-fifths of the voters, she said, and the cost of holding the election will be borne by the cable television company.

SJ Commission Will Get Tax Proposal Next Week

St. Joseph city commissioners once again last night approved a subsidy for Action ambulance service and learned that an amendment to the city charter to increase the property tax limit will be presented to them next week.

City Atty. A.G. Preston assured the commission that he would have the amendment to increase the property tax limit to the maximum 20 mills permitted under state law prepared in time for consideration at next week's meeting.

Presently the city's property tax limit for general operations is 13.9 mills as set by the 1928 city charter. The increase in millage was one of a number of recommendations made last week to the commission by a special finance committee.

Details of the millage increase and what it will mean were reported in the Jan. 6 edition of this newspaper.

If the commission approves the amendment it will be presented to voters for a simple majority approval. A vote on the amendment could come in April.

Commission approval of a referendum for a charter change is required at least 60 days before the election can be held on the issue.

In other business last night the commission approved a subsidy of $10,374.44 per year be paid to Action ambulance as the city's share as part of a corporation consisting of five area municipalities.

Last year the commissioners approved paying about $8,250 per year to Action as part of a seven-unit corporation. Since then two members of the corporation, Benton Harbor and Benton township, have dropped out of the plan leaving the City of St. Joseph, and the townships of St. Joseph, Royalton, Lincoln and Sodus as members of the corporation.

Under the seven-unit corporation Action was to receive a total subsidy of about $53,000. The five-unit corporation will drop the total subsidy to $36,090 per year.

City Managers G.W. Heppler emphasized that St. Joseph, St. Joseph township and Lincoln township, the three largest municipalities in the corporation, will all pay about $10,000 each per year. He said, "I still think it's a bargain. The city by itself couldn't do as well."

'MILLIE FROM TRIPLE A' Looks For Challenges

MILUSKA MAURER-MURAGLIA

By SAN DEE WALLACE
Staff Writer

Challenge is a way of life for Miluska Maurer-Muraglia.

The former Czech refugee has faced with confidence many ordeals and hardships and is now looking toward still another challenge.

Known as "Millie from Triple A," she will leave her job of 17 years at the Benton Harbor office of the Automobile club of Michigan Jan. 16 to begin a new phase in her life.

Millie, who resides in New Buffalo, has been the office supervisor at the Benton Harbor office for the past 11 years.

But in 1949, she was a young woman fleeing from the Communists in her native Czechoslovakia.

There were so many close calls in her flight to freedom, that when she looks back she calls them miracles.

Millie's husband, an Italian, was a prisoner of war in Czechoslovakia. When he was released, he was taken by the Communists to Austria, from where he returned to Italy.

Then a legal secretary, Millie said she tried for six months to get permission to leave Czechoslovakia to join her husband, but permission was refused.

She finally sold a car to raise the money to pay a man who said he could get her across the border. His price was 80,000 crowns, or about 10,000 American dollars.

She was to take a train from Prague to the border. She was told to take only what she was wearing, to wear a babyushka (a head scarf) and to carry only a shopping bag as if she were going shopping. She was also told to purchase five kilograms of sugar for the people on the other side of the border.

When she went to meet the man he was in a bar and had had too much to drink. They waited until dark and started walking down the street when they met two border policemen on bicycles. When the police were out of sight, they headed for the woods.

They had to walk all night and at times through waist-high water. It was the first of November and the freezing temperatures made travel all the more difficult.

Because of the guide's condition, she said, when they came out of the woods they were at the wrong village — one where the Communists were in control. They had to walk six more kilometers to reach the right village.

When they arrived, she was told she would have to wait in the back room of the restaurant for three days until the guide returned with three more refugees before transportation to Vienna could be arranged.

As she waited she became uneasy and early in the morning of the third day she set off on her own for Vienna. She felt she would be all right because she could speak German. She took a bus and when she arrived at the train station, there were Russian soldiers on the train platform.

After arriving in Vienna, she went straight to the police station and told them she was in the country illegally. Their only reaction was to tell her to pay a fine of 44 shillings (about $2) and gave her a receipt for her to use as her identification.

She took a room in a hotel half-destroyed by bombs in central Vienna and later learned the section was controlled by all Four Powers. She contacted her husband and then waited.

The first night, the French came to the door asking for identification.

The second night, the British came to the door.

The afternoon of the third day, her husband arrived and that night when the Russians came to the door, he answered and showed them his papers.

She says, if she had waited for the guide her husband would not have been there in time and she would have been there alone when the Russians came.

And — later she learned that the guide and the three other refugees had been caught by the border police.

The couple stayed in Vienna for three months and then went to Innsbruck. Because her father had had a City of Vienna citizenship certificate, she was later able to obtain an Austrian passport and they went to Rome.

When she fled, she had to leave behind her year-old daughter, Annamaria, but later was able to bring her to Italy.

Millie said they lived in the Naples area, but there were no jobs and they decided to emigrate to Caracas, Venezuela. Again, she said, they had to leave the daughter behind. There were so many goodbyes, Millie said.

She was a foreigner in every country in which she lived and when they were in Venezuela could only find menial jobs. She worked as a cook, maid, cleaning woman and child's nurse.

Her daughter joined her in Venezuela and after three years in that country, they came to the United States in 1955. They moved to Chicago, where she worked as a sales clerk until she went to work for a travel agency, beginning her career as a travel agent.

When Millie came to the United States, she was not able to speak English, but now speaks English, German, Czechoslovakian, Italian and Spanish.

She came to Benton Harbor in 1958 and says she has made many friends in Berrien county.

Millie was born in Budweis (Ceske Budejovice) in southern Bohemia and moved later with her family to Prague, where most of her family still resides.

As a travel agent, she has traveled throughout most of the world, including South America, the Orient, Europe, India and the Middle East. Last year, she went to Alaska and once even took a raft trip on the Colorado river.

She has been back to Czechoslovakia three times. The first time was in 1968 when she stayed a week. She said she had to register with the police and was uneasy about it. She has been two other times with tours.

She says, "I have enjoyed my job here, and most of all, I have enjoyed helping people."

A vivacious woman, she gets irritated, however, when someone tells her a problem can't be solved. That's when she likes to dig in and solve the problem.

Her future plans are uncertain, but she will move to Los Angeles, where perhaps, she will begin a small business of her own.

She says she is looking for something challenging and something to keep her active.

Both in her past experiences and in her future outlook, her philosophy remains the same — there is always a way out and everything is possible.

Some Revolution Stories Proving To Be Fiction

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP News Features Writer

Practically everybody knows that Betsy Ross designed the first flag at the request of George Washington; Molly Pitcher was a battlefield heroine, and Paul Revere made his famous ride to Concord shouting a warning that the "British are coming."

But a lot of fiction got mixed in with a little bit of fact, says historian Virginus Dabney, editor of a commemorative book, "The Patriots," which excludes the three in its essays of 50 leading patriots of the Revolutionary era.

"Betsy may have designed the flag, but there is no documentary evidence that she did. It wasn't until the 1870s that her grandson made the claim that Washington had asked her to do it."

As for Molly Pitcher — true, she did bring water to soothe the fevered soldiers on the battlefield of Monmouth, but that exploit "hardly qualifies her for heroism," Dabney contends.

Paul Revere's ride was a figment of Longfellow's imagination, Dabney went on. "If you want an example of Longfellow's poetic license, read 'The Wreck of the Hesperus' which wasn't wrecked at all. In fact, historical evidence shows that Revere was captured by the British before he got to Concord, and that the Americans saw the famous signal in the tower of Old North Church before Revere had even mounted his horse."

Setting the record straight is one thing the book is all about, insists Dabney, who won a Pulitzer Prize in 1948 for his editorials. Leading historians, editors, writers and other authorities are among the contributors to the book. These include Kingman Brewster Jr., president of Yale; historian Bruce Catton; Henry Cabot Lodge, former United States senator and ambassador to the United Nations; William Buckley Jr., author and editor. The introductory essay was written by the famous historian, Henry Steele Commager.

The book aims to provide an accurate account of the people who provided leadership during the revolutionary era. As we get into the Bicentennial there will be a lot of distortion of real facts in the deluge of published material, Dabney declares. Some authors will write for sensationalism.

"The Patriots" isn't a total loss for women. Two of the three named in the book, Abigail Adams and Mercy Warren, were "pioneer feminists." They were way ahead of their time, Dabney insists, "in advocating that women should be treated on a par with men."

When the Declaration of Independence was coming up, Abigail asked her husband "...to remember the ladies and be more generous and favorable to them than your ancestors..."

Mercy Warren, a poet and playwright, wrote a three-volume history of the Revolution that was published in 1805. She and Abigail were friends who had similar interests and corresponded with each other.

"And of course there is Martha Washington, who was not an intellectual as the other two, but was a strong character, and a great help to George. It was a big ordeal, a week's trip, to travel from Mount Vernon to Washington's winter headquarters each year."

There was a real heroine of the battlefields, but she came to light too late for inclusion in the book Dabney explained. She was Deborah Samson, who enrolled in the Continental Army, participated in the battle of Yorktown and attempted to treat her own wounds. The doctors discovered the soldier was a she. Dabney, who was editor of the Richmond Times-Dispatch from 1938 to 1960, has served as president of the American Society of Newspaper Editors and has received many awards. He is author of a number of books and since 1971 has been chairman of the United States Bicentennial Society, a non-governmental agency which commissioned the book.

R IS SLEEPING SICKNESS STILL AROUND?

Yes it is according to public health officials who are worried that outbreaks of encephalitis could be spreading. Encephalitis is a mosquito-borne virus. Its symptoms include headache, lethargy, dizziness, stiff neck, nausea and fever. In its most virulent form it attacks the brain and may produce coma and possibly death.

Though the symptoms of the virus have been pinned down, there is no specific treatment or vaccine. Health authorities still consider the best protection to be a strong mosquito control program. Do not hesitate to consult a doctor if the symptoms of encephalitis are present.

'MILLIE FROM TRIPLE A' Looks For Challenges

MILUSKA MAUER-MURAGLIA

By SAN DEE WALLACE
Staff Writer

Challenge is a way of life for Miluska Mauer-Muraglia.

The former Czech refugee has faced with confidence many ordeals and hardships and is now looking toward still another challenge.

Known as "Millie from Triple A," she will leave her job of 17 years at the Benton Harbor office of the Automobile club of Michigan Jan. 16 to begin a new phase in her life.

Millie, who resides in New Buffalo, has been the office supervisor at the Benton Harbor office for the past 11 years.

But in 1949, she was a young woman fleeing from the Communists in her native Czechoslovakia.

There were so many close calls in her flight to freedom, that when she looks back she calls them miracles.

Millie's husband, an Italian, was a prisoner of war in Czechoslovakia. When he was released, he was taken by the Communists to Austria, from where he returned to Italy.

Then a legal secretary, Millie said she tried for six months to get permission to leave Czechoslovakia to join her husband, but permission was refused.

She finally sold a car to raise the money to pay a man who said he could get her across the border. His price was 90,000 crowns, or about 10,000 American dollars.

She was to take a train from Prague to the border. She was told to take only what she was wearing, to wear a babushka (a head scarf) and to carry only a shopping bag as if she were going shopping. She was also told to purchase five kilograms of sugar for the people on the other side of the border.

When she went to meet the man he was in a bar and had had too much to drink. They waited until dark and started walking down the street when they met two border policemen on bicycles. When the police were out of sight, they headed for the woods.

They had to walk all night and at times through waist-high water. It was the first of November and the freezing temperatures made travel all the more difficult.

Because of the guide's condition, she said, when they came out of the woods they were at the wrong village — one where the Communists were in control. They had to walk six more kilometers to reach the right village.

When they arrived, she was told she would have to wait in the back room of the restaurant for three days until the guide returned with three more refugees before transportation to Vienna could be arranged.

As she waited she became uneasy and early in the morning of the third day she set off on her own for Vienna. She felt she would be all right because she could speak German. She took a bus and when she arrived at the train station, there were Russian soldiers on the train platform.

After arriving in Vienna, she went straight to the police station and told them she was in the country illegally. Their only reaction was to tell her to pay a fine of 44 shillings (about $2) and gave her a receipt for her to use as her identification.

She took a room in a hotel half-destroyed by bombs in central Vienna and later learned the section was controlled by all Four Powers. She contacted her husband and then waited.

The first night, the French came to the door asking for identification.

The second night, the British came to the door.

The afternoon of the third day, her husband arrived and that night when the Russians came to the door, he answered and showed them his papers.

She says, if she had waited for the guide her husband would not have been there in time and she would have been there alone when the Russians came.

And — later she learned that the guide and the three other refugees had been caught by the border police.

The couple stayed in Vienna for three months and then went to Innsbruck. Because her father had had a City of Vienna citizenship certificate, she was later able to obtain an Austrian passport and they went to Rome.

When she fled, she had to leave behind her year-old daughter, Annamaria, but later was able to bring her to Italy.

Millie said they lived in the Naples area, but there were no jobs and they decided to emigrate to Caracas, Venezuela. Again, she said, they had to leave the daughter behind. There were so many goodbyes, Millie said.

She was a foreigner in every country in which she lived and when they were in Venezuela could only find menial jobs. She worked as a cook, maid, cleaning woman and child's nurse.

Her daughter joined her in Venezuela and after three years in that country, they came to the United States in 1955. They moved to Chicago, where she worked as a sales clerk until she went to work for a travel agency, beginning her career as a travel agent.

When Millie came to the United States, she was not able to speak English, but now speaks English, German, Czechoslovakian, Italian and Spanish.

She came to Benton Harbor in 1958 and says she has made many friends in Berrien county.

Millie was born in Budweis (Ceske Budejovice) in southern Bohemia and moved later with her family to Prague, where most of her family still resides.

As a travel agent, she has traveled throughout most of the world, including South America, the Orient, Europe, India and the Middle East. Last year, she went to Alaska and once even took a raft trip on the Colorado river.

She has been back to Czechoslovakia three times. The first time was in 1966 when she stayed a week. She said she had to register with the police and was uneasy about it. She has been two other times with tours.

She says, "I have enjoyed my job here, and most of all, I have enjoyed helping people."

A vivacious woman, she gets irritated, however, when someone tells her a problem can't be solved. That's when she likes to dig in and solve the problem.

Her future plans are uncertain, but she will move to Los Angeles, where perhaps, she will begin a small business of her own.

She says she is looking for something challenging and something to keep her active.

Both in her past experiences and in her future outlook, her philosophy remains the same — there is always a way out and everything is possible.

Prepare Elegant Brunch

A brunch is as grand a time as any to entertain elegantly. Broiled rib eye steaks extend hospitality graciously.

The night before, place six rib eye steaks, cut one-half to three-fourth inch thick, in glass dish. Add one teaspoon dried sweet basil and one small clove minced garlic to three-fourth cup red wine; pour over steaks, cover and marinate in refrigerator overnight, turning occasionally.

In the morning place marinated steaks on rack of broiler pan so that the top of meat is two to three inches from heat. Broil four to six minutes, sprinkle with salt and pepper and turn. Continue broiling another five minutes for rare, eight to 10 minutes for medium.

Planning Wedding

Her fiancé is a graduate of L.C. Mohr high school and is engaged in farming.

Same Name Creates Problems

By JOHN M. WILLIS
Associated Press Writer

OMAHA, Neb. (AP) — Relax America, one of your favorite homemakers, Betty Crocker, is alive and well, and baking cakes and other goodies in her David City, Neb., home.

Several months ago the legend of Betty Crocker, a General Mills trademark for more than a half century, was shattered. The company acknowledged that Betty wasn't for real, but a made-up person.

According to John Wickland of Minneapolis, a spokesman for General Mills, Betty Crocker was created in 1921.

Wickland said Crocker was the last name of a popular member of the board of General Mills' predecessor company, and Betty was a "good American name." So the company put them together, using the name to sign company responses to questions from homemakers.

The same year, 1921, Betty Jane Grogan was born in Chicago, and 28 years ago she married Donald A. Crocker, thus becoming "Betty Crocker."

"I just claim the name, but not the fame, but my cakes are as good as hers," said the true-life, flesh and blood Betty Crocker.

However, Mrs. Crocker has been having problems because of her name, especially since the General Mills announcement.

"Today was just a little bit too much to take," said Mrs. Crocker after getting nine telephone calls from pranksters. The calls have become so numerous that Mrs. Crocker has resorted to leaving the phone off the hook. She rejects the idea of getting an unlisted number, but she has entertained thoughts of a name change.

The calls don't just come from persons in Nebraska, but from other states as well. Mrs. Crocker can't figure out how the callers are getting her number, but she wishes they would stop calling at all hours of the day and night.

So far, the callers have been nice. About the worst one was when one caller asked Mrs. Crocker how her crumbs were.

Betty says she likes to talk with the unknown callers, but that it gets very tiring after a while.

"It does get irritating. I don't want to be a complainer, but I do get tired of it once in a while," she said.

Despite her famous name and a good hand in the kitchen, Mrs. Crocker has never won a cooking contest, in fact she's never entered one — because of her name.

But Mrs. Crocker has made the most of her name, and gets a kick out of some of the odd looks she gets.

Two of her prized possessions are buttons given to her by friends. One reads, "Betty Crocker Week," the other says "Betty Crocker for Sheriff."

Prepare Elegant Brunch

A brunch is as grand a time as any to entertain elegantly. Broiled rib eye steaks extend hospitality graciously.

The night before, place six rib eye steaks, cut one-half to three-fourth inch thick, in glass dish. Add one teaspoon dried sweet basil and one small clove minced garlic to three-fourth cup red wine; pour over steaks, cover and marinate in refrigerator overnight, turning occasionally.

In the morning place marinated steaks on rack of broiler pan so that the top of meat is two to three inches from heat. Broil four to six minutes, sprinkle with salt and pepper and turn. Continue broiling another five minutes for rare, eight to 10 minutes for medium.

Planning Wedding

A February wedding is planned.

Same Name Creates Problems

By JOHN M. WILLIS
Associated Press Writer
OMAHA, Neb. (AP) — Relax America, one of your favorite homemakers, Betty Crocker, is alive and well, and baking cakes and other goodies in her David City, Neb., home.

Several months ago the legend of Betty Crocker, a General Mills trademark for more than a half century, was shattered. The company acknowledged that Betty wasn't for real, but a made-up person.

According to John Wickland of Minneapolis, a spokesman for General Mills, Betty Crocker was created in 1921.

Wickland said Crocker was the last name of a popular member of the board of General Mills' predecessor company, and Betty was a "good American name." So the company put them together, using the name to sign company responses to questions from homemakers.

The same year, 1921, Betty Jane Grogan was born in Chicago, and 28 years ago she married Donald A. Crocker, thus becoming "Betty Crocker."

"I just claim the name, but not the fame, but my cakes are as good as hers," said the true-life, flesh and blood Betty Crocker.

However, Mrs. Crocker has been having problems because of her name, especially since the General Mills announcement.

"Today was just a little bit too much to take," said Mrs. Crocker after getting nine telephone calls from pranksters. The calls have become so numerous that Mrs. Crocker has resorted to leaving the phone off the hook. She rejects the idea of getting an unlisted number, but she has entertained thoughts of a name change.

The calls don't just come from persons in Nebraska, but from other states as well. Mrs. Crocker can't figure out how the callers are getting her number, but she wishes they would stop calling at all hours of the day and night.

So far, the callers have been nice. About the worst one was when one caller asked Mrs. Crocker how her crumbs were.

Betty says she likes to talk with the unknown callers, but that it gets very tiring after a while.

"It does get irritating. I don't want to be a complainer, but I do get tired of it once in a while," she said.

Despite her famous name and a good hand in the kitchen, Mrs. Crocker has never won a cooking contest, in fact she's never entered one — because of her name.

But Mrs. Crocker has made the most of her name, and gets a kick out of some of the odd looks she gets.

'Your Problems' By Ann Landers

Flame Still Burns At 64

Dear Ann Landers: I've been reading letters from women who think sex should end at 50. May I share my experience with them?

My husband is 61 and I am almost 64. We have been married only five months. My man could give some of those young fellows lessons on love. Most "frigid" women could be cured by his method.

For one thing, he still makes his living by hard physical labor and comes home covered with tar, sawdust and other disagreeable substances. Before we go to bed he bathes, shaves, uses a good deodorant and puts on clean night clothes. He doesn't drink anything stronger than coffee.

When we retire, I lie quietly in his arms and we discuss the day's activities or our past lives. I'd been a widow for six years and never believed I would ever be able to enjoy sex again. But the combination of my love for him and a chance to relax before love-making has proved miraculous.

Husbands sometimes forget that women are not as easily aroused as men. Young wives who rattle with children all day or are worn out from housework or a second job, need a quiet time before they can respond to their husbands. Many husbands find fault with their wives at the supper table and then expect them to be ready for romance the moment the lights go out. My husband compliments my cooking and my hair style. These things help me forget I am almost 64. Our love grows stronger every day. Please sign me — Young At Heart.

Dear Heart: Beautiful! Your husband sounds like a prize — and so do you. I'm glad you found each other. Bless you both.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Try again today to get in touch with people who have been on your mind lately, but with whom you haven't been able to make connections.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Be alert for ways to add to your finances today. A bright, profitable idea you've overlooked may occur to you.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) You should be a good self-starter today. Don't delay by waiting for the slowpokes to wake up.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) If you have any work of a mental nature to do today, select a quiet, secluded area to operate in. Interruptions will derail your train of thought.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Be a good listener today. Someone will have valuable information to impart. You'll want to get the whole drift of it.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Don't be fearful of putting your ideas to the test today. You won't know how good they are unless you try them on others.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22) Your curiosity is an asset today. Read a good book or bring yourself up to date on current topics. You have excellent retention.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 22) Perhaps your most gainful area today will be in situations where you share an interest — most especially where a profit motive is involved.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) If you look closely at situations today, you'll find each has several alternatives. Weight them carefully.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Today you perform well with co-workers, provided all parties are willing to carry their weight. Bring others into the picture.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) You should have a pleasurable day. You'll be in a chummy mood. Others will enjoy you as much as you'll dote on their company.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20) Resourcefulness is your prime asset today. You may even

By Oswald & James Jacoby
North's three-club call was the Jacoby transfer and South dutifully bid three diamonds. When North continued to three notrump, South knew that his partner was interested in a slam. Without slam interest North would simply have bid three notrump directly.

South's four clubs and North's four hearts were cue bids. South was tempted to bid six notrump, but was wise enough to settle for six diamonds.

There was very little to the play. South won the club lead in dummy, knocked out the ace of diamonds and claimed — since he could discard one of dummy's spades on a high club.

Six notrump would fall one trick short. South could only come in 11 tricks with the spade finesse off.

Also, if North had played six diamonds a spade lead would have cooked his goose since clubs divided 5-2 and the spade finesse was off.

Ask the Jacobys

A Texas reader wants to know if you must continue to game after a forcing two bid and a bust response.

The answer is that the rules of bridge allow you to pass any time it is your turn to bid. However, if you do pass short of game and make game, be ready to explain why to your partner.

Schedule Library Films

The preschool story hour at the Benton Harbor library will feature the filmstrip, "The Three Billy Goats Gruff," when it meets from 10 to 10:45 a.m. Wednesday, Jan. 14.

All Benton Harbor children ages three to five are invited.

Films to be shown for children at 4 p.m. Friday, Jan. 16, will include "Our Wife," a Laurel and Hardy classic when Ollie gets married; "Ski Wheelers," a group of kids turn their skills into roller skates and cause destruction to everything around them; and "Farout, The Little Clown," a child's toy room comes alive at night while the little clown does tricks for his audience.

At 2 p.m., Saturday, Jan. 17, the library will host the Children's International Festival. All area children are invited to the event which will use the theme, "Brotherhood." In films, songs, and a puppet show. Refreshments will be served.

The Children's Room invites teachers and group leaders to bring their classes for a tour of the library. Those interested are asked to call ahead so proper arrangements can be made.

Books about extrasensory perception on display include, "Beyond Time and Matter: A Sensory Look at ESP," Aaron Klein; "The Book of Prophecy," Edward Edelson; "On Reading Palms," Peggy Thomson, and "Facts, Frauds and Phantasms," Georgess McHargue.

Orthodontics For Adults

Although youngsters far outnumber adult patients in waiting rooms of orthodontists' offices, recent developments have allowed more and more "oldsters" to obtain successful orthodontic treatment, according to a dentist who has written a book on family dental health.

and malalignment of teeth have a marked impact on the facial structure, sometimes leading to irregularities and asymmetry, the author of the dental health book says. But the value of orthodontics is more than just cosmetic, for proper occlusion and alignment of teeth are needed for efficient chewing and to help avoid gum diseases, he says. Another difficulty encountered by some wearers of braces, other dentists report, is a high degree of dental sensitivity. Oral hygiene helps relieve this hypersensitivity.

Crooked, displaced, protruding teeth in children are corrected more easily than in adults because their teeth are readily movable. On the other hand, the dentist-author points out, with advancing age comes a less elastic, more calcified bone structure in the mouth. During treatment the teeth must be repositioned in this structure.

Still, an adult who feels socially or professionally handicapped by the appearance of his teeth should not hesitate to consult a dentist about corrective treatment, the author advises.

Bars, bands, wire and other orthodontic appliances can make teeth highly susceptible to dental decay, according to the writer. The devices themselves do not cause deterioration, but they provide hard-to-reach areas where food collects. If the accumulations in these pockets are not removed speedily, the risk of tooth decay increases greatly, the book says.

Can ringworm of the skin be caused by playing with animals?

Mr. E.U., New York

Dear Mr. U.: Ringworm is a non-dangerous skin condition caused by a fungus.

The name is confusing because it is not caused by a "worm." The descriptive term "ring" is based on its circular appearance.

Usually, a small red area begins to spread outward and, as it does, the center becomes clear, thus leaving a ring.

In most instances, it is passed from child to child. It can be contracted from animals who, too, have this fungus infection.

Many excellent drugs are now available to destroy the fungus. Parents of children with ringworm should notify the school authorities so that proper precautions can be taken against the spread of the infection.

Nifty Putdown

Dear Ann Landers: As a rule

your answers are far better than anything I could come up with. But you certainly missed the boat when you told "The Only Husband I Know Is Mine" to overlook "Mrs. Masters Degree's" rudeness. She was the executive's wife who had a habit of calling her husband's office switchboard and asking, "Is my husband there?" (No other identification.)

The switchboard operator should say, in her politest voice, "Yes he is, I'll ring him for you." Then she should ring the wrong husband. I'll bet the wife would identify herself after a couple experiences like that.

I'm signing my letter — An Executive's Mrs. With Better Manners

Dear Mrs.: Take a bow, lady, your answer was better than mine. Thanks for a nifty solution.

There is a big difference between cold and cool. Ann Landers shows you how to play it cool without freezing people out in her booklet, "Teen-Age Sex — Ten Ways to Cool It." Orthodontics For Adults

Although youngsters far outnumber adult patients in waiting rooms of orthodontists' offices, recent developments have allowed more and more "oldsters" to obtain successful orthodontic treatment, according to a dentist who has written a book on family dental health.

Crooked, displaced, protruding teeth in children are corrected more easily than in adults because their teeth are readily movable. On the other hand, the dentist-author points out, with advancing age comes a less elastic, more calcified bone structure in the mouth. During treatment the teeth must be repositioned in this structure.

Still, an adult who feels socially or professionally handicapped by the appearance of his teeth should not hesitate to consult a dentist about corrective treatment, the author advises.

Bars, bands, wire and other orthodontic appliances can make teeth highly susceptible to dental decay, according to the writer. The devices themselves do not cause deterioration, but they provide hard-to-reach areas where food collects. If the accumulations in these pockets are not removed speedily, the risk of tooth decay increases greatly, the book says.

Malocclusion (improper bite)

and malalignment of teeth have a marked impact on the facial structure, sometimes leading to irregularities and asymmetry, the author of the dental health book says. But the value of orthodontics is more than just cosmetic, for proper occlusion and alignment of teeth are needed for efficient chewing and to help avoid gum diseases, he says.

Another difficulty encountered by some wearers of braces, other dentists report, is a high degree of dental sensitivity. Oral hygiene helps relieve this hypersensitivity.

Dr. Lester Coleman

I am an alcoholic. After a rough time, I have finally controlled my problem. Now my worry is this: Is there anything in the blood or in heredity that would make my children alcoholics, too? I don't want them to go through the nightmare that I did.

Mr. G. V., Wisc.

Dear Mr. V.: I was fascinated by your letter, especially since a recent report on the very subject has appeared in the medical literature.

Two Swedish scientific investigators at the University of Lund in Sweden, Dr. Lennart Kaij and Dr. Jan Dock, kept accurate records on problem drinkers for many years.

It began with a study to find out if some hereditary factor caused excessive drinking in some men. These researchers did not find a gene involved in transmitting a tendency to abuse alcohol.

They did, however, come to an important conclusion. They say, "If Grandpa was an alcoholic, watch your own drinking. Children and grandsons of alcoholics are three times as likely to have drinking problems as in the general male population."

Undoubtedly, their statement could apply to females as well, even though alcohol abuse is much more common among men than among women.

Whether or not a hereditary disposition does exist, living in the environment of alcohol abuse certainly is conducive to perpetuating this serious disease.

Can ringworm of the skin be caused by playing with animals?

Mr. B.U., New York

Dear Mr. U.: Ringworm is a non-dangerous skin condition caused by a fungus. The name is confusing because it is not caused by a "worm." The descriptive term "ring" is based on its circular appearance.

Usually, a small red area begins to spread outward and, as it does, the center becomes clear, thus leaving a ring.

In most instances, it is passed from child to child. It can be contracted from animals who, too, have this fungus infection.

Many excellent drugs are now available to destroy the fungus. Parents of children with ringworm should notify the school authorities so that proper precautions can be taken against the spread of the infection.

FOR WEDNESDAY JAN. 14, 1976

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Try again today to get in touch with people who have been on your mind lately, but with whom you haven't been able to make connections.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Be alert for ways to add to your finances today. A bright, profitable idea you've overlooked may occur to you.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) You should be a good self-starter today. Don't delay by waiting for the slowpokes to wake up.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) If you have any work of a mental nature today, select a quiet, secluded area to operate in. Interruptions will derail your train of thought.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Be a good listener today. Someone will have valuable information to impart. You'll want to get the whole drift of it.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Don't be fearful of putting your ideas to the test today. You won't know how good they are unless you try them on others.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Your curiosity is an asset today. Read a good book or bring yourself up to date on current topics. You have excellent retention.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Perhaps your most gainful area today will be in situations where you share an interest — most especially where a profit motive is involved.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) If you look closely at situations today, you'll find each has several alternatives. Weight them carefully.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Today you perform well with co-workers, provided all parties are willing to carry their weight. Bring others into the picture.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) You should have a pleasurable day. You'll be in a chummy mood. Others will enjoy you as much as you'll dote on their company.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Resourcefulness is your prime asset today. You may even surprise yourself with your ability to alter your position.

Jan. 14, 1976

This coming year you are likely to be more appreciated than before in the area of your work or career. The eyes of those around you will see your true value.

North's three-club call was the Jacoby transfer and South dutifully bid three diamonds. When North continued to three notrump, South knew that his partner was interested in a slam. Without slam interest North would simply have bid three notrump directly.

South's four clubs and North's four hearts were cue bids. South was tempted to bid six notrump, but was wise enough to settle for six diamonds.

There was very little to the play. South won the club lead in dummy, knocked out the ace of diamonds and claimed — since he could discard one of dummy's spades on a high club.

Six notrump would fall one trick short. South could only come to 11 tricks with the spade finesse off.

Also, if North had played six diamonds a spade lead would have cooked his goose since clubs divided 5-2 and the spade finesse was off.

Contract Negotiations A Key To Recovery: Clark Official

By STEVE SAGER
Staff Writer

Economic recovery locally and across the United States will depend to a major extent on the outcome of contract negotiations between big industries and labor unions, a Clark Equipment Company executive said Monday.

"Major labor contracts up for renewal in 1976 cover 4.5 million workers," said Malcolm House, director of industrial relations for Clark. "Principal contracts involve the Teamsters, rubber, building trades, electrical workers and automobiles."

House spoke yesterday at a luncheon before the Rotary club of Benton Harbor and St. Joseph.

He added, "In normal times unions in these industries are usually grim to deal with, and they may be even tougher this year."

House said it may be too early to tell what direction union demands will take in a number of labor negotiations, especially involving the United Auto Workers (UAW), because the contracts don't come up until later this year.

However, House noted there are a number of factors that will most certainly come into play including inflation, unemployment, the high cost of energy, the increase in government involvement in labor relations and "tougher" competition among domestic companies and foreign producers than ever before.

House said "the most critical negotiations of all" will begin in July when negotiations in the automobile industry begin.

According to House, labor agreements at the "Big Three" — General Motors, Ford and Chrysler — expire on Sept. 14 and are followed shortly by AMC and major parts suppliers including Clark, Bendix and a number of other area businesses large and small.

House said as of yet the UAW has not felt compelled to "start beating the drums for negotiations later this year." He said one reason is that "cost of living allowance increases under the first two years of the auto industry agreements have totaled nearly $1 an hour."

Stating Clark's position, House said, "We have been emphasizing the theme that the company, the employees and the union have more in common than in conflict."

"We have seen some signs of recognition by certain union leaders and employees that we are all in the same boat. However, there must be greater realization and understanding of this basic economic fact of life before 1977 negotiations between Clark and its UAW local unions than has been evident to date."

Next year Clark will be entering its 37th year of contractual negotiations with the UAW.

House said, "While it is still too early to predict what direction the UAW will take in the negotiations this year, the possibility of demands for a shorter work week has been mentioned by several union leaders and in the newspapers."

He continued, "My own impression is that Clark employees are interested in more work, including overtime, and higher earnings, not shorter hours."

During a question and answer session after his speech, House gave a recap of labor negotiations over the past year with Tyler Refrigeration, Niles, which is owned by Clark. Labor negotiations with Tyler were difficult and included a lockout and strike before contract agreement was reached.

House commented to the press after the luncheon that relations between Clark and Tyler employees have improved through negotiations and to his knowledge Clark has never entered negotiations to sell the refrigeration operation, even though last summer there were inquiries about buying it.

Eau Claire Gives Property Owner Cleanup Ultimatum

EAU CLAIRE — The Eau Claire village council last night gave a property owner 10 days to take action on cleaning up or removing a vacant building and filling in an exposed basement.

If no action is taken within the time period, the council will have village workers perform the work and the cost will be placed on the owner's tax bill.

The property is located on the northwest corner of Pipestone and Elm streets and belongs to Mr. and Mrs. Richard A. Anderson of St. Joseph, according to Mrs. Carol Rumbaugh, deputy village clerk.

Last month the council ordered that the property owners be notified of the impending action, but no reply has been received, according to Mrs. Rumbaugh.

In other areas, the council advised Leon Billings of Berrien Springs that he would have to circulate petitions among neighboring property owners before seeking council approval to locate a mobile home on the northeast corner of Old Pipestone road and Grace street.

He was told to bring the petitions to the next meeting for council approval.

The council agreed to allow village maintenance workers while plowing snow from streets to plow off the ridge of snow from driveways belonging to senior citizens if the workers are requested to do so. The action was taken as a courtesy for senior citizens. The council also instructed the street department to plow snow off the three tennis courts west of the Eau Claire middle school so firemen can flood it for ice skating.

The council approved a request from Mrs. Gerald Brooks of the Eau Claire Hills subdivision who asked that street name signs be installed on the four streets in the subdivision.

The council appointed Mrs. Nancy Davis to fill a vacancy on the Eau Claire district library board left by the resignation of Mrs. Franklin Jackson.

Mrs. Rumbaugh was instructed to seek bids for gas and oil for village use during the 1976 fiscal year which begins March 1.

Requests Psychiatric Tests

MARSHALL, Mich. (AP) — The court-appointed lawyer for a youth held in the slaying of a Duck Lake couple requested Monday that his client be given psychiatric tests. Attorney Thomas J. Schaeffer of Marshall also said he opposes the Calhoun County prosecutor's efforts to have the 15-year-old tried as an adult. Schaeffer said he is challenging the state law permitting a juvenile court judge to waive jurisdiction to district court in such cases. He contended the state law is vague and violates constitutional guarantees of due process and equal protection of the laws. Because of Schaeffer's motions, Monday's hearing on the question of trying the youth as an adult was postponed. It has not been rescheduled yet.

South Haven Council Session

Mayor Names Priorities

SOUTH HAVEN — The South Haven city council discussed procedures and priorities during an organizational meeting last night.

Councilmen were assigned to various extra duties as follows: board of public utilities, Rex Lineberry; Housing commission, Robert Warren; planning commission, Ronald Kozlik; community recreation and education commission, Wilbur Ingraham; and Liberty Hyde Bailey Museum board, Norvan Books. The assignments are subject to council action at a formal meeting. Council named Lineberry as parliamentarian.

Among administrative priorities proposed by Mayor Richard Lewis was one requiring future city employees to live within a specified geographic area, probably the South Haven school district.

Also, the council agreed to explore the possibility of merging into one the departments of parks and cemetery. Council members agreed that its building code enforcement program needs to be strengthened.

The councilmen also agreed they should be more sensitive to the opinions of the taxpayers. There was some disagreement, however, on how closely the council should listen to its appointive boards.

Books said he questioned the thoroughness of commissions in making recommendations to the council.

"We have to be counted on our decisions," he said. "Sometimes I can't believe they (the commissions) do their research. From a lot of the things I see coming to me I don't have faith in our boards."

Lewis proposed that the council re-institute a moratorium on extending water or sewer lines into adjacent townships until it is determined that the city's system has the capacity for added loads and "until (these) new areas have a master plan and zoning."

He also proposed that the city stop allowing commercial firms to bring sewage waste from outside the city to the city's disposal plant for treatment.

Lewis called for the appointment of a citizens crime prevention commission to work with the city's police department.

ment. He suggested creation of a parent responsibility law for juvenile offenders.

The mayor also encouraged study of either construction of a new police station or expansion of the present building. He also said the council should explore the need for a second fire station on the city's south side.

Lewis said the council should consider installing meters in the parking lots of its public beaches.

Among major capital projects proposed by the mayor were an upgrading of the central business district, an expanded street lighting program, demolition of the idle power plant, attention to riverfront development including removal of a concrete mixing plant on city-owned land, development of a trailer park and boat launch area along the riverfront, additional boat slips at the marina, beach and public restroom improvements, airport improvements and a river cleanup program.

Inmate Stabbed

IONIA, Mich. (AP) — Officials at Ionia State Reformatory said, 19-year-old inmate Dale Southwell of Marshall was stabbed nine times Sunday during a movie at the prison.

Officials said they are holding three other inmates for questioning in the incident. The three were not named.

FBI Chief Cites Problem Of Terror

WASHINGTON (AP) — FBI Director Clarence M. Kelley said today he believes the nation faces "a very real and growing problem" of terrorist bombings and other violence.

"Terrorism is, indeed, the ultimate evil in our society. And no one can consider himself immune from terrorist acts," Kelley said.

His remarks were in a speech prepared for the American Security Council, a private organization interested in defense and national security.

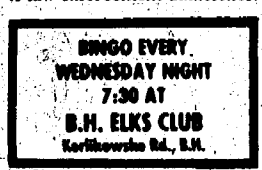

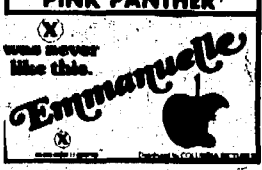

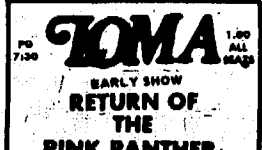

"I'm not saying that our nation is in imminent danger of being devastated by terrorists. But I do consider terrorism a very real and growing problem," Kelley said. "Americans should be aware there has been strong evidence in the past couple of years that our terrorist problem is growing," he continued.

Kelley said FBI figures show that 89 bombings "attributable to terrorist activity" were committed in the United States last year, compared with 45 in 1974 and 24 in 1973.

"Eleven persons were killed in terrorist acts of violence in 1975," he said. "And 72 people were injured. Property damage amounted to more than $2.7 million." In addition, federal investigators are still probing last month's bombing at La Guardia Airport in New York City where 11 other persons were killed.

Kelley said FBI intelligence-gathering activities are vital to preventing terrorist acts. He urged citizens to report information dealing with terrorists to law enforcement authorities.

Post Office Will Listen To Gripes

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Postal Service, in an effort to improve its relations with Congress, is abolishing two policies designed to insulate the service from politics.

Congressmen now will be able to take up their constituents' complaints about the Postal Service with local postmasters, a Postal Service spokesman said Monday.

Under a 5-year-old policy, postmasters were under orders not to deal with congressmen or their aides.

A congressman's district office, often located in the same building as the local post office, would have to deal with Postal Service headquarters in Washington on local postal problems.

Congressmen frequently complained about this "gag rule" on local postmasters.

Also removed is a prohibition on congressmen taking part in open-house ceremonies for new post offices, the spokesman said.

70-Story Hotel Opens In Atlanta

ATLANTA (AP) — A 70-story hotel, the world's tallest, has opened in downtown Atlanta.

The 754-foot Peachtree Center Plaza was built at a cost of $55 million. It has 1,100 rooms, half of them open. The rest, along with retail space, ballrooms, meeting rooms and a restaurant-cocktail lounge at the top are scheduled for opening Feb. 1.

Eau Claire Gives Property Owner Cleanup Ultimatum

EAU CLAIRE — The Eau Claire village council last night gave a property owner 10 days to take action on cleaning up or removing a vacant building and filling in an exposed basement.

If no action is taken within the time period, the council will have village workers perform the work and the cost will be placed on the owner's tax bill.

The property is located on the northwest corner of Pipestone and Elm streets and belongs to Mr. and Mrs. Richard A. Anderson of St. Joseph, according to Mrs. Carol Rumbaugh, deputy village clerk.

Last month the council ordered that the property owners be notified of the impending action, but no reply has been received, according to Mrs. Rumbaugh.

In other areas, the council advised Leon Billings of Berrien Springs that he would have to circulate petitions among neighboring property owners before seeking council approval to locate a mobile home on the northeast corner of Old Pipestone road and Grace street.

He was told to bring the petitions to the next meeting for council approval.

The council agreed to allow village maintenance workers while plowing snow from streets to plow off the ridge of snow from driveways belonging to senior citizens if the workers are requested to do so. The action was taken as a courtesy for senior citizens.

The council also instructed the street department to plow snow off the three tennis courts west of the Eau Claire middle school so firemen can flood it for ice skating.

The council approved a request from Mrs. Gerald Brooks of the Eau Claire Hills subdivision who asked that street name signs be installed on the four streets in the subdivision.

The council appointed Mrs. Nancy Davis to fill a vacancy on the Eau Claire district library board left by the resignation of Mrs. Franklin Jackson.

Mrs. Rumbaugh was instructed to seek bids for gas and oil for village use during the 1976 fiscal year which begins March 1.

Requests Psychiatric Tests

MARSHALL, Mich. (AP) — The court-appointed lawyer for a youth held in the slaying of a Duck Lake couple requested Monday that his client be given psychiatric tests. Attorney Thomas J. Schaeffer of Marshall also said he opposes the Calhoun County prosecutor's efforts to have the 15-year-old tried as an adult. Schaeffer said he is challenging the state law permitting a juvenile court judge to waive jurisdiction to district court in such cases. He contended the state law is vague and violates constitutional guarantees of due process and equal protection of the laws. Because of Schaeffer's motions, Monday's hearing on the question of trying the youth as an adult was postponed. It has not been rescheduled yet.

FBI Chief Cities Problem Of Terror

WASHINGTON (AP) — FBI Director Clarence M. Kelley said today he believes the nation faces "a very real and growing problem" of terrorist bombings and other violence.

"Terrorism is, indeed, the ultimate evil in our society. And no one can consider himself immune from terrorist acts," Kelley said.

His remarks were in a speech prepared for the American Security Council, a private organization interested in defense and national security.

"I'm not saying that our nation is in imminent danger of being devastated by terrorists. But I do consider terrorism a very real and growing problem," Kelley said.

"Americans should be aware there has been strong evidence in the past couple of years that our terrorist problem is growing," he continued.

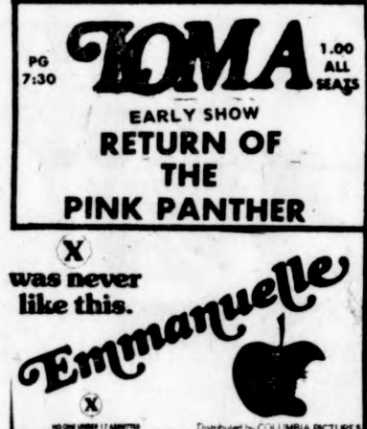

Kelley said FBI figures show that 89 bombings "attributable to terrorist activity" were committed in the United States last year, compared with 45 in 1974 and 24 in 1973.

"Eleven persons were killed in terrorist acts of violence in 1975," he said. "And 72 people were injured. Property damage amounted to more than $2.7 million." In addition, federal investigators are still probing last month's bombing at La Guardia Airport in New York City where 11 other persons were killed.

Kelley said FBI intelligence-gathering activities are vital to preventing terrorist acts. He urged citizens to report information dealing with terrorists to law enforcement authorities.

Post Office Will Listen To Gripes

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Postal Service, in an effort to improve its relations with Congress, is abolishing two policies designed to insulate the service from politics.

Congressmen now will be able to take up their constituents' complaints about the Postal Service with local postmasters, a Postal Service spokesman said Monday.

Under a 5-year-old policy, postmasters were under orders not to deal with congressmen or their aides.

A congressman's district office, often located in the same building as the local post office, would have to deal with Postal Service headquarters in Washington on local postal problems.

Congressmen frequently complained about this "gag rule" on local postmasters.

Also removed is a prohibition on congressmen taking part in open-house ceremonies for new post offices, the spokesman said.

70-Story Hotel Opens In Atlanta

ATLANTA (AP) — A 70-story hotel, the world's tallest, has opened in downtown Atlanta.

The 754-foot Peachtree Center Plaza was built at a cost of $55 million. It has 1,100 rooms, half of them open. The rest, along with retail space, ballrooms, meeting rooms and a restaurant-cocktail lounge at the top are scheduled for opening Feb. 1.

Eau Claire School Board Tables Bus Garage Plan

EAU CLAIRE — The Eau Claire school board last night tabled a proposal to build a bus maintenance garage, according to Supt. William Schaefer.

Action on the proposal was postponed to a later date so the board can continue discussions on cost cutting with the owners of the firm presently performing maintenance and repairs on the district's 18 buses.

Dr. Schaefer said the owners, Douglas and Delbert Schleppe of the Five Corners garage in Eau Claire, presented plans to reduce the cost of maintenance and repairs. The discussions will continue at meetings next month, he said.

Last month, the board discussed having plans prepared for a district-owned bus garage which would be staffed by its own mechanics.

The proposal for a district-owned maintenance garage is one option being considered by the board in an effort to trim transportation costs.

In other areas, the board approved a request from the Wood school district asking that high school students from that district be allowed to pay tuition and attend Eau Claire high school in 1976. There are presently 10 tuition students from the K-8 district attending the high school, Schaefer said.

The board tabled a proposal to allow smoking at indoor athletic and special events at the high school. The board instructed Schaefer to obtain further information from the state fire marshal on the matter. Presently, smoking is not allowed at any indoor event at the high school, Schaefer said.

The board adopted policies prohibiting racial and sex discrimination in the educational system, Schaefer said. Passage of the policies was necessary to continue receiving federal funds.

John Laskarides, high school principal, was appointed to establish a grievance procedure for investigating complaints related to racial or sex discrimination.

The Eau Claire Education association reported that tenured teachers will prepare their evaluations of building principals in February. The evaluations are required under the teachers' master contract, Schaefer said.

PAW PAW Pay Of Suspended Teacher In Escrow

PAW PAW — Meeting in special session last night, the Paw Paw school board approved an agreement which will put the pay of a suspended teacher into escrow until criminal charges against him are resolved.

The teacher, Thomas Hawley, 29, Portage, had previously signed the agreement. He was suspended with pay May 8 by Supt. Norval Bovee following his arrest on a charge of criminal sexual conduct involving a 12-year-old boy at Black River elementary school where he formerly taught.

His first trial ended Sept. 17 after being declared a mistrial because of a procedural error. No new trial date has been set.

The board voted to initiate procedures to end Hawley's tenure July 14, but has stated a final decision will not be made until the outcome of the trial.

In the agreement approved last night, both sides stipulate that if Hawley is found guilty, it will constitute grounds for termination of his employment, and that he will resign, forfeiting all pay in escrow.

If he is found innocent, according to the agreement, he will be reinstated as a teacher and receive all pay held in escrow.

Under the agreement, the board agrees to continue to pay Hawley's health insurance until the matter is resolved.

Coloma School Board

Bus Repair Garage Eyed

COLOMA — Three Coloma school board members began a study last night to see if it would be cheaper for the school district to operate its own bus maintenance garage.

The three asked during the regular school board meeting that they be given copies of bus repair bills until April so they could see if it would cost less for bus repairs through a school-operated garage. The district now has repair work done at commercial garages.

Seeking the copies to launch the study were members Merlin Hauch, Louis Gelder and Richard Eastman.

Ronald Clark, assistant schools superintendent, told the board the copies would be provided. He said that last year the district had spent $30,580 on bus repairs.

The request followed questioning of three bills by Hauch, totaling $2,576, for assorted repairs to the district's 25 school buses.

Hauch said he was not questioning the work done on the buses, but he said he felt that if the total repair costs are sufficient the school board should consider repairing its own buses.

Gelder said he felt the cost could be reduced if the repairs were done by a school hired mechanic working fulltime on preventive maintenance.

All three board members indicated they feel that enough money could be saved, by purchasing parts at wholesale, for the district to have its own garage, similar to one being operated by the Watervliet school district.

In other areas, School Board President Kay Erickson announced a $100,000 federal grant to continue the career development program had been increased by $10,000 to pay for printing of booklets outlining the program to other interested school areas.

The grant, approved for the fourth year, was first announced in June, 1975.

The board awarded the Eldon M. Smith Insurance agency the district's workmen's compensation insurance coverage on its low bid of $8,240.

DERAILMENT: Eight of 27 cars from a Grand Trunk & Western freight train crashed through a bridge over the Flint River in Lapeer severely damaging the structure Monday. Decatur Public Hearing

DECATUR — A public hearing will be held Feb. 2 in Decatur to take final action on a request for $300,000 in federal community development money.

The hearing will be at 7:30 p.m. in the village hall as part of the regular village council meeting.

Council members discussed several possible uses for the money last night, including blacktopping a village parking lot and paving the alleys behind the business district. No action was taken however.

Jackson School Chief Resigns

JACKSON, Mich. (AP) — Dr. David M. Trost, superintendent of Jackson Public Schools for the past two years, submitted his resignation to the school board Monday. He did it at the request of the board, which unanimously decided not to renew his contract when it expires June 30. The decision was made at a private session. Trost is expected to stay on the job until the end of June, a board source said.

STATE APPOINTMENT

Berrien Judge Gets Cass Suit

Berrien Circuit Court Judge William S. White has been appointed by the state's supreme court administrator to preside over the lawsuit filed by Cass Sheriff James Northrop against the Cass county board of commissioners.

Judge White yesterday confirmed the appointment but said no hearing dates have been scheduled yet. The suit was filed in Cass circuit court in November.

The appointment of a visiting judge to hear the case became necessary when Cass Circuit Court Judge James Hoff disqualified himself from hearing the suit.

Northrop has sued the board for back wages he said his wife has earned since he appointed her a jail matron in July.

The sheriff has also asked that the board be restrained from interfering with his department operations and from taking powers that belong to the sheriff.

Part of the dispute between the county board and the sheriff apparently involves a personnel policy adopted by the board in 1973.

The policy, in part, prohibits the employment of immediate family members in the same department.

Fine Pair For Theft Of Deer

PAW PAW — The theft of a deer from a pickup in Decatur last November ended up costing two men fine and costs of $40 each yesterday in Van Buren Seventh district court.

Judge William C. Buhl imposed the fines and also placed Gerald F. Schur, 19, Lawton, and Richard Lee Daggitt, 17, Decatur, on probation for three to six months each as a result of their guilty pleas to a reduced charge of larceny under $100.

Both had originally been charged with larceny over $100 in connection with the theft of a deer from a pickup truck owned by Henry Clendenin in Decatur Nov. 23.

Coloma Waives Penalty On Plant's Water Bill

COLOMA — The Coloma city commission last night voted to waive a penalty against the M. Steffen company, for not paying its water bill by Monday's deadline.

The waiver of the penalty of 10 cents for each 1,000 gallons of water used, was to continue until the city's public works department can meet with the firm to reach a decision on the bill.

The bill to the vinegar manufacturer charged it for 250,000 gallons per day, according to city figures, during September, October, and November.

The city in December sent the firm the bill, which was about 10 times more than previous quarterly billings because the city found it had been reading the firm's meter wrong in the earlier billings.

The firm's previous quarterly water bill cost between $200 to $400, but the new bill increased the charge to between $4,000 to $5,000.

Coloma Township: No To County Ambulance

COLOMA — The Coloma township board last night authorized Clerk John Ferris to draw up a resolution stating the board would not join a countywide, publicly supported ambulance service. Board members said they felt the Coloma city and township area has an excellent volunteer service, the Coloma Emergency Ambulance service. It has been operating in the area since 1959.

Body Identified

SAGINAW, Mich. (AP) — Saginaw County deputies said Monday they had identified a body found Saturday by snowmobilers as 24-year-old Troy Crockett of Saginaw. Crockett had been shot several times in the back of the head in a field in Spalding Township.

The countywide ambulance service has been proposed by officials from several Berrien county municipalities, but the county board of commissioners has not yet taken the matter under consideration.

In another area Trustee John McCreery agreed to check the township for any defective street signs and note streets having no identification.

Hartford City Council Nursery Tax Break OK'd

HARTFORD — The Hartford city council last night gave its approval for an industrial facilities tax exemption certificate to Dean Foster Nurseries.

According to Mrs. Jewell Story, city clerk, Foster had applied for the tax exemption, which would reduce by one-half the amount of taxes he would have to pay on improvements he makes to property he purchased at the corner of South Center street and 60th avenue. The reduction would be for 12 years. Final approval is required from the state.

Mrs. Story said Foster had purchased an old farm located on the land and is in the process of remodeling it into a nursery, which will eventually employ about 100 people. Mrs. Story said Foster plans about $100,000 in improvements at the site. Under a new state law, tax breaks are provided industry and business that improve their facilities, paving the way for increased employment opportunities.

In other areas, the council re-elected Harold Jackson as mayor pro-tem during its organizational meeting.

finance, Milton Wehmeler, Charles Engle, and Hadley.

Other committees were ordinance and policy, Duffy, Wehmeler, and Lois Budreau; health and welfare, Duffy and Budreau; and police, Budreau, Duffy, and Hadley.

Jackson was appointed as delegate to the Hartford recreation council; Wehmeler was appointed alternate.

In other areas, the council approved creation of a construction board of appeals to hear complaints of building disputes and named local builders Dick Phillips, Bob Brookfield, and Aage Larsen to the board.

The council was told that TAB of Kalamazoo, owned by Todd Borst, has been hired to complete and run the cable television franchise in Hartford.

Borst is opening a temporary office on Main street in Hartford and will be completing installation of the cable facilities for present as well as new subscribers.

The council set a public hearing for 9 p.m. Jan. 26 to get public opinion for use of money to be requested from the federal government under the Community Development Act.

The council also voted to have Leslie-Cripps Associates of Berrien Springs assist in making the grant request.

Bloomington Man Guilty Of Car Theft

PAW PAW — Jerome Walchock, 38, route 1, CR-388, Bloomington, pleaded guilty to a charge of unlawful use of a motor vehicle when arraigned yesterday in Van Buren circuit court.

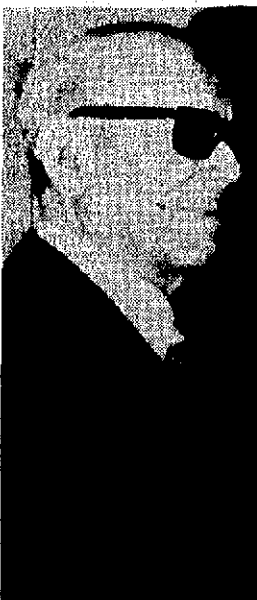

The charge grew out of the Jan. 8, 1974, theft of a car belonging to Warren Willard in Bloomington township.

In other cases, Eddie Lee Lewis, 17, route 2, Eau Claire, pleaded innocent to charges of breaking and entering a Sister Lakes building Nov. 10, and carrying a concealed weapon, a switchblade, Nov. 20 in Decatur.

Michael H. Weisman, 30, Portage, pleaded innocent to charges of manufacturing amphetamines and possession of amphetamines with intent to manufacture. The charges grew out of a Sept. 30 raid on a house in Bloomington.

Albert G. Dietz, 23, 102 Paw Paw street, Paw Paw, pleaded innocent to a charge of larceny in a building stemming from the July 30 theft of $140 from the Glendale Grocery, M-40 and CR-665.

Baroda Township Meets Jan. 16

BARODA — The January meeting of the Baroda township board will be held Friday, Jan. 16, instead of Monday, Jan. 19, according to township Clerk Emil Nitz. The meeting will begin at 7:30 p.m., Nitz said.

Fire Blamed On Torches

ST. CLAIR, Mich. (AP) — Hot cutting torches left behind by workers may have been the cause of a spectacular fire Monday night at the Diamond Crystal Salt Co., according to company officials. There were no reported injuries in the blaze that lit the sky for miles up and down the St. Clair River. Charles Cronenworth, president of the company, said the fire was confined to a work area on the third floor in the center of the plant. Cronenworth said a contractor had been working in the area for the past several weeks, as the plant prepares to convert from natural gas to low-sulfur coal as a principal energy source.

Decatur School Chief Says State Cuts Pinch Budget

DECATUR — Decatur school Supt. Wayne Hellenga last night told the school board the district may have trouble staying within its 1975-76 budget because of cuts in state aid totaling $30,919.

The cuts in state aid resulted from Gov. William Milliken's recent budget trimming which reduced state aid for all school districts in the state.

US-31 Update Given To Berrien Springs

BERRIEN SPRINGS — Berrien Springs village council last night got an update on the proposed new US-31 route from the Indiana state line to I-94.

Ronald Roberts, a route location engineer with the state department of highways, made these points:

- The proposed highway will cost an estimated $100 million.
- Bids on the first segment of the project, from the state line to US-12, will be taken sometime in 1976.
- Bids on a second segment, from US-12 to Walton road, will be taken in 1978.
- Bids on a 6.6-mile stretch in the Berrien Springs area, from Matthews road in Niles township to US-33 near Andrews university, are now scheduled to be taken in 1980.

Roberts said there will be a public hearing in the Berrien Springs area in August or September during which area residents can comment on any of the three proposed routes for the highway in the Berrien Springs area.

The village council has already endorsed a plan that would put the interstate link on the west side of the St. Joseph river.

The state highway engineer said he is scheduled to present an update to the Oronoko township board on Jan. 28.

The fire was the second in three days at an unoccupied house. Arthur Hayes, assistant fire chief, said another two-story frame house on 84th avenue was leveled by flames Saturday. That house, which belonged to John Falkner, was reported on fire at 8 p.m.

Fire Chief Jake Hoekstra said he will request an investigation by the state fire marshal's office into both fires. There were no injuries reported at either fire.

Three To Attend 'Budget Seminar'

NEW BUFFALO — The New Buffalo township board at a special meeting last night approved sending the township's three officers to the Michigan Township Association's "Basic Budget Seminar," in Paw Paw.

Total cost of the seminar will be $150. Attending the seminar will be Joseph Svehla, supervisor; Edward Ohime, clerk; and Mrs. Joann Fleck, treasurer. The seminar will be held one night a week for four weeks. It starts Jan. 20.

In other areas, Mrs. Fleck reported that $1,500 had to be borrowed from the township general fund in order to meet bills this month. The board said the money will be put back into the general fund as taxes are collected.

The board said the shortage was caused due to the township's obligation to pay $6,000, its share of attorney's fees, court costs, and land appraisals, for the condemned property for the Galien River Sanitary Sewer district. Chikaming township's share was $15,000 and New Buffalo city's was $9,000, Mrs. Fleck reported.

Decatur School Chief Says State Cuts Pinch Budget

DECATUR — Decatur school Supt. Wayne Hellenga last night told the school board the district may have trouble staying within its 1975-76 budget because of cuts in state aid totaling $30,919. The cuts in state aid resulted from: Gov. William Milliken's recent budget trimming which reduced state aid for all school districts in the state. Hellenga told the school board that with the school year less than half completed, further cuts may be coming.

In other areas, the board voted to hire Miss Kathy DeVries as coach for the girls volleyball team. Twenty-eight girls have shown an interest in the team.

The board also passed a resolution authorizing the Van Buren intermediate district to hold a special election Feb. 24 for two financing levies for a mentally handicapped education center. The two are a 1.5-mill property tax levy to raise $450,000 for operation and a $1,010,000 bond issue to finance construction.

Similar issues were defeated in June, 1975.

The state highway engineer said he is scheduled to present an update to the Oronoko township board on Jan. 26.

Decatur House Guttered

DECATUR — An unoccupied two-story frame house at 40th street and Burgess road was gutted by fire yesterday afternoon, according to Decatur volunteer firemen.

The blaze at the house, which belonged to Lawrence Rayburn of Chicago, was reported at 1:15 p.m.

The fire was the second in three days at an unoccupied house. Arthur Hayes, assistant fire chief, said another two-story frame house on 84th avenue was leveled by flames Saturday. That house, which belonged to John Falkner, was reported on fire at 8 p.m.

Fire Chief Jake Hoekstra said he will request an investigation by the state fire marshal's office into both fires. There were no injuries reported at either fire.

The board said the shortage was caused due to the township's obligation to pay $6,000, its share of attorney's fees, court costs, and land appraisals, for the condemned property for the Galien River Sanitary Sewer district. Chikaming township's share was $15,000 and New Buffalo city's was $9,000, Mrs. Fleck reported. All three units will be reimbursed when the bonds for the project are sold, Svehla said. The reimbursements will not be made until July, however, he said.

The board accepted the resignation of Mrs. Elaine Lijewski, deputy clerk, and appointed Mrs. Juanita White as her replacement, for the remainder of 1976.

The board tabled the appointment of three members to the township planning commission pending an opinion from its legal counsel on whether planning commission members can hold two appointed offices at one time.

The board also tabled payment to former township assessor Frank Nevens for his work on the 1974 township taxes, as no funds are available at the present time, Svehla said.

Svehla also reported that because of inclement weather, engineers from Williams and Works, Grand Rapids, were unable to confer with township board members regarding a township parks and recreation program and master water plan.

Reagan's Welfare Transfer Plan 'Misinterpreted'

By DAVE RILEY
Associated Press Writer

Ronald Reagan says he made a mistake in explaining his controversial plan to cut $90 billion in federal programs, and one of his campaign managers says he thinks the former California governor is sorry he ever mentioned a specific figure.

Reagan, campaigning in Bloomington, Ill., in his quest for the Republican presidential nomination, said Monday his plan had been misinterpreted as eliminating such programs as welfare and Medicaid.

Meanwhile, President Ford announced his plans to open his 1976 campaign with a Feb. 7 trip to New Hampshire.

Reagan, in a speech in Chicago last September, said some federal programs should be transferred to the states and that this would mean a $90-billion cut in federal spending. He has been asked repeatedly to explain this proposal during recent campaign appearances, especially about how the states would finance the programs.

Asked about it Monday, Reagan said, "I guess I made a mistake in the speech that I made in Chicago back in September. . . . This now seems to have been interpreted that I'm talking about whacking $90 billion out, shutting off the federal government and throwing this burden back on the people. No. What I proposed

Paw Paw Approves 'March'

PAW PAW — The Paw Paw village council last night gave its permission for a mothers' march on birth defects donation drive in the village Jan. 24 through 30.

The council also approved bills in the amount of $74,027.

United Way Agencies Bilked

KALAMAZOO, Mich. (AP) — Four United Way agencies disclosed Monday they may have lost $47,000 or more when a computer bookkeeping firm closed. Meanwhile, a nationwide search continued for James Robert Redican, 37, of Holland, president of the Kentwood-based Computer Payroll & Accounting Services. He is charged with embezzlement and is under a federal fugitive warrant. The last definite sighting of Redican occurred last Tuesday, authorities have reported. The Kalamazoo-area Boy Scouts of America Council, Goodwill Industries, YMCA and YWCA all reported Monday they were clients of Redican's firm.

Malpractice Rates To Be Raised

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Travelers Insurance Co. has notified Southern California's physicians that it will raise malpractice insurance rates by the 37 per cent ceiling imposed by the state and will try to raise the rates even higher. Doctors in the area began a slowdown Jan. 1 to protest rate increases announced earlier by the Hartford, Conn., firm. The slowdown has disrupted health care in early 100 hospitals in five counties and has affected the jobs of nearly 26,000 hospital workers. There was no immediate reaction from physicians to the Travelers' notice Monday, but doctors have maintained all along that the general magnitude of the hike — and not the specific amount — was at issue.

13th Body Found In Ruins

FREMONT, Neb. (AP) — A 13th body has been found in the wreckage of Fremont's Pathfinder Hotel, three days after an explosion and fire tore through the building. Another five persons were still missing and feared dead as workmen picked through the rubble Monday. Dozens more were injured in the blast Saturday. In the aftermath, 20 downtown businesses in the community of 22,000 were closed. But Charles Strasburg, head of Fremont's Chamber of Commerce, said, "This in no way will kill downtown Fremont. It's just too strong for that." But he conceded, "Naturally, this is not going to help."

Teachers Ignore Fines

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Despite stiff court-imposed fines against the union and individual strikers, a spokesman for the Pittsburgh Federation of Teachers says a seven-week-old walkout will continue. Judge Donald Ziegler fined the union $25,000 for failing to end the strike Monday, and added $10,000 — plus $100 for individual teachers — for each day the walkout continues. Only 345 of the district's 3,900 teachers heeded Ziegler's court order and instructions from the school board by reporting to school Monday. Classes for 62,000 pupils were canceled and rescheduled for today, but a union spokesman said the teachers would be back on the picket lines in greater force than ever.

Ford Price Hikes Rapped

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Ford Motor Co.'s recent 2.2 per cent price increase on its new cars seems to be an attempt to increase profits, the government's inflation-watch agency says. The Council on Wage and Price Stability issued its conclusion Monday. The Jan. 5 increase, the council said, "is not a reflection of industry cost increases since new 1976 model introductions, but rather it appears to be an attempt to widen margins in a period of retreating sales volume and diminished import competition." The council estimated the increase would add $81 per vehicle compared with similarly equipped 1975 models.

FIRE DESTROYS BARN: Century-old barn on Glenn Wokeck property on M-43 east of Bangor was destroyed by fire last night. Bangor firemen were on scene more than four hours extinguishing blaze which was reported by neighbors about 8 p.m. A boat, some machinery and quantity of hay was destroyed. Cause of blaze was not determined although one person reported fire started in area where hay was stored. (Tom Renner photo)

Mark Schlieue

DENTON, Texas. — Mark A. Schlieue, 23, Denton, formerly of route 2, Buchanan, died early Monday morning in Flow Memorial hospital, here, after apparently being accidentally overcome by nitrous oxide gas, Denton police said.

Schlieue was employed as an inhalation therapist at the hospital and was on duty at the time of his death, according to Wallis Duvall, hospital administrator.

Police said they are awaiting results of an autopsy to determine exact cause of death, but it appears Schlieue was handling some nitrous oxide gas at the time of his death. His body was found by another hospital employee in a room that was being renovated at the hospital.

Capt. Hugh Lynch of the Denton police said at this time it appears Schlieue's death was accidental.

He was born Feb. 28, 1952, in Fairfield, Calif.

Mr. Schlieue moved from Buchanan one year ago.

Surviving are his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Schlieue, Buchanan; a brother, Mike R. with the U.S. Air Force in Wyoming; a sister, Miss Cheryl Schlieue, at home and his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Boyer, Buchanan.

Funeral services will be held at 10 a.m. Friday in the United Methodist church, Gallien. Burial will be in Gallien cemetery.

Friends may call at the Sweet-Smith funeral home, Buchanan, after 7 p.m. Wednesday.

Vote-In-Person New Policy For Covert Schools

COVERT — The Covert school board last night adopted a new policy for school elections which would require all voters in the district to vote in person on all school issues except bonding issues.

The policy, which would make the district a nonregistered school district, was adopted in the form of a resolution which passed by a four to one vote with two board members abstaining.

Voting in favor of the resolution were Harold Bracken, Bernard Lucas, Mrs. Alice Blair and Donald Quinn Jr. The lone dissenter was Carl Grigerell and the abstentions came from Mrs. Ernestine Kahn and Jerry Foster.

The resolution is to become effective in 90 days.

In a nonregistered school district, school voters do not have to be registered with the township in order to vote in school elections.

People appearing to vote in school elections have only to sign an application swearing they are qualified to vote in the school election.

Presently, Covert residents must be registered through the township before they are able to vote in school elections.

Generally, according to a legal firm which specializes in work for school districts, becoming a nonregistered school district prevents voting by absentee ballot.

The resolution was apparently aimed at eliminating the use of absentee ballots in local school elections. Board members had charged last August that there had been illegal use of absentee ballots during an election for renewal of a 16-mill property tax.

During that election, about 37 per cent of the ballots were absentee. After two separate recounts, the proposal passed with a narrow margin of six votes. In the recounts, all but 44 of 172 challenged absentee ballots were counted, and of those counted, all but four of them were no votes.

The proposal had originally been declared a winner by 156 votes. The final tally was 488 to 482.

Supt. William Randall at that time charged that some people using absentee ballots may have been registered voters in other states.

Last night, the board also agreed to appoint a committee to investigate the reason behind the second recount of the August election. The Van Buren county board of canvassers performed its first election recount two weeks after the Aug. 4 election, but then performed a second, and unannounced, recount in September.

The second recount was conducted after petitions signed by 350 Covert school district residents were presented to the canvassing board, according to Covert township Supervisor Jerry Sarno.

Results of the second recount were made public in October.

The committee to investigate the second recount will be appointed by Mrs. Kahn, the board's secretary, after each member submits three names.

The investigation was asked for by Mrs. Octavia Hawkins, who appeared at last night's meeting.

In another action, Quinn resigned as president of the board and Lucas was elected to replace him.

In his resignation, Quinn said his personal work did not leave him enough time to perform the duties of board president. He will remain a member of the board.

Quinn was elected president by a four to two vote with one abstention.

Voting for Quinn as president were Bracken, Lucas, Mrs. Blair and Quinn himself. Opposed were Grigerell and Foster, and Mrs. Kahn abstained.

The board approved contract modification orders for contractors working on the new school buildings. The changes were approved for Bosch Plumbing and Heating, Erhardt Construction company, and Parkway Electric company.

The board also adopted four policies setting requirements for school programs.

One policy adopted set requirements that junior high students must complete to be passed to the next grade. The policy requires the students, in grades 6 through 8, to pass three of the four basic courses taken during the school year. A basic course failed by the student would have to be repeated in the next grade. Failure of two or more basic courses would result in the student being retained in the same grade an additional year.

The other three policies spelled out requirements for the awarding of equivalency certificates, the awarding of credit for students in the homebound program, and for student attendance at the Van Buren skills center.

Nation's Health Shows Improvement

health problems resulting from the infectious diseases which formerly acted so lethally on children and young adults," the report said, "a substantial increase in the more slowly operating chronic degenerative diseases is inevitable."

"These are conditions whose prevalence increases sharply with age. The increasing longevity of the population and the resultant shift in its composition toward the older ages have resulted in a greatly increased frequency of chronic diseases."

Thus, the report concluded, "increased rates of certain chronic diseases in the population may reflect more effective rather than less effective management of illness."

The U.S. population over age 65 stood at just 3.1 million in 1900, tripled to 9 million by 1940, more than doubled again to 2.02 million in 1970 and, at the current rate, may reach 29 million by the turn of the next century, federal statisticians estimated.

The government said part of the explanation for the older population lies with better immunization and health care during younger years.

Only 43 children died in 1973 from tuberculosis, diphtheria, polio and measles, compared with 2,729 in 1950. Similarly, child deaths from influenza and pneumonia averaged about 14,000 annually in the 1930s but had dropped off to 1,345 in 1973, the report said.

Death rates in accidents involving children, however, have remained just about constant at 12,500 a year. Roughly half result from motor vehicle mishaps.

The report said young adults aged 15-24 die less frequently now from TB, heart disease, flu and pneumonia but, since 1950, the toll from accidents, suicides and homicides has increased rapidly.

In 1973 there were more than 77,500 deaths from those causes among adults aged 15-44, and the toll among younger people aged 15-24 increased one-third from car accidents and more than doubled from murder and suicide since 1950.

Among older adults aged 45-64, the report said, death rates from stroke, arteriosclerosis, kidney disease and gastric ulcers have all shown marked reductions but the cancer death has increased from 289 per 100,000 persons in 1950 to 292 in 1973.

The other exceptions to the generally brighter health picture are that death rates more than doubled during the last decade from cirrhosis of the liver and bronchitis, emphysema and asthma, the latter three aggravated by smoking and air pollution.

Reagan's Welfare Transfer Plan 'Misinterpreted'

By DAVE RILEY
Associated Press Writer

Ronald Reagan says he made a mistake in explaining his controversial plan to cut $90 billion in federal programs, and one of his campaigners says he thinks the former California governor is sorry he ever mentioned a specific figure.

Reagan, campaigning in Bloomington, Ill., in his quest for the Republican presidential nomination, said Monday his plan had been misinterpreted as eliminating such programs as welfare and Medicaid.

Meanwhile, President Ford announced his plans to open his 1976 campaign with a Feb. 7 trip to New Hampshire.

Reagan, in a speech in Chicago last September, said some federal programs should be transferred to the states and that this would mean a $90-billion cut in federal spending. He has been asked repeatedly to explain this proposal during recent campaign appearances, especially about how the states would finance the programs.

Asked about it Monday, Reagan said, "I guess I made a mistake in the speech that I made in Chicago back in September. . . . This now seems to have been interpreted that I'm talking about whacking $90 billion out, shutting off the federal government and throwing this burden back on the people. No. What I proposed was a systematic transfer of both responsibilities and the resources for these programs to state and local governments."

Michael J. Ward, communications director for Illinois Citizens for Reagan, said he thought the former governor was trying to back away from the $90-billion figure.

"What he was trying to emphasize was the concept," Ward said. "I think he's sorry he even alluded to the $90-billion figure at all. He simply feels there are some programs and actions that are better suited to the state level. It's not necessarily the $90-billion figure at all. Many people focused on the figure rather than the idea of shifting these programs down to the state level."

Elsewhere, there were these political developments on Monday:

—A Louis Harris poll showed Alabama Gov. George Wallace finishing second in a field of announced and potential Democratic candidates. In a survey of 1,475 prospective voters made six weeks ago, Wallace finished second to non-candidate Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., when both were listed in a field of 24 Democrats.

But when Wallace was pitted on a one-to-one basis with individual candidates he finished behind such contenders as former Gov. Jimmy Carter of Georgia. Carter received only 2 per cent of the vote in the full-field poll.

Harris said that Wallace's hard-core support means he could be a spoiler but would have little chance of being elected. Harris said Wallace, as the Democratic candidate, would lose to either Ford or Reagan, according to the poll results.

Presidential press secretary Ron Nessen said Ford has accepted an invitation to speak to the annual dinner of the Nashua, N.H. Chamber of Commerce. He indicated Ford would make visits to other New Hampshire towns that day and perhaps the next day.

Parker Ward, 70, Sun City, Ariz., father of Dr. Horace Ward, St. Joseph, died Monday evening in Chenango Memorial hospital, Norwich, N.Y.

Mr. Ward was a retired employee of the University of Michigan. His wife Alice preceded him in death in 1975.

Surviving besides Dr. Ward are three other sons and four daughters.

A funeral mass will be celebrated Wednesday morning in St. Bartholomew Catholic church, Norwich. Burial will be in Connecticut.

Arrangements are in charge of the Fahy funeral home, 116 North Broad street, Norwich.

Mattie Row

BERRIEN SPRINGS — Mattie Row, 85, 297 University avenue, Berrien Springs, died at 5:10 p.m. Monday in Mercy hospital, where she had been a patient since last Saturday.

Funeral arrangements were incomplete this forenoon at the Paul E. Mayhew funeral home, Berrien Springs.

Beilman Rites Set

EAU CLAIRE — Funeral services for Frank A. "Dutch" Beilman, 63, Main street, Eau Claire, who died Monday, will be held at 2 p.m. Wednesday in Bowerman funeral home, Eau Claire. Burial will be in North Shore Memory Gardens.

Mr. Beilman had been a used furniture dealer and also antique dealer in the area several years.

Mrs. Melba Gould

DOWAGIAC — Mrs. Melba Gould, 73, 1148 Centerfield road, Barron Lake, died Monday morning at her home.

She was born Aug. 11, 1902, in St. Joseph.

Surviving are a daughter, Mrs. Joan Jaffee, with whom she made her home; a sister, Mrs. Frances Shaffer, St. Joseph; three brothers, Ray Hepler, Benton Harbor, Paul Hepler, New Buffalo and Leslie Hepler, Sodas.

Mrs. Gould was retired from James Heddion and Sons.

Mark Schlieve

DENTON, Texas — Mark A. Schlieve, 23, Denton, formerly of route 2, Buchanan, died early Monday morning in Flow Memorial hospital, here, after apparently being accidentally overcome by nitrous oxide gas, Denton police said.

Schlieve, was employed as an inhalation therapist at the hospital and was on duty at the time of his death, according to Wallis Duvall, hospital administrator.

Police said they are awaiting results of an autopsy to determine exact cause of death, but it appears Schlieve was handling some nitrous oxide gas at the time of his death. His body was found by another hospital employee in a room that was being renovated at the hospital.

Capt. Hugh Lynch of the Denton police said at this time it appears Schlieve's death was accidental.

He was born Feb. 28, 1952, in Fairfield, Calif.

Mr. Schlieve moved from Buchanan one year ago.

Surviving are his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Schlieve, Buchanan; a brother, Mike R. with the U.S. Air Force in Wyoming; a sister, Miss Cherie Schlieve, at home and his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Boyer, Buchanan.

Funeral services will be held at 10 a.m. Friday in the United Methodist church, Galien. Burial will be in Galien cemetery.

Friends may call at the Swem-Smith funeral home, Buchanan, after 7 p.m. Wednesday.

Vote-In-Person New Policy For Covert Schools

COVERT — The Covert school board last night adopted a new policy for school elections which would require all voters in the district to vote in person on all school issues except bonding issues.

The policy, which would make the district a nonregistered school district, was adopted in the form of a resolution which passed by a four to one vote with two board members abstaining.

Voting in favor of the resolution were Harold Bracken, Bernard Lucas, Mrs. Alice Blair and Donald Quinn Jr. The lone dissenter was Carl Grigereit and the abstentions came from Mrs. Ernestine Kahn and Jerry Foster.

The resolution is to become effective in 90 days.

In a nonregistered school district, school voters do not have to be registered with the township in order to vote in school elections.

People appearing to vote in school elections have only to sign an application swearing they are qualified to vote in the school election.

Presently, Covert residents must be registered through the township before they are able to vote in school elections.

Generally, according to a legal firm which specializes in work for school districts, becoming a nonregistered school district prevents voting by absentee ballot.

The resolution was apparently aimed at eliminating the use of absentee ballots in local school elections. Board members had charged last August that there had been illegal use of absentee ballots during an election for renewal of a 16-mill property tax.

During that election, about 37 per cent of the ballots were absentee. After two separate recounts, the proposal passed with a narrow margin of six votes. In the recounts, all but 44 of 172 challenged absentee ballots were counted, and of those counted, all but four of them were no votes.

The proposal had originally been declared a winner by 156 votes. The final tally was 488 to 482.

Supt. William Randall at that time charged that some people using absentee ballots may have been registered voters in other states.

Last night, the board also agreed to appoint a committee to investigate the reason behind the second recount of the August election. The Van Buren county board of canvassers performed its first election recount two weeks after the Aug. 4 election, but then performed a second, and unannounced, recount in September.

The second recount was conducted after petitions signed by 350 Covert school district residents were presented to the canvassing board, according to Covert township Supervisor Jerry Sarno.

Results of the second recount were made public in October.

The committee to investigate the second recount will be appointed by Mrs. Kahn, the board's secretary, after each member submits three names.

The investigation was asked for by Mrs. Octavia Hawkins, who appeared at last night's meeting.

In another action, Quinn resigned as president of the board and Lucas was elected to replace him.

In his resignation, Quinn said his personal work did not leave him enough time to perform the duties of board president. He will remain a member of the board.

Quinn was elected president by a four to two vote with one abstention.

Voting for Quinn as president were Bracken, Lucas, Mrs. Blair and Quinn himself. Opposed were Grigereit and Foster, and Mrs. Kahn abstained.

The board approved contract modification orders for contractors working on the new school buildings. The changes were approved for Bosch Plumbing and Heating, Erhardt Construction company, and Parkway Electric company.

The board also adopted four policies setting requirements for school programs.

One policy adopted set requirements that junior high students must complete to be passed to the next grade. The policy requires the students, in grades 6 through 8, to pass three of the four basic courses taken during the school year. A basic course failed by the student would have to be repeated in the next grade. Failure of two or more basic courses would result in the student being retained in the same grade an additional year.

The other three policies spelled out requirements for the awarding of equivalency certificates, the awarding of credit for students in the homebound program, and for student attendance at the Van Buren skills center.

health problems resulting from the infectious diseases which formerly acted so lethally on children and young adults," the report said, "a substantial increase in the more slowly operating chronic degenerative diseases is inevitable.

"These are conditions whose prevalence increases sharply with age. The increasing longevity of the population and the resultant shift in its composition toward the older ages have resulted in a greatly increased frequency of chronic diseases."

Thus, the report concluded, "increased rates of certain chronic diseases in the population may reflect more effective rather than less effective management of illness."

The U.S. population over age 65 stood at just 3.1 million in 1900, tripled to 9 million by 1940, more than doubled again to 2.02 million in 1970 and, at the current rate, may reach 29 million by the turn of the next century, federal statisticians estimated.

The government said part of the explanation for the older population lies with better immunization and health care during younger years.

Only 43 children died in 1973 from tuberculosis, diphtheria, polio and measles, compared with 2,729 in 1950. Similarly, child deaths from influenza and pneumonia averaged about 14,000 annually in the 1930s but had dropped off to 1,345 in 1973, the report said.

Death rates in accidents involving children, however, have remained just about constant at 12,500 a year. Roughly half result from motor vehicle mishaps.

The report said young adults aged 15-24 die less frequently now from TB, heart disease, flu and pneumonia but, since 1950, the toll from accidents, suicides and homicides has increased rapidly.

In 1973 there were more than 77,500 deaths from those causes among adults aged 15-44, and the toll among younger people aged 15-24 increased one-third from car accidents and more than doubled from murder and suicide since 1950.

Among older adults aged 45-64, the report said, death rates from stroke, arteriosclerosis, kidney disease and gastric ulcers have all shown marked reductions but the cancer death has increased from 269 per 100,000 persons in 1950 to 292 in 1973.

The other exceptions to the generally brighter health picture are that death rates more than doubled during the last decade from cirrhosis of the liver and bronchitis, emphysema and asthma, the latter three aggravated by smoking and air pollution.

Paw Paw Approves 'March'

PAW PAW — The Paw Paw village council last night gave its permission for a mothers' march on birth defects donation drive in the village Jan. 24 through 30.

The council also approved bills in the amount of $74,027.

United Way Agencies Bilked

KALAMAZOO, Mich. (AP) — Four United Way agencies disclosed Monday they may have lost $47,000 or more when a computer bookkeeping firm closed. Meanwhile, a nationwide search continued for James Robert Redican, 37, of Holland, president of the Kentwood-based Computer Payroll & Accounting Services. He is charged with embezzlement and is under a federal fugitive warrant. The last definite sighting of Redican occurred last Tuesday, authorities have reported. The Kalamazoo-area Boy Scouts of America Council, Goodwill Industries, YMCA and YWCA all reported Monday they were clients of Redican's firm.

Malpractice Rates To Be Raised

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Travelers Insurance Co. has notified Southern California's physicians that it will raise malpractice insurance rates by the 327 per cent ceiling imposed by the state and will try to raise the rates even higher. Doctors in the area began a slowdown Jan. 1 to protest rate increases announced earlier by the Hartford, Conn., firm. The slowdown has disrupted health care in early 100 hospitals in five counties and has affected the jobs of nearly 26,000 hospital workers. There was no immediate reaction from physicians to the Travelers' notice Monday, but doctors have maintained all along that the general magnitude of the hike — and not the specific amount — was at issue.

13th Body Found In Ruins

FREMONT, Neb. (AP) — A 13th body has been found in the wreckage of Fremont's Pathfinder Hotel, three days after an explosion and fire tore through the building. Another five persons were still missing and feared dead as workmen picked through the rubble Monday. Dozens more were injured in the blast Saturday. In the aftermath, 20 downtown businesses in the community of 22,000 were closed. But Charles Strasburg, head of Fremont's Chamber of Commerce, said, "This in no way will kill downtown Fremont. It's just too strong for that." But he conceded, "Naturally, this is not going to help."

Teachers Ignore Fines

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Despite stiff court-imposed fines against the union and individual strikers, a spokesman for the Pittsburgh Federation of Teachers says a seven-week-old walkout will continue. Judge Donald Ziegler fined the union $25,000 for failing to end the strike Monday, and added $10,000 — plus $100 for individual teachers — for each day the walkout continues. Only 345 of the district's 3,900 teachers heeded Ziegler's court order and instructions from the school board by reporting to school Monday. Classes for 62,000 pupils were canceled and rescheduled for today, but a union spokesman said the teachers would be back on the picket lines in greater force than ever.

Ford Price Hikes Rapped

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Ford Motor Co.'s recent 2.2 per cent price increase on its new cars seems to be an attempt to increase profits, the government's inflation-watch agency says. The Council on Wage and Price Stability issued its conclusion Monday. The Jan. 5 increase, the council said, "is not a reflection of industry cost increases since new 1976 model introductions, but rather it appears to be an attempt to widen margins in a period of rebounding sales volume and diminished import competition." The council estimated the increase would add $91 per vehicle compared with similarly equipped 1975 models.

Allegan Sheriff Believes Dixon Is 'Communist Agent'

By ALAN AREND
Staff Writer

ALLEGAN — Allegan County Sheriff Robert Whitcomb said he firmly believes that Richard Frederick Dixon, accused slayer of South Haven Patrolman Michael McAllister, is a communist agent.

Dixon is currently lodged in the Allegan county jail; here, without bond, in connection with the McAllister slaying and FBI warrants charging him with the Oct. 8, 1971 skyjacking of an Eastern Airlines 727 jet from Detroit to Havana, Cuba.

Whitcomb said Dixon has indicated he is a communist agent, but hasn't "out and out admitted to being one."

However, "There's no question in our minds he's a communist agent," Whitcomb said.

Extra precautions have been taken at the county jail in an effort to guard Dixon, according to Whitcomb.

Contrary to other news reports saying Dixon is in fear of his life, Sheriff Whitcomb said "Dixon has never said he was in fear of his life, but due to circumstances surrounding his background, extra precautions have been taken in guarding him."

Spokesmen for the FBI in Grand Rapids and Detroit said

Dixon has made no statements to the FBI claiming he is a communist agent. However, the FBI agents said they are continuing to check out all aspects of Dixon's background. The FBI agents contacted, declined to reveal any portion of their interrogation of Dixon.

"We're still trying to resolve where he's (Dixon) been over the past four years and what he was doing in the South Haven area," an FBI spokesman said.

Whitcomb said that whenever Dixon was asked how he got here, how long he had been here, or what his purpose was here, Dixon would answer by saying "I can't tell you that."

Whitcomb said he asked Dixon if he realized the trouble he could be in if he was ever captured in the U.S. and Dixon replied that he did, but termed it an "occupational hazard" a chance one takes if he believes in what he's doing.

According to Whitcomb, Dixon said he had been in and out of Cuba the past four years, but never back in the U.S., until recently. Whitcomb also said Dixon said he went to college in Havana for about a year.

Concerning an alleged shoot-out in Jamaica several weeks ago in which it has been reported several policemen were shot, Whitcomb said Dixon initially said he knew nothing about it.

But later, according to Whitcomb, Dixon said his "commrade" who he had been together with for four years "was killed in Jamaica."

Det. Sgt. Robert Rank of the South Haven state police post, said Dixon remained "quite calm" following his arrest early Friday morning.

Rank said he has interviewed people who believe they saw Dixon in a South Haven bar Thursday night. Rank said his department's investigation led them to believe Dixon had been staying in a cottage, just north of South Haven, for what he believed was a short time. Rank said police are still trying to find out who owns the cottage.

Earlier reports indicated McAllister was shot once in the heart and once in the stomach. However, Rank said an autopsy report showed McAllister was shot once in the stomach and once in the back, as he apparently spun around after first being shot in the stomach.

Allegan Prosecutor Fred "Rick" Hunter said his office has been contacted by a man who identified himself as an attorney with the Peoples Law office, Chicago, saying they will represent Dixon.

Funeral services for McAllister will be held Thursday, at 1 p.m. at Pilgrim Rest Baptist church, Benton Harbor. Patrolman McAllister will lie in state at the church, 1105 East Main street, from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m., Wednesday. The family will receive friends from 7 p.m. to 8 p.m. at the church. Burial will be in Crystal Springs cemetery, Benton township.

Bid-Taking Procedure Attacked At Bangor

School Board Member Objects

BANGOR — Questions on how Bangor school officials seek bids on school equipment forced the Bangor school board last night to table bids it had received on furniture for the middle school now under construction.

The queries were raised by board member Mrs. Peggy Phillips, who, in a prepared statement, questioned school bid-taking procedures. She also said she was not satisfied with the job being done by Supt. Howard Beyer.

It was not the first time school bid-taking procedures have come under attack.

In October, Paul French accused the board of buying several items without competitive bidding. The accusation was among 17 leveled at the board by French in a request to the state education department for an audit review of the Bangor system.

Bids opened last night were on bleachers, lab equipment, library furniture and classroom furniture.

In another area, Board President Donald Piper said a preliminary audit of school financial procedures was in the hands of Dr. John Porter, state superintendent of education. The preliminary audit was the first step in response to French's request.

He said, however, he doesn't know yet when that report will be available to school officials and the public.

Spokesmen in the state department of education have said the report would be the basis for a decision on whether a full audit review would be ordered.

In connection with the bidding, Mrs. Phillips asked in a prepared statement:

"Who took action to call for these bids? When and by what authority? How many were asked to bid and whom decided on whom to ask? Are there others in this business that could have been asked?"

Board member Fred Waite said that some months ago the board authorized the school's architects to take bids as work on the building progressed. Mrs. Phillips said she could not recall any such action being authorized.

Supt. Howard Beyer admitted other manufacturers could have been asked to bid, but that through attendance at earlier educational conferences in Dallas and Atlantic City, some of the board had been able to get an idea of what equipment they wanted and eliminate lower quality merchandise.

Beyer said he "was authorized to take bids subject to the approval of the board" and that he "took the liberty of sending out bids to salesmen who regularly call (at the school)."

Beyer said after the meeting that the bids were not advertised in local papers because it was felt the manufacturers that needed to be reached would not see the ads. He added that some companies without salesmen in the state were not notified because of a possible problem later with service on the equipment.

On all but one of the four areas under bid only two bids were read at last night's meeting. In the case of bleachers, Beyer said the number of manufacturers in the area was limited. A bid for a steel set was submitted by Inter-Kal, Inc. of Kalamazoo for $98,125, and a wooden set by Universal Bleacher, Champaign, Ill., for $109,925.

The other three areas involved lab equipment, library furniture and classroom furniture. On the lab equipment, Kewanee Scientific, Statesville, N.C., bid $28,875 while Classrooms, Inc., Lansing, bid $37,481.

On library furniture, Classrooms, Inc., bid $22,268; Fancher Furniture, New York, $24,826; and Buckstaff, Oshkosh, Wis., $25,156.

On classroom furniture,

Charles Luley Associates, Kalamazoo, bid $7,728, and Wakefield, Menominee, Mich., $9,990.

Piper said it is possible other bids may be accepted.

In her statement, Mrs. Phillips said the board had failed to fully explain to the public its Sept. 29 decision in closed session not to seek Beyer's resignation. The resignation of the superintendent had been one of the recommendations made by a blue ribbon committee appointed to study school problems.

Mrs. Phillips said her decision to vote not to fire Beyer was based on her "compassion as a woman."

"Much has happened since then," she added, "and I have not seen any improvement in our actions as a board."

At one point the board was asked in a question submitted in writing from the audience if it thought Beyer was doing a competent job. Piper, Dr. Joseph Cooper, Waite, Richard Kroegel, and Forrest Gough, all of whom are facing recall in a Feb. 2 election, said yes.

Mrs. Phillips said no. Board member Otto Watkins was absent.

Van Buren Getting GOP Sheriff's Race

PAW PAW — An August primary race for the Republican nomination for Van Buren county sheriff developed here yesterday.

Norman G. Rushing of Paw

Paw, a former state police officer, announced he would seek the nod for the post now held by Republican Sheriff Richard Stump.

Stump, first elected sheriff in 1962, said last Friday he plans to seek re-election. He was unavailable today for comment on statements made by Rushing during his announcement for the office.

A native of Coloma, Rushing, 38, was appointed magistrate of the Seventh district court's Paw Paw division last June 1 by Judge William C. Buhl. Prior to that, he had served as a Benton Harbor city policeman from 1965-68, and a state police trooper at the Cadillac, Detroit, and Paw Paw posts from 1966-74.

A Navy veteran, Rushing and his wife, Virginia, have three sons and reside at route 2, box 355, Paw Paw.

If elected, Rushing said he would place the purchase of food for prisoners at the county jail under the direct administration of the county board of commissioners, to insure a better accounting of how the money is spent. He added that he felt both the quality and quantity of food presently being served is inadequate, and that the 80 cents allowed per prisoner per meal was insufficient.

Rushing also said that if elected, he planned to work to improve relations between the sheriff's department and area news media and law enforcement agencies.

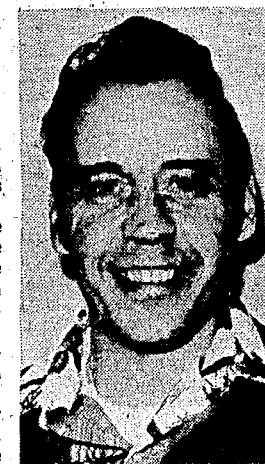

He said there seemed to be a general lack of cooperation between the sheriff's department and other county police. He noted that in one instance state police working on a breaking and entering case in the Bloomington area had arrested two suspects, one in Van Buren county, the other in Allegan county.

The sheriff's department lodged the suspect arrested in Van Buren, but refused to take the man arrested in Allegan, Rushing said. Instances such as that, he said, have built up a lot of animosity between the sheriff's department and other agencies.

Rushing also said that current sheriff's department operating procedures are usually notes that "the Sheriff feels like putting up on the wall at the time."

Rushing said he would also require that every deputy be a certified police officer and at least 21 years old.

"I believe I could give the taxpayers better services than they're now paying for and not getting," he said.

VILLAGE COUNCIL

Galien Opposed To County Ambulance

GALIEN — Galien village council last night said it was not in favor of a countywide ambulance service and voted not to support such a service if one is adopted.

Councilman Jack Canfield pointed out that the citizens of Galien had worked very hard to raise money for an ambulance and that volunteer attendants have gone through a lot of training without the help of the county.

The council said it felt Galien would not get as good service from a countywide service as the village presently gets from its own service.

In other areas, the council voted to send a letter to Blossomtime, Inc. asking that organization to pay bills that remain unpaid from last year's queen contest in Galien.

The council acted in response to a request from Mrs. Robert DeFreez, Parent-Teacher organization president, who said the PTO had been receiving requests for payment of the accounts.

Mrs. DeFreez said that the PTO, which had sponsored several previous queen contests, did not sponsor last year's contest and would not be responsible for the bills.

The council chose to get involved upon learning that Galien is not scheduled to have a queen contest this year. The council also voted to help sponsor the contest this year if filing deadlines have not passed.

Mrs. DeFreez said she did not know how much the unpaid bills totaled but said they were all signed by the contest chairman, Mrs. Dale Schell.

In a similar discussion, PTO

Treasurer William Underly told council members he had contacted the county prosecutor's office in connection with a phone bill for the Galien area chamber of commerce.

Underly told the council that he was being billed by the phone company as vice-president of the chamber of commerce. Mrs. Schell was reported to be president of the chamber.

Underly said that he was not vice president of the chamber and knew nothing about the chamber. He asked the council members if they knew about the chamber.

The council said that they did not recognize or support any such organization in the Galien area.

The council voted to ask their attorney to check what the council could do in both the queen contest and chamber of commerce situations.

Niles State Police

Arrest 3 Chicagoans

NILES — State police from the Niles post said they arrested three Chicagoans yesterday afternoon here on charges of uttering and publishing and receiving and concealing stolen property over $100 in value.

Arrested were Ernest Watson, 33, Jerry Thomas, 33, and Charlene Edwards, 23, all of Chicago, Ill. All were lodged in the city jail pending arraignments today.

Police said the three were arrested about 4 p.m. after attempting to purchase a tire from the Custom Tire store, US-31 South, Niles with a $100 money order.

The money order was reportedly stolen from the Polaski-Adams Currency Exchange, Chicago, in 1968, police said.

The three are also suspects in the reported passing of another $100 money order, also believed stolen, that was cashed at a South Bend motel yesterday, police said.

Two Van Buren Inmates File $2 Million Lawsuit

GRAND RAPIDS — Two prisoners at the Van Buren county jail have filed a $2 million damage suit in federal district court here against Van Buren county claiming their constitutional rights were violated by conditions and practices at the jail.

The inmates, Robert C. Marr, 45, Ann Arbor, and Tillman Crabtree, 43, 417 Third street, Lawton, said in the suit that conditions at the jail have prohibited their attempts to get an impartial trial and have caused great mental and physical anguish.

Punishment cells used at the jail also violated their constitutional rights because they constitute cruel and unusual punishment, according to the suit.

Both men are currently awaiting trial. Crabtree is charged with criminal sexual conduct, growing out of a complaint by the parents of a 14-year-old Lawton girl that he forced her to have sexual relations last August.

Marr is charged with gross indecency and assault with intent to rape in connection with an alleged attack on a 17-year-old girl in Almena township last March.

Judge Meyer Warshawsky denied a motion by Marr yesterday in Van Buren circuit court to reduce bond in the case from $50,000 to personal recognizance. Warshawsky has been filling in until a successor can be named for Judge David Anderson Jr. who retired Jan. 1.

Van Buren Prosecutor Frank D. Willis, who is the county's legal representative, said claims made in the suit are "frivolous" and have little, if any, support in fact.

"He's (Marr) filed several motions on his own before," Willis said. "Evidently he's a pretty good jailhouse lawyer because he has five previous felony convictions."

"He's searching. He's doing anything he can to keep from going back (to prison)."

A copy of the suit given to Willis was handwritten in ink on a paper towel.

Canceled

COVERT — Classes at Covert school were canceled today after a breakdown in the school's heating system, according to a school spokesman.

The spokesman said a malfunction in the boiler system shut off heat to classrooms.

ALLEGAN — Allegan County Sheriff Robert Whitcomb said he firmly believes that Richard Frederick Dixon, accused slayer of South Haven Patrolman Michael McAllister, is a communist agent.

Dixon is currently lodged in the Allegan county jail, here, without bond, in connection with the McAllister slaying and FBI warrants charging him with the Oct. 9, 1971 skyjacking of an Eastern Airlines 727 jet from Detroit to Havana, Cuba.

Whitcomb said Dixon has indicated he is a communist agent, but hasn't "out and out admitted to being one."

However, "There's no question in our minds he's a communist agent," Whitcomb said.

Extra precautions have been taken at the county jail in an effort to guard Dixon, according to Whitcomb.

Contrary to other news reports saying Dixon is in fear of his life, Sheriff Whitcomb said "Dixon has never said he was in fear of his life, but due to circumstances surrounding his background, extra precautions have been taken in guarding him."

Spokesmen for the FBI in Grand Rapids and Detroit said

Dixon has made no statements to the FBI claiming he is a communist agent. However, the FBI agents said they are continuing to check out all aspects of Dixon's background. The FBI agents contacted, declined to reveal any portion of their interrogation of Dixon.

"We're still trying to resolve where he's (Dixon) been over the past four years and what he was doing in the South Haven area," an FBI spokesman said.

Whitcomb said that whenever Dixon was asked how he got here, how long he had been here, or what his purpose was here, Dixon would answer by saying "I can't tell you that."

Whitcomb said he asked Dixon if he realized the trouble he could be in if he was ever captured in the U.S. and Dixon replied that he did, but termed it an "occupational hazard" a chance one takes if he believes in what he's doing.

According to Whitcomb, Dixon said he had been in and out of Cuba the past four years, but never back in the U.S., until recently. Whitcomb also said Dixon said he went to college in Havana for about a year.

Concerning an alleged shootout in Jamaica several weeks ago in which it has been reported several policemen were shot, Whitcomb said Dixon initially said he knew nothing about it. But later, according to Whitcomb, Dixon said his "comrade" who he had been together with for four years "was killed in Jamaica."

Det. Sgt. Robert Rank of the South Haven state police post, said Dixon remained "quite calm" following his arrest early Friday morning.

Rank said he has interviewed people who believe they saw Dixon in a South Haven bar Thursday night, Rank said his department's investigation led them to believe Dixon had been staying in a cottage, just north of South Haven, for what he believed was a short time. Rank said police are still trying to find out who owns the cottage.

Earlier reports indicated McAllister was shot once in the heart and once in the stomach. However, Rank said an autopsy report showed McAllister was shot once in the stomach and once in the back, as he apparently spun around after first being shot in the stomach.

Allegan Prosecutor Fred "Rick" Hunter said his office has been contacted by a man who identified himself as an attorney with the Peoples Law office, Chicago, saying they will represent Dixon.

Funeral services for McAllister will be held Thursday, at 1 p.m. at Pilgrim Rest Baptist church, Benton Harbor. Pastorman McAllister will lie in state at the church, 1105 East Main street, from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m., Wednesday. The family will receive friends from 7 p.m. to 8 p.m. at the church. Burial will be in Crystal Springs cemetery, Benton township.

Lake road, east of Niles.

The meeting was announced by Marvin LaVanway, Berrien county Democratic chairman. LaVanway said a member of the State Central committee will explain the delegate selection process under the central committee's affirmative action program.

Canceled

COVERT — Classes at Covert school were canceled today after a breakdown in the school's heating system, according to a school spokesman.

The spokesman said a malfunction in the boiler system shut off heat to classrooms.

Berrien Democrats Will Meet In Cass

The convention delegate selection process will be reviewed at a meeting of the Berrien county Democratic committee, held in conjunction with the Fourth District Democratic organization at 8 Thursday in the Howard township hall, Cass county.

The hall is at 1345 Barron

Two Van Buren Inmates File $2 Million Lawsuit

GRAND RAPIDS — Two prisoners at the Van Buren county jail have filed a $2 million damage suit in federal district court here against Van Buren county claiming their constitutional rights were violated by conditions and practices at the jail.

The inmates, Robert C. Marr, 45, Ann Arbor, and Tillman Crabtree, 43, 417 Third street, Lawton, said in the suit that conditions at the jail have prohibited their attempts to get an impartial trial and have caused great mental and physical anguish.

Punishment cells used at the jail also violated their constitutional rights because they constitute cruel and unusual punishment, according to the suit.

Both men are currently awaiting trial. Crabtree is charged with criminal sexual conduct, growing out of a complaint by the parents of a 14-year-old Lawton girl that he forced her to have sexual relations last August.

Marr is charged with gross indecency and assault with intent to rape in connection with an alleged attack on a 17-year-old girl in Almena township last March.

Judge Meyer Warshawsky denied a motion by Marr yesterday in Van Buren circuit court to reduce bond in the case from $50,000 to personal recognizance. Warshawsky has been filling in until a successor can be named for Judge David Anderson Jr. who retired Jan. 1.

Van Buren Prosecutor Frank D. Willis, who is the county's legal representative, said claims made in the suit are "frivolous" and have little, if any, support in fact.

"He's (Marr) filed several motions on his own before," Willis said. "Evidently he's a pretty good jailhouse lawyer because he's had five previous felony convictions."

"He's searching. He's doing anything he can to keep from going back (to prison)."

A copy of the suit given to Willis was handwritten in ink on a paper towel.

STATE AID LOSS

Watervliet Cuts School Budget

WATERVLIT — The Watervliet school board last night approved budget reductions totaling $14,725 as the result of reduced state aid to local school districts.

Supt. Samuel Gravitt said the state aid was reduced following budget reductions at the state level ordered by Gov. William Milliken.

He said the board approved a reduced budget for the 1975-76 school year totaling $1,950,430. To arrive at the reduced budget figure, small amounts were trimmed from a variety of planned expenditures, Gravitt said.

In other areas, the board approved an agreement with the Watervliet Recreation council which will allow the council to use district-owned baseball diamonds for summer recreation programs.

The board approved an amendment to the policy on building use which will allow education oriented groups to use facilities at the minimum fee, which is one and one-half times the cost of the custodial rate.

The board approved creation of a position of an aide to ride on the school bus for emotionally impaired children. The new position will pay $3.06 per hour, Gravitt said.

The date for high school graduation in 1976 was set for Friday, May 28, at 8 p.m. The baccalaureate ceremony was set for Sunday, May 23, at 4 p.m.

Bid-Taking Procedure Attacked At Bangor School Board Member Objects

BANGOR — Questions on how Bangor school officials seek bids on school equipment forced the Bangor school board last night to table bids it had received on furniture for the middle school now under construction.

The queries were raised by board member Mrs. Peggy Phillips, who, in a prepared statement, questioned school bid-taking procedures. She also said she was not satisfied with the job being done by Supt. Howard Beyer.

It was not the first time school bid-taking procedures have come under attack.

In October, Paul French accused the board of buying several items without competitive bidding. The accusation was among 17 leveled at the board by French in a request to the state education department for an audit review of the Bangor system.

Bids opened last night were on bleachers, lab equipment, library furniture and classroom furniture.

In another area, Board President Donald Piper said a preliminary audit of school financial procedures was in the hands of Dr. John Porter, state superintendent of education. The preliminary audit was the first step in response to French's request.

He said, however, he doesn't know yet when that report will be available to school officials and the public.

Spokesmen in the state department of education have said the report would be the basis for a decision on whether a full audit review would be ordered.

In connection with the bidding, Mrs. Phillips asked in a prepared statement:

"Who took action to call for these bids? When and by what authority? How many were asked to bid and whom decided on whom to ask? Are there others in this business that could have been asked?"

Board member Fred Waite said that some months ago the board authorized the school's architects to take bids as work on the building progressed. Mrs. Phillips said she could not recall any such action being authorized.

Supt. Howard Beyer admitted other manufacturers could have been asked to bid, but that through attendance at earlier educational conferences in Dallas and Atlantic City, some of the board had been able to get an idea of what equipment they wanted and eliminate lower quality merchandise.

Beyer said he "was authorized to take bids subject to the approval of the board" and that he "took the liberty of sending out bids to salesmen who regularly call (at the school)."

Beyer said after the meeting that the bids were not advertised in local papers because it was felt the manufacturers that needed to be reached would not see the ads. He added that some companies without salesmen in the state were not notified because of a possible problem later with service on the equipment.

On all but one of the four areas under bid only two bids were read at last night's meeting. In the case of bleachers, Beyer said the number of manufacturers in the area was limited. A bid for a steel set was submitted by InterKal, Inc. of Kalamazoo for $98,125, and a wooden set by Universal Bleacher, Champaign, Ill., for $109,925.

The other three areas involved lab equipment, library furniture and classroom furniture. On the lab equipment, Kewanee Scientific, Statesville, N.C., bid $28,875 while Classrooms, Inc., Lansing, bid $37,481.

On library furniture, Classrooms, Inc., bid $22,268; Fancher Furniture, New York, $24,826; and Buckstaff, Oshkosh, Wis., $25,158.

On classroom furniture,

Charles Luley Associates, Kalamazoo, bid $7,728, and Wakefield, Menominee, Mich., $9,990.

Piper said it is possible other bids may be accepted.

In her statement, Mrs. Phillips said the board had failed to fully explain to the public its Sept. 29 decision in closed session not to seek Beyer's resignation. The resignation of the superintendent had been one of the recommendations made by a blue ribbon committee appointed to study school problems.

Mrs. Phillips said her decision to vote not to fire Beyer was based on her "compassion as a woman."

"Much has happened since then," she added, "and I have not seen any improvement in our actions as a board."

At one point the board was asked in a question submitted in writing from the audience if it thought Beyer was doing a competent job. Piper, Dr. Joseph Cooper, Waite, Richard Kroegel, and Forrest Gough, all of whom are facing recall in a Feb. 2 election, said yes.

Mrs. Phillips said no. Board member Otto Watkins was absent.

Van Buren Getting GOP Sheriff's Race

PAW PAW — An August primary race for the Republican nomination for Van Buren county sheriff developed here yesterday.

Norman G. Rushing of Paw Paw, a former state police officer, announced he would seek the nod for the post now held by Republican Sheriff Richard Stump.

Stump, first elected sheriff in 1962, said last Friday he plans to seek re-election. He was unavailable today for comment on statements made by Rushing during his announcement for the office.

A native of Coloma, Rushing, 38, was appointed magistrate of the Seventh district court's Paw Paw division last June 1 by Judge William C. Buhl. Prior to that, he had served as a Benton Harbor city policeman from 1965-66, and a state police trooper at the Cadillac, Detroit, and Paw Paw posts from 1966-74.

A Navy veteran, Rushing and his wife, Virginia, have three sons and reside at route 2, box 355, Paw Paw.

If elected, Rushing said he would place the purchase of food for prisoners at the county jail under the direct administration of the county board of commissioners, to insure a better accounting of how the money is spent. He added that he felt both the quality and quantity of food presently being served is inadequate, and that the 80 cents allowed per prisoner per meal was insufficient.

Rushing also said that if elected, he planned to work to improve relations between the sheriff's department and area news media and law enforcement agencies.

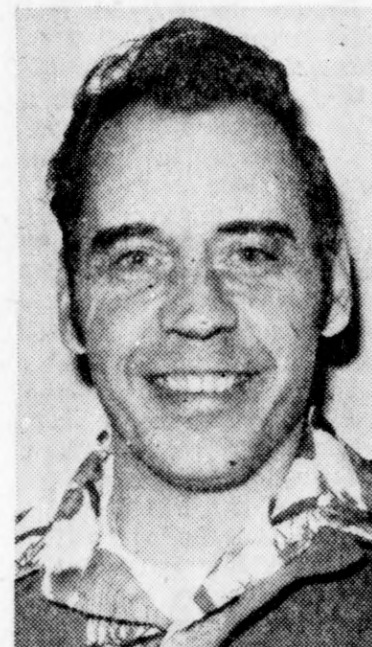

He said there seemed to be a general lack of cooperation between the sheriff's department and other county police. He noted that in one instance state police working on a breaking and entering case in the Bloomington area had arrested two suspects, one in Van Buren county, the other in Allegan county.

The sheriff's department lodged the suspect arrested in Van Buren, but refused to take the man arrested in Allegan. Rushing said. Instances such as that, he said, have built up a lot of animosity between the sheriff's department and other agencies.

Rushing also said that current sheriff's department operating procedures are usually notes that "the Sheriff feels like putting up on the wall at the time."

Rushing said he would also require that every deputy be a certified police officer and at least 21 years old.

"I believe I could give the taxpayers better services than they're now paying for and not getting," he said.

VILLAGE COUNCIL

Galien Opposed To County Ambulance

GALIEN — Galien village council last night said it was not in favor of a countywide ambulance service and voted not to support such a service if one is adopted.

Councilman Jack Canfield pointed out that the citizens of Galien had worked very hard to raise money for an ambulance and that volunteer attendants have gone through a lot of training without the help of the county.

The council said it felt Galien would not get as good service from a countywide service as the village presently gets from its own service.

In other areas, the council voted to send a letter to Blossomtime, Inc. asking that organization to pay bills that remain unpaid from last year's queen contest in Galien.

The council acted in response to a request from Mrs. Robert DeFreez, Parent-Teacher organization president, who said the PTO had been receiving requests for payment of the accounts.

Mrs. DeFreez said that the PTO, which had sponsored several previous queen contests, did not sponsor last year's contest and would not be responsible for the bills.

The council chose to get involved upon learning that Galien is not scheduled to have a queen contest this year. The council also voted to help sponsor the contest this year if filing deadlines have not passed.

Mrs. DeFreez said she did not know how much the unpaid bills were all signed but said they were all signed by the contest chairman, Mrs. Dale Schell.

In a similar discussion, PTO

Treasurer William Underly told council members he had contacted the county prosecutor's office in connection with a phone bill for the Galien area chamber of commerce.

Underly told the council that he was being billed by the phone company as vice-president of the chamber of commerce. Mrs. Schell was reported to be president of the chamber.

Underly said that he was not vice president of the chamber and knew nothing about the chamber. He asked the council members if they knew about the chamber.

The council said that they did not recognize or support any such organization in the Galien area.

The council voted to ask their attorney to check what the council could do in both the queen contest and chamber of commerce situations.

Niles State Police

Arrest 3 Chicagoans

NILES — State police from the Niles post said they arrested three Chicagoans yesterday afternoon here on charges of uttering and publishing and receiving and concealing stolen property over $100 in value.

Arrested were Ernest Watson, 33, Jerry Thomas, 33, and Charlene Edwards, 23, all of Chicago, Ill. All were lodged in the city jail pending arraignments today.

Police said the three were arrested about 4 p.m. after attempting to purchase a tire from the Custom Tire store, US-31 South, Niles with a $100 money order.

The money order was reportedly stolen from the Polaski-Adams Currency Exchange, Chicago, in 1968, police said.

The three are also suspects in the reported passing of another $100 money order, also believed stolen, that was cashed at a South Bend motel yesterday, police said.

WHA Says Business As Usual For Three Shaky Teams

By MIKE HARRIS
AP Sports Writer

CLEVELAND (AP) — Pointing to the imminent entrance of new money, the World Hockey Association says it's going to be business as usual for Minnesota, San Diego and Ottawa the rest of this season.

Ben Haskin, chairman of the WHA Board of Trustees, made the announcement Monday as a prelude to tonight's All-Star game matching the best of the Canadian Division against the top stars of the American Divisions.

"We are sure these people will meet their obligations and stay where they are the rest of the year," Haskin said.

The former owner of the Winnipeg Jets said Minnesota owner

Wayne Belisle had assured the trustees he would meet the payroll Thursday and his assessment obligations to the league within the 20 days allotted in the WHA bylaws.

"Wayne is working with two groups," Haskin said. "He said if one of them buys in, it will be the strongest group of (backers) in the league. Wayne says he hopes it will be resolved by this weekend."

Belisle was left with a large debt and little cash when the other backers of the St. Paul franchise withdrew in December. He was unable to meet his last payroll two weeks ago, but the players agreed to continue until a solution could be worked out.

Haskin said the two groups dealing with Belisle included "local and other type of money."

San Diego owner Joseph Schwartz also was given 20 days to meet his overdue obligations to the league, although Haskin refused to say how much either team owed.

The board chairman also noted Schwartz and Ivan Mullinex, owner of the Ottawa Civics — until recently the Denver Spurs — both told the trustees they expect to remain where they are and finish the season with the help of local investors.

Noting that "about five" of the league's 14 teams will make money this season at the gate, Haskin said there could be some expansion or movement of franchises for next season. "I don't think, though, we'd ever want to go higher than 14 teams," he we're all right at 12 to 14 teams."

The trustees were scheduled to meet again today, prior to the fourth All-Star classic, with possible discussion of expansion to Miami, Louisville or Seattle. Also on the agenda is the site of next year's All-Star game.

Haskin also announced the playoff format for this season, with 10 of the league's 14 clubs included. The top two teams in each of the WHA's three divisions will make the playoffs, as well as the next four clubs with the most points in the standings.

The wild card teams — two more than last year — will meet in best-two-of-three series, with the winners moving into best-four-of-seven series along with the other six contenders.

Spartan Ambush Fails

Hoosiers Remain Atop Big 10, U-M Wins

From ASSOCIATED PRESS

Indiana remained undefeated atop the Big Ten, while Purdue dumped Northwestern to keep within a half game of the Hoosiers and Michigan came back from a weekend loss to Indiana to drop Ohio State in a close game.

In the other Monday night Big Ten contest, Illinois defeated Wisconsin.

Indiana survived an ambush attempt Monday night by Michigan State at East Lansing as even though All-American forward Scott May and guard Quinn Buckner both were in early foul trouble — and won 60-57.

MSU stayed within one point of the nationally top-ranked

Hoosiers for the first 8:11 of the game, but Indiana held a 44-38 halftime lead.

After Buckner took to the sidelines with his fourth foul with 15:22 remaining, Indiana Coach Bobby Knight moved his team into their deliberate offense and the Big Ten leaders pulled away from the Spartans.

Center Kent Benson topped Indiana scoring with 23 points, while Michigan State's Terry Furlow earned game scoring honors with 28.

Indiana now is 13-0 for the season and 4-0 in Big Ten play. MSU fell to 2-3 in the conference and 6-8 for the year.

Michigan, which fell 80-74 Saturday to Indiana, relied on the second-half scoring of Steve Grote to stave off Ohio State for an 84-81 win at Ann Arbor.

Grote hit for 16 points, all after halftime, while teammate Ricky Green scored 25 points for the Wolverines. Buckeye center Craig Taylor pumped in 31 points while holding his opposing number, touted freshman Phil Hubbard, to only two points.

OSU and Michigan had battled to a 37-37 tie at intermission. The Buckeyes could come no closer than three points in the final minutes.

Winless in four Big Ten tries, the Buckeyes dropped their sixth straight, lowering their season record to 4-8. Michigan's win was its fourth in the conference against a single loss. The Wolverines are 10-3 over all.

Purdue took a 91-81 win at home against Northwestern, which fell to 1-4 in the conference and 6-8 for the season. Led by the sophomore forward tandem of Wayne Wells and Walter Jordan, who combined for 39 points, the Boilermakers kept in second place in the Big Ten at 3-0. Jordan hit for 18 points and Wells 21 as all five starters for the victors scored in double figures.

Purdue stretched a 45-41 halftime edge and led by as much as 16 at one point. The win, sixth in seven games, pushed its season mark to 8-4. Northwestern's Billy McKinney led all scorers with 32 points.

Senior guard Nate Williams fired in 21 points for Illinois, which hosted Wisconsin in a 71-61 victory.

The Illini's full-court press in the first half stunned Wisconsin and helped secure a 22-lead in the first eight minutes. But the Badgers pulled to within 36-29 at halftime and kept the game a contest with less than seven minutes to play, closing a comfortable Illinois lead to 89-55.

Gale Koehler was high for Wisconsin with 16 points as the Badgers fell to 8-5 for the season and 2-3 in the Big Ten. The win advanced Illinois' record to 12-1 in the conference and 9-4 for the season.

Perennial Power Kentucky Left Behind In SEC Charge

From ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Southeastern Conference basketball race is taking on the look of a cavalry charge, with no less than six teams in the fray — and perennial power Kentucky, last year's NCAA runner-up, isn't even among the top six.

Tennessee and Alabama, the two national powers who were looking to turn the race into a two-team affair, both were upstaged by conference foes Monday night. Ninth-ranked Tennessee bowed before cross-state rival Vanderbilt, 77-68 and No. 11 Alabama was edged by Florida, 71-70.

So, with the meat of the conference schedule still to come, everybody in the 10-team circuit has at least one loss. Alabama, Auburn, Florida and Vanderbilt are tied for the lead with 3-1 marks, and LSU and Tennessee are right on their heels at 2-1.

In other games involving Top Twenty teams Monday night, No. 1 Indiana eased past Michigan State 80-57, No. 12 St. John's, N.Y., edged Hawaii 74-71 in overtime, No. 15 Notre Dame beat Pittsburgh 77-66, No. 16 Michigan trimmed Ohio State 84-81 and No. 20 Missouri embarrassed outmanned MacMurray 106-34. In an exhibition game, No. 18 Centenary defeated Athletics in Action-East 103-87.

Rock Frosh Win

Berrien Springs' Brad Layman scored 26 points as the Spartans squeaked past Eau Claire 72-69 in a freshmen basketball game played at Eau Claire Monday night. Kevin Mitchell had 25 points for the Beavers.

Alabama came from 18 points down with 8:57 remaining to go ahead by one with eight seconds to go, but Florida refused to fold. Reserve forward Al Bonner took an in-bounds pass, drove the baseline and had his shot blocked by Alabama center Leon Douglas, but Gene Shy recovered the loose ball and barely beat the buzzer with a game-winning layup.

The game had been dominated by the opposing centers. Douglas topped Alabama with 21 points and 18 rebounds, while Bob Smyth of Florida came through with 17 points and 18 rebounds.

In Nashville, Tenn., it was orange night as Vanderbilt fans celebrated their team's first victory over arch-rival Tennessee in two years. The game had to be halted a number of times as members of the sellout crowd of 16,000 hurled oranges onto the floor — one of Tennessee's nicknames being the Big Orange.

Vanderbilt led 41-38 at halftime and gradually stretched the margin to a dozen late in the second half as Joe Ford scored 25 points and Jeff Fosnes added 23. Tennessee's two stars were both held in check, Ernie Grunfeld finishing with 20 points and Bernard King with 16.

Auburn, meanwhile, gained its share of the top spot in the SEC with a 75-70 victory over Mississippi State. Eddie Johnson and Mike Mitchell helped the Tigers overcome a nine-point halftime deficit, Johnson scoring 28 points and Mitchell 21.

Kentucky, meanwhile, finds itself in the unaccustomed role of also-ran in this year's SEC race with its 6-foot-11 forward

Rick Robey sidelined by injury.

But after dropping their first three league games, the Wildcats got on the right side of the ledger Monday night with a 92-78 triumph over Georgia. Jack Givens led the way with 20 points.

St. John's, given a second chance when visiting Hawaii missed two easy shots in the last 10 seconds of regulation play, came on strong in overtime to beat the Rainbows. Frank Alagia and George Johnson each scored four points in overtime, while Glenn Williams took game honors for St. John's, 12-1, with 23.

Notre Dame, 7-3, built a 42-27 halftime lead at Pitt and then coasted to victory behind the scoring of All-American Adrian Dantley, who shot 13 of 15 from the field and had 34 points.

Missouri's 72-point victory margin over MacMurray was the school's biggest ever and the 108 points set a record for the Tigers' home court, where they have won 20 straight. Missouri, 12-2, led 53-20 at halftime and 87-24 when Coach Norm Stewart pulled all his starters with 10 minutes remaining. Willie Smith topped the scoring with 20.

Robert Parish led Centenary's win over AIA-East with 32 points and 22 rebounds, hitting 15 of 19 field goal attempts.

Upton In Sweep

Upton junior high won a pair of basketball games over Lake Michigan Catholic Monday. Chad McLelland netted 13 points while leading the eighth grade to a 38-29 victory, while Jim Pozniwko had 12 in the seven grade's 28-27 triumph.

Giants' Transfer Blocked In Court

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) —

The loss of the San Francisco Giants, perhaps just a lawsuit away from moving to Toronto, "would be immediately felt in the pockets of the taxpayers," a city supervisor warns.

Supervisor Robert Mendelsohn added that a temporary restraining order obtained Monday against the Giants' owners, who have agreed to sell the baseball franchise to a Canadian group, was a step intended "to protect taxpayers' dollars."

The Giants have run out of dollars, losing about $3 million over the past two seasons, and the team's low attendance figures have made games at Candlestick Park unprofitable for most visiting teams.

For that reason, the National League appears willing to surrender the San Francisco Bay Area to the American League and Charles O. Finley's profitable Oakland A's, even though it means a court fight.

But a late offer, reportedly topping the one from Toronto, is being prepared by a group which would keep the team here. The Toronto offer agreed to in principle by the Giants, pending league approval of the sale and transfer of the team, is for $13.25 million of which $5.25 million would be used to free the team from its Candlestick Park lease.

"What we have in mind is $23.5 million," said Board of Supervisors President Quentin Kopp, who joined Mendelsohn in introducing a resolution — adopted unanimously — directing the city attorney to take action to block the departure of the Giants.

The remaining bond debt on the Stadium, completed in 1960 and expanded in 1972, is $23.5 million, Kopp explained. "I'll settle for $20 million if we can get it," said Supervisor Robert Gonzales.

Giants President Horace Stoneham and his board of directors were scheduled to meet today in Phoenix, National League owners may decide in the same city Wednesday, despite Monday's court order, what to do with the team which has spent much of the $500,000 it borrowed from the league last year.

San Francisco Mayor George Moscone will be in Phoenix to argue against the proposed National League abandonment of the city and for acceptance of the offer which would keep the team at Candlestick. San Francisco financier Robert Lurie has joined Raymond Ross of New York and former Texas Rangers president Robert Short to form the new group.

Spartan Signs
CLEVELAND (AP) — George Mahan, a 21-year-old Michigan State University pitcher drafted by the Cleveland Indians, signed a contract with the Tribe's Toledo farm team, the Indians said Friday.

Mahan, a right-hander, posted a 9-6 record in two years at Michigan State with a 1.83 ERA and 135 strikeouts in 105 innings.

Playoff Vote Delay Seen

Legislative Technicality May Postpone Ballot

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The head of the National Collegiate Athletic Association's football playoff committee says a vote on an official major college championship series may have to be put off for a year because of a legislative technicality.

"A lot is going to depend on whether the NCAA reorganizes from three divisions to four," according to Ernest C. Casale, chairman of the NCAA's Division I Football Championship Feasibility Committee.

The problem is that the proposal before the NCAA convention later this week on whether to set up a major college championship playoff, can be voted on only by the football-playing members of Division I.

That division currently consists of 134 football schools. First, however, the delegates must vote on whether to establish a so-called "super" division, which would tentatively include 91 institutions — seven major conferences plus 21 independents. And such a division would not take effect until Aug. 1.

"I think the chances are fairly good for passage if the current Division I votes on a playoff," Casale said. "But if a new Division I is formed, the playoff proposal probably won't come up and we'll have to lose another year."

An NCAA spokesman was even more emphatic. "There's no way in the world it'll pass if reorganization takes place," he said.

"It's a shame this all had to come up at the same time we're trying to develop a Division I championship," Casale said. "I think a national championship would be good for college football. I'm fairly close to basketball, and I think the NCAA Tournament is the greatest thing ever to happen in that sport."

"The 1975 tournament drew the largest television audience ever to watch a basketball game, college or pro. I feel the same thing would happen in football. It would add so much more meaning to the football season."

The major opponents of a championship playoff have been the post-season bowls and those conferences that have annual bowl tie-ups, like the Pacific-8, Big Ten, Big Eight and Southwest Conference.

"You can find all kinds of reasons for not having it," Casale said. "But we have said that it will not affect the bowls at all. In fact, I think this gives a little more meaning to the bowls because any bowl team might be the national champion."

Plans to be presented here consist of a four-team or a two-team playoff format, with the teams to be selected from bowl winners.

"It might not be this year," Casale said, "but before too long, we will see a Division I football championship."

FRAN TARKENTON

'Little Boy From Athens'

Tarkenton Captures MVP

BLOOMINGTON, Minn. (AP) — Francis Tarkenton isn't sure he deserves the honor, but his coach says it's about time he won it.

In any event, the 35-year-old Minnesota quarterback was named Offensive Player of the Year and Most Valuable Player in the National Football League today by The Associated Press.

"I'm appreciative of the recognition," Tarkenton said in a telephone interview from his business in Atlanta. "But I really think it's impossible to pick a person in a team sport that is a most valuable player."

Disagreeing was Vikings Coach Bud Grant, who said, "It's long overdue. I don't know who's more deserving than Francis."

Tarkenton led Minnesota to a 12-2 record and its third straight National Football Conference Central Division title in 1975. He passed for 2,994 yards and 25 touchdowns and established several new NFL records.

In 15 seasons, Tarkenton has completed 2,931 passes in 5,225 attempts for 291 touchdowns — all records. His 38,840 yards passing is within striking distance of Johnny Unitas' standard of 40,238 yards.

The Athens, Ga., native was in the process of creating a memorial for his late father, Dallas Sr., when informed of the awards he has won. The elder Tarkenton, a Methodist minister, died of a heart attack while watching the Dallas Cowboys defeat the Vikings 17-14 in the NFC playoff Dec. 28.

Tarkenton, who still appears to play with the same enthusiasm he brought to the game as a 21-year-old rookie in 1961, says the fanfare hasn't made any difference to his way of life.

"No matter how much you achieve in life, you still think of yourself as being a little boy from Athens," said Tarkenton. "In many ways I'm a fan of professional football."

Fran the Fan is the easy winner of the MVP honor for his 1975 performance. He handily outdistanced three running backs in the voting — O.J. Simpson of Buffalo, Terry Metcalf of St. Louis and Minnesota teammate Chuck Foreman.

WHA Says Business As Usual For Three Shaky Teams

By MIKE HARRIS
AP Sports Writer

CLEVELAND (AP) — Pointing to the imminent entrance of new money, the World Hockey Association says it's going to be business as usual for Minnesota, San Diego and Ottawa the rest of this season.

Ben Hatskin, chairman of the WHA Board of Trustees, made the announcement Monday as a prelude to tonight's All-Star game matching the best of the Canadian Division against the top stars of the American Divisions.

"We are sure these people will meet their obligations and stay where they are the rest of the year," Hatskin said.

The former owner of the Winnipeg Jets said Minnesota owner

Wayne Belisle had assured the trustees he would meet the payroll Thursday and his assessment obligations to the league within the 20 days allotted in the WHA bylaws.

"Wayne is working with two groups," Hatskin said. "He said if one of them buys in, it will be the strongest group (of backers) in the league. Wayne says he hopes it will be resolved by this weekend."

Belisle was left with a large debt and little cash when the other backers of the St. Paul franchise withdrew in December. He was unable to meet his last payroll two weeks ago, but the players agreed to continue until a solution could be worked out.

Hatskin said the two groups dealing with Belisle included "local and other type of money."

San Diego owner Joseph Schwartz also was given 20 days to meet his overdue obligations to the league, although Hatskin refused to say how much either team owed.

The board chairman also noted Schwartz and Ivan Mullinex, owner of the Ottawa Civics — until recently the Denver Spurs — both told the trustees they expect to remain where they are and finish the season with the help of local investors.

Noting that "about five" of the league's 14 teams will make money this season at the gate, Hatskin said there could be some expansion or movement of franchises for next season. "I don't think, though, we'd ever want to go higher than 14 teams. I think

The trustees were scheduled to meet again today, prior to the fourth All-Star classic, with possible discussion of expansion to Miami, Louisville or Seattle. Also on the agenda is the site of next year's All-Star game.

Hatskin also announced the playoff format for this season, with 10 of the league's 14 clubs included. The top two teams in each of the WHA's three divisions will make the playoffs, as well as the next four clubs with the most points in the standings.

The wild card teams — two more than last year — will meet in best-two-of-three series, with the winners moving into best-four-of-seven series along with the other six contenders.

Spartan Ambush Fails

Hoosiers Remain Atop Big 10, U-M Wins

From ASSOCIATED PRESS

Indiana remained undefeated atop the Big Ten, while Purdue dumped Northwestern to keep within a half game of the Hoosiers and Michigan came back from a weekend loss to Indiana to drop Ohio State in a close game.

In the other Monday night Big Ten contest, Illinois defeated Wisconsin.

Indiana survived an ambush attempt Monday night by Michigan State at East Lansing — even though All-American forward Scott May and guard Quinn Buckner both were in early foul trouble — and won 69-57.

MSU stayed within one point of the nationally top-ranked

Hoosiers for the first 9:11 of the game, but Indiana held a 44-38 halftime lead.

After Buckner took to the sidelines with his fourth foul with 15:22 remaining, Indiana Coach Bobby Knight moved his team into their deliberate offense and the Big Ten leaders pulled away from the Spartans.

Center Kent Benson topped Indiana scoring with 23 points, while Michigan State's Terry Furlow earned game scoring honors with 26.

Indiana now is 13-0 for the season and 4-0 in Big Ten play. MSU fell to 2-3 in the conference and 6-8 for the year.

Michigan, which fell 80-74 Saturday to Indiana, relied on the second-half scoring of Steve Grote to stave off Ohio State for an 84-81 win at Ann Arbor.

Grote hit for 16 points, all after halftime, while teammate Ricky Green scored 25 points for the Wolverines. Buckeye center Crag Taylor pumped in 31 points while holding his opposing number, touted freshman Phil Hubbard, to only two points.

OSU and Michigan had battled to a 37-37 tie at intermission. The Buckeyes could come no closer than three points in the final minutes.

Winless in four Big Ten tries, the Buckeyes dropped their sixth straight, lowering their season record to 4-8. Michigan's win was its fourth in the conference against a single loss. The Wolverines are 10-3 over all.

Purdue took a 91-81 win at home against Northwestern, which fell to 1-4 in the conference and 6-8 for the season. Led by the sophomore forward tandem of Wayne Walls and Walter Jordan, who combined for 39 points, the Boilermakers kept in second place in the Big Ten at 3-0. Jordan hit for 18 points and Walls 21 as all five starters for the victors scored in double figures.

Purdue stretched a 45-41 halftime edge and led by as much as 16 at one point. The win, sixth in seven games, pushed its season mark to 8-4. Northwestern's Billy McKinney led all scorers with 32 points.

Senior guard Nate Williams fired in 21 points for Illinois, which hosted Wisconsin in a 71-61 victory.

The Illini's full-court press in the first half stunned Wisconsin and helped secure a 22-8 lead in the first eight minutes. But the Badgers pulled to within 36-29 at halftime and kept the game a contest with less than seven minutes to play, closing a comfortable Illinois lead to 59-55.

Gale Koehler was high for Wisconsin with 16 points as the Badgers fell to 8-5 for the season and 2-3 in the Big Ten. The win advanced Illinois' record in the conference and 9-4 for the season.

Giants' Transfer Blocked In Court

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) —

The loss of the San Francisco Giants, perhaps just a lawsuit away from moving to Toronto, "would be immediately felt in the pockets of the taxpayers," a city supervisor warns.

Supervisor Robert Mendelsohn added that a temporary restraining order obtained Monday against the Giants' owners, who have agreed to sell the baseball franchise to a Canadian group, was a step intended "to protect taxpayers' dollars."

The Giants have run out of dollars, losing about $3 million over the past two seasons, and the team's low attendance figures have made games at Candlestick Park unprofitable for most visiting teams, too.

For that reason, the National League appears willing to surrender the San Francisco Bay Area to the American League and Charles O. Finley's profitable Oakland A's, even though it means a court fight.

But a late offer, reportedly topping the one from Toronto, is being prepared by a group which would keep the team here. The Toronto offer agreed to in principle by the Giants, pending league approval of the sale and transfer of the team, is for $13.25 million of which $5.25 million would be used to free the team from its Candlestick Park lease.

"What we have in mind is $23.5 million," said Board of Supervisors President Quentin Kopp, who joined Mendelsohn in introducing a resolution — adopted unanimously — directing the city attorney to take action

Spartan Signs

CLEVELAND (AP) — George Mahan, a 21-year-old Michigan State University pitcher drafted by the Cleveland Indians, signed a contract with the Tribe's Toledo farm team, the Indians said Friday.

Mahan, a right-hander, posted a 9-6 record in two years at Michigan State with a 1.93 ERA and 135 strikeouts in 105 innings.

Playoff Vote Delay Seen

Legislative Technicality May Postpone Ballot

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The head of the National Collegiate Athletic Association's football playoff committee says a vote on an official major college championship series may have to be put off for a year because of a legislative technicality.

"A lot is going to depend on whether the NCAA reorganizes from three divisions to four," according to Ernest C. Casale, chairman of the NCAA's Division I Football Championship Feasibility Committee.

The problem is that the proposal before the NCAA convention later this week on whether to set up a major college championship playoff can be voted on only by the football-playing members of Division I.

That division currently consists of 134 football schools. First, however, the delegates must vote on whether to establish a so-called "super" division, which would tentatively include 91 institutions — seven major conferences plus 21 independents. And such a division would not take effect until Aug. 1.

"I think the chances are fairly good for passage if the current Division I votes on a playoff," Casale said. "But if a new Division I is formed, the playoff proposal probably won't come up and we'll have to lose another year."

An NCAA spokesman was even more emphatic. "There's no way in the world it'll pass if reorganization takes place," he said.

"It's a shame this all had to come up at the same time we're trying to develop a Division I championship," Casale said. "I think a national championship would be good for college football. I'm fairly close to basketball, and I think the NCAA Tournament is the greatest thing ever to happen in that sport."

The 1975 tournament drew the largest television audience ever to watch a basketball game, college or pro. I feel the same thing would happen in football. It would add so much more meaning to the football season."

The major opponents of a championship playoff have been the post-season bowls and those conferences that have annual bowl tie-ups like the Pacific-8, Big Ten, Big Eight and Southwest Conference.

"You can find all kinds of reasons for not having it," Casale said. "But we have said that it will not affect the bowls at all. In fact, I think this gives a little more meaning to the bowls because any bowl team might be the national champion."

Plans to be presented here consist of a four-team or a two-team playoff format, with the teams to be selected from bowl winners.

"It might not be this year," Casale said, "but before too long, we will see a Division I football championship."

Perennial Power Kentucky Left Behind In SEC Charge

From ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Southeastern Conference basketball race is taking on the look of a cavalry charge, with no less than six teams in the fray — and perennial power Kentucky, last year's NCAA runner-up, isn't even among the top six.

Tennessee and Alabama, the two national powers who were looking to turn the race into a two-team affair, both were upset by conference foes Monday night. Ninth-ranked Tennessee bowed before cross-state rival Vanderbilt 77-66 and No. 11 Alabama was edged by Florida, 71-70.

So, with the meat of the conference schedule still to come, everybody in the 10-team circuit has at least one loss. Alabama, Auburn, Florida and Vanderbilt are tied for the lead with 3-1 marks, and LSU and Tennessee are right on their heels at 2-1.

In other games involving Top Twenty teams Monday night, No. 1 Indiana eased past Michigan State 69-57, No. 12 St. John's, N.Y., edged Hawaii 74-71 in overtime, No. 15 Notre Dame beat Pittsburgh 77-66, No. 16 Michigan trimmed Ohio State 84-81 and No. 20 Missouri embarrassed outmanned MacMurray 106-34. In an exhibition game, No. 18 Centenary defeated Athletics in Action-East 103-87.

Rock Frosh Win

Berrien Springs' Brad Layman scored 26 points as the Sharbrooks squeaked past Eau Claire 72-69 in a freshmen basketball game played at Eau Claire Monday night. Kevin Mitchell had 25 points for the Beavers.

Alabama came from 16 points down with 8:57 remaining to go ahead by one with eight seconds to go, but Florida refused to fold. Reserve forward Al Bonner took an in-bounds pass, drove the baseline and had his shot blocked by Alabama center Leon Douglas, but Gene Shy recovered the loose ball and barely beat the buzzer with a game-winning layup.

The game had been dominated by the opposing centers. Douglas topped Alabama with 21 points and 18 rebounds, while Bob Smyth of Florida came through with 17 points and 18 rebounds.

In Nashville, Tenn., it was orange night as Vanderbilt fans celebrated their team's first victory over arch-rival Tennessee in two years. The game had to be halted a number of times as members of the sellout crowd of 16,000 hurled oranges onto the floor — one of Tennessee's nicknames being the Big Orange.

Vanderbilt led 41-38 at halftime and gradually stretched the margin to a dozen late in the second half as Joe Ford scored 25 points and Jeff Fosnes added 23. Tennessee's two stars were both held in check, Ernie Grunfeld finishing with 20 points and Bernard King with 16.

Auburn, meanwhile, gained its share of the top spot in the SEC with a 75-70 victory over Mississippi State. Eddie Johnson and Mike Mitchell helped the Tigers overcome a nine-point halftime deficit, Johnson scoring 28 points and Mitchell 21.

Kentucky, meanwhile, finds itself in the unaccustomed role of also-ran in this year's SEC race with its 6-foot-11 forward

Rick Robey sidelined by injury.

But after dropping their first three league games, the Wildcats got on the right side of the ledger Monday night with a 92-76 triumph over Georgia. Jack Givens led the way with 26 points.

St. John's, given a second chance when visiting Hawaii missed two easy shots in the last 10 seconds of regulation play, came on strong in overtime to beat the Rainbows. Frank Alagia and George Johnson each scored four points in overtime, while Glenn Williams took game honors for St. John's, 12-1, with 23.

Notre Dame, 7-3, built a 42-27 halftime lead at Pitt and then coasted to victory behind the scoring of All-American Adrian Dantley, who shot 13 of 15 from the field and had 34 points.

Missouri's 72-point victory margin over MacMurray was the school's biggest ever and the 106 points set a record for the Tigers' home court, where they have won 20 straight. Missouri, 12-2, led 53-20 at halftime and 67-24 when Coach Norm Stewart pulled all his starters with 16 minutes remaining. Willie Smith topped the scoring with 20.

Robert Parish led Centenary's win over AIA-East with 32 points and 22 rebounds, hitting 15 of 19 field goal attempts.

Upton In Sweep

Upton junior high won a pair of basketball games over Lake Michigan Catholic Monday. Chad McLelland netted 13 points while leading the eighth grade to a 38-29 victory, while Jim Pozniwko had 12 in the seven grade's 28-27 triumph.

FRAN TARKENTON

BLOOMINGTON, Minn. (AP) — Francis Tarkenton isn't sure he deserves the honor, but his coach says it's about time he won it.

Tarkenton led Minnesota to a 12-2 record and its third straight National Football Conference Central Division title in 1975. He passed for 2,994 yards and 25 touchdowns and established several new NFL records.

In 15 seasons, Tarkenton has completed 2,931 passes in 5,225 attempts for 291 touchdowns — all records. His 38,840 yards passing is within striking distance of Johnny Unitas' standard of 40,239 yards.

The Athens, Ga., native was in the process of creating a memorial for his late father, Dallas Sr., when informed of the awards he has won. The elder Tarkenton, a Methodist minister, died of a heart attack while watching the Dallas Cowboys defeat the Vikings 17-14 in Fran the Fan is the easy winner of the MVP honor for his 1975 performance. He handily outdistanced three running backs in the voting — O.J. Simpson of Buffalo, Terry Metcalf of St. Louis and Minnesota teammate Chuck Foreman.

Blossomland Teams Doing Double Duty

St. Joe Facing Contrasting Foes

St. Joseph's cagers will be out to stop two contrasting styles of basketball this week as the Bears (4-0 in the league) try to maintain their lead in the Big Seven conference.

Tonight, Portage Central (0-4), a very patient team that will hold on to the ball a lot, will invade the Bear gym. On Friday night, St. Joe will travel to Holland (3-1) for a game with the Dutch, a good moving club with a strong inside game.

It will also be a big week for the Blossomland conference with a full league schedule on tap for both tonight and Friday. This evening's tilts feature

Lakeshore (1-4) at Brandywine (4-1), Edwardsburg (1-4) at Buchanan (5-0), Dowagiac (1-4) at Cassopolis (4-1), and Coloma (1-4) at River Valley (3-2).

On Friday night in the Blossomland, Edwardsburg is at Lakeshore, Brandywine travels to Buchanan, River Valley hosts Cassopolis and Dowagiac is at Coloma.

"Central plays a rather tight zone defense which limits the things we can do on offense," comments St. Joe head coach George Gauder. "They have been methodical on offense in the past and you have to be alert and not give them the easy bucket."

The Mustangs' statistics best show how they play. They are averaging 50.6 points per game on offense and hold a 55.7 average on defense. Central has won three of its last four games and are now 5-3 on the season.

Russ VanDuine leads the Mustangs in scoring and rebounding, notching 10 points per game and pulling down 13.4 boards a contest. Central can start a tall front line with 6-8 VanDuine at the center spot and a pair of 6-4 forwards, Bruce Whaley and Jeff Staudacher.

"Overall Holland is much stronger than they were a year ago," adds Gauder on his

Friday foe. "At the beginning of the season I picked them to be in the league race."

So far the head mentor's prediction hasn't been wrong, as the Dutch hold a 6-1 overall mark, losing to Portage Northern earlier in the season. Last Friday, the Bears humiliated Northern 88-63 at home.

Loren Schrottenboer has been Holland's big gun. The muscular 6-5 center averages about 20 points and 13 rebounds per game. "Our main strengths are our rebounding and defense," says Holland head coach Don Piersma. "The secret to our offense is our inside game...Schrottenboer is real strong inside."

Dale Wright, still slowed down by an injured ankle, leads the Bears in scoring with a 15.7 average. Other St. Joe cagers averaging in double figures are Cory Benford at 14.4 and Mike Collier at 10.7.

Lloyd MacTavish of Lakeshore will get his seven cagers who were suspended back for tonight's clash. "I would suspect that the suspension will motivate the kids to a better performance and I hope they will be eager to play," he said. "Tonight we will be looking for the five ballplayers who work the best together."

The Lancers took on the Bobcats in the holiday tourney at Sturgis, but the advantage of two league teams playing each other and not counting in the standings was lost because of the suspensions.

MacTavish hopes to find a floor leader for his cagers. "It possibly could be Porter, but it will take time to find the right combination," he explains.

"The first half of the season we went 1-9, but I can guarantee we will not go 1-9 the last half."

Brandywine suffered a disappointing loss to Cassopolis last Friday, and now coach Frank Standley hopes his cagers can bounce back for Lakeshore.

"The Lancers are going to come out high like they are out to prove themselves," he says. "We're just going to have to concentrate on our things."

Against Buchanan "we are going to have to emphasize stopping the team and not just an individual," Standley adds. "I hope our team defense can do the job."

Pat McCarthy leads the Bobcats in scoring with a 17.3 average while Tony Harris is hitting 12.4 points per game.

On paper, the Buck-Eddie clash doesn't look to be close with Buchanan the area's No. 1 offensive club, scoring 74.5 per game, while Edwardsburg is the area's worst defensive team, giving up 78.6 per contest.

"They have a lot of young kids at Edwardsburg and you never know when they will put it together," Bucks' coach Bill Wilson states.

Wilson looks for a tough game against Brandywine. "Losing to Cass by three at their place is nothing to be ashamed of," he notes of the Bobcat setback last Friday.

Ken Garrett leads the Bucks in scoring with a 20-point average and in rebounding with an 18 boards per game mark.

Band Welcomes Cowboys

Steelers Businesslike In Miami Arrival

MIAMI (AP) — Super Bowl week has begun fittingly with the Dallas Cowboys arriving in Florida with flair to mark their season, and the Pittsburgh Steelers coming to town with businesslike conservatism.

The defending champion Steelers, who methodically won 14 of 16 games to claim American Football Conference honors, arrived in Miami Monday afternoon with no fanfare. Only a couple dozen reporters greeted them.

But when the Cowboys showed up four hours later at Fort Lauderdale, 30 miles away, they were welcomed by a high school marching band, Mayor E. Clay Shaw Jr. and other city officials and businessmen.

Many people didn't expect the surprise Cowboys to be playing in the Orange Bowl next Sunday. They struggled to a 10-4 record, losing three of four games in midseason, but as the National Conference wild card entry shocked Minnesota 17-14 and Los Angeles 37-7 in the playoffs.

"They remind me a lot of our team last year," said quarterback Terry Bradshaw, whose Steelers won the title last year after a

10-3-1 season. "After what they did to Minnesota, we know they're a good football team."

Dallas Coach Tom Landry admitted, "We're just happy to be here. We didn't really expect to be here the first of the year. But this team is closely together, more so than any we've ever had."

The Steelers, forced inside last week when temperatures in Pittsburgh dipped to around zero, immediately were taken to practice facilities at Biscayne College by Coach Chuck Noll.

In contrast, Landry gave his players the day off. "They've got to have a day off sometime. This week isn't much different than any others in the season," explained Cowboy spokesman Curt Mosher.

But closed afternoon workouts were scheduled for both teams today.

Bradshaw, asked if the Steelers were feeling pressure, said, "We're a pretty loose bunch of guys. We haven't been uptight all year. There's no reason to get uptight now."

Veteran Dallas linebacker Lee Roy Jordan, asked the same question, replied, "We're the underdogs. We've got nothing to lose."

NBA Suspends Bulls' Van Lier

From Associated Press
Chicago Bulls' guard Norm Van Lier has been given a three-day suspension without pay by NBA commissioner Larry O'Brien.

The suspension, starting today, is the result of an incident last week in which Van Lier collided with official Darrell Garretson, a happening which O'Brien called "serious misconduct."

The incident occurred when Van Lier drove for the basket and plowed into Garretson underneath.

Garretson was quoted after the game as saying: "He (Van Lier) was looking for me and he got me."

Mustangs Romp
River Valley's Steve Johnson scored 16 points as the Mustangs trounced Coloma 63-21 in a freshman basketball game played at River Valley Monday.

Johnnie's Ups Rec Cage Mark

Johnnie's Fashions upped its Benton Harbor Rec basketball league mark to 8-0 Monday by blasting Village Variety 100-50. Brice Taylor hit 21 and Mike Larkin 20 for Johnnie's while Mike Bogan sank 20 for the losers.

In other games, Bertuca Bonding took Durable Products 81-75. Hayes Construction downed South Haven 94-84 and Bargain Center whipped Ausco's 94-77.

Ron Mandarino scored 30 and Tim Theisen 20 for Bertuca while Lou Harvey hit 20 and Don Hopkins 15 for Durable. Ray McClinton and L.C. Fleming both swished 20 for Hayes with B. Walker meshing 35 and F. Cunningham 16 for South Haven. Hal Beckum with 28 and Cass Purnell with 22 paced Bargain Center's win while Charles Osby canned 34 for Ausco's.

Drake Hits 14 In CMU Loss

BUFFALO (AP) — Sam Pellom scored nine straight points in the second half to help Buffalo defeat Central Michigan 95-77 Monday.

Leonard Drake was the high scorer for Central Michigan with 14 points. Al Cicotte and Ben Poquette each chipped in 13. The Chippewas are now 5-7 for the season.

Blossomland Teams Doing Double Duty

St. Joe Facing Contrasting Foes

St. Joseph's cagers will be out to stop two contrasting styles of basketball this week as the Bears (4-0 in the league) try to maintain their lead in the Big Seven conference.

Tonight, Portage Central (0-4), a very patient team that will hold on to the ball a lot, will invade the Bear gym. On Friday night, St. Joe will travel to Holland (3-1) for a game with the Dutch, a good moving club with a strong inside game.

It will also be a big week for the Blossomland conference with a full league schedule on tap for both tonight and Friday. This evening's tilts feature

Lakeshore (1-4) at Brandywine (4-1), Edwardsburg (1-4) at Buchanan (5-0), Dowagiac (1-4) at Cassopolis (4-1) and Coloma (1-4) at River Valley (3-2).

On Friday night in the Blossomland, Edwardsburg is at Lakeshore, Brandywine travels to Buchanan, River Valley hosts Cassopolis and Dowagiac is at Coloma.

"Central plays a rather tight zone defense which limits the things we can do on offense," comments St. Joe head coach George Gaumer. "They have been methodical on offense in the past and you have to be alert and not give them the easy bucket."

The Mustangs' statistics best show how they play. They are averaging 50.6 points per game on offense and hold a 55.7 average on defense. Central has won three of its last four games and are now 5-5 on the season.

Russ VanDuine leads the Mustangs in scoring and rebounding, notching 10 points per game and pulling down 13.4 boards a contest. Central can start a tall front line with 6-8 VanDuine at the center spot and a pair of 6-4 forwards, Bruce Whaley and Jeff Staudacher.

"Overall Holland is much stronger than they were a year ago," adds Gaumer on his

Friday foe. "At the beginning of the season I picked them to be in the league race."

So far the head mentor's prediction hasn't been wrong, as the Dutch hold a 6-1 overall mark, losing to Portage Northern earlier in the season. Last Friday, the Bears humiliated Northern 88-63 at home.

Loren Schrotenboer has been Holland's big gun. The muscular 6-5 center averages about 20 points and 13 rebounds per game. "Our main strengths are our rebounding and defense," says Holland head coach Don Piersma. "The secret to our offense is our inside game. Schrotenboer is real strong inside."

Dale Wright, still slowed down by an injured ankle, leads the Bears in scoring with a 15.7 average. Other St. Joe cagers averaging in double figures are Cory Benford at 14.4 and Mike Collier at 10.7.

Lloyd MacTavish of Lakeshore will get his seven cagers who were suspended back for tonight's clash. "I would suspect that the suspension will motivate the kids to a better performance and I hope they will be eager to play," he said. "Tonight we will be looking for the five ballplayers who work the best together."

The Lancers took on the Bobcats in the holiday tourney at Sturgis, but the advantage of two league teams playing each other and not counting in the standings was lost because of the suspensions.

MacTavish hopes to find a floor leader for his cagers. "It possibly could be Porter, but it will take time to find the right combination," he explains.

"The first half of the season we went 1-9, but I can guarantee we will not go 1-9 the last half."

Brandywine suffered a disappointing loss to Cassopolis last Friday, and now coach Frank Standley hopes his cagers can bounce back for Lakeshore. "The Lancers are going to come out high like they are out to prove themselves," he says. "We're just going to have to concentrate on our things."

Against Buchanan "we are going to have to emphasize stopping the team and not just an individual," Standley adds. "I hope our team defense can do the job."

Pat McCarthy leads the Bobcats in scoring with a 17.3 average while Tony Harris is hitting 12.4 points per game.

On paper, the Buck-Eddie clash doesn't look to be close with Buchanan the area's No. 1 offensive club, scoring 74.5 per game, while Edwardsburg is the area's worst defensive team, giving up 78.6 per contest. "They have a lot of young kids at Edwardsburg and you never know when they will put it together," Bucks' coach Bill Wilson states.

Wilson looks for a tough game against Brandywine. "Losing to Cass by three at their place is nothing to be ashamed of," he notes of the Bobcat setback last Friday.

Ken Garrett leads the Bucks in scoring with a 20-point average and in rebounding with an 18 boards per game mark.

Steelers Businesslike In Miami Arrival

MIAMI (AP) — Super Bowl week has begun fittingly with the Dallas Cowboys arriving in Florida with flair to mark their season, and the Pittsburgh Steelers coming to town with businesslike conservatism.

The defending champion Steelers, who methodically won 14 of 16 games to claim American Football Conference honors, arrived in Miami Monday afternoon with no fanfare. Only a couple dozen reporters greeted them.

But when the Cowboys showed up four hours later at Fort Lauderdale, 30 miles away, they were welcomed by a high school marching band, Mayor E. Clay Shaw Jr. and other city officials and businessmen.

Many people didn't expect the surprise Cowboys to be playing in the Orange Bowl next Sunday. They struggled to a 10-4 record, losing three of four games in midseason, but as the National Conference wild card entry shocked Minnesota 17-14 and Los Angeles 37-7 in the playoffs.

"They remind me a lot of our team last year," said quarterback Terry Bradshaw, whose Steelers won the title last year after a

10-3-1 season. "After what they did to Minnesota, we know they're a good football team."

Dallas Coach Tom Landry admitted, "We're just happy to be here. We didn't really expect to be here the first of the year. But this team is closely together, more so than any we've ever had."

The Steelers, forced inside last week when temperatures in Pittsburgh dipped to around zero, immediately were taken to practice facilities at Biscayne College by Coach Chuck Noll.

In contrast, Landry gave his players the day off. "They've got to have a day off sometime. This week isn't much different than any others in the season," explained Cowboy spokesman Curt Mosher. But closed afternoon workouts were scheduled for both teams today.

Bradshaw, asked if the Steelers were feeling pressure, said, "We're a pretty loose bunch of guys. We haven't been uptight all year. There's no reason to get uptight now."

Veteran Dallas linebacker Lee Roy Jordan, asked the same question, replied, "We're the underdogs. We've got nothing to lose."

WNOOPIN' AROUND

By JOHN VANDEN HEED

There will be wild turkey hunting this spring at the Allegan State Game Area, but the season format will have two significant changes.

Because turkey numbers remain below peak numbers, the number of permits is being reduced to 300 from 400.

Also, in an effort to eliminate a problem of hunters concentrating in one area and taking too many birds from that spot, the Department of Natural Resources is dividing the game area into two hunting units for the first time.

There will be two five-day Allegan hunting periods — April 28 through May 2 and May 5 through May 9 — with a bag limit of one bearded turkey per hunter.

The Baldwin and Mio areas will also have gobbler hunts again under the permit system, but with a much larger quota of permits. Three hunting periods in Mio will include 3,450 permits and three seasons in Baldwin will include 2,100 hunters.

Allegan turkey numbers are estimated at 400 by the DNR, down from the estimated peak population of about 700 in the early 1960's but about the same as for the years since 1970 when the first spring gobbler hunting season was opened on this area.

Brood sightings have been about evenly distributed both south and north of the Kalamazoo River, which bisects the area diagonally. But despite the apparent even distribution of turkeys, only seven of the 28 birds taken in the 1975 spring hunt were shot south of the river.

The DNR believes concentrations of hunters in the northeastern part of the Allegan area may have been the cause.

So to distribute hunters more evenly and avoid a possible overkill north of the river, the two changes were made for the upcoming season.

"It's being hit hard," says Allegan State Game Area manager Chuck Friley Jr. on the flock north of the river. "If we concentrate too much on it, we may lose it. We want to even out the pressure."

Unit one at Allegan will include 83 square miles. It will include the portion of Allegan county bounded by a line described as follows: Beginning at the junction of 136th avenue and 58th street; thence east on 136th to M-40; southwesterly on M-40 to 134th avenue; east on 134th to 38th street; north on 38th to 136th avenue; east on 136th to 30th street; southerly on 30th to M-118 in Allegan; westerly on M-118 to intersection with Kalamazoo River; northwesterly along Kalamazoo River to junction with 57th street at New Richmond; west and north on 57th and 58th streets to point of beginning.

Unit two, which includes 92 square miles, begins at the intersection of 57th street and the Kalamazoo River at New Richmond; thence southeast along the Kalamazoo River to its intersection with M-118 at Allegan; southerly on M-118 and M-40 to 108th avenue; west on 108th to 48th street; north on 48th street to 108th avenue; west on 108th avenue to 58th street; north on 58th to 118th avenue; west on 118th avenue to 57th street; northerly on 57th and 58th street to point of beginning.

To apply for a permit, a person must print his full name and address on both sides of a government postal card. On the blank side of the card, he must also list the area and unit he wants to hunt, his choice of season and his 1975 small game or sportsman's license number. The applicant must then put his signature in ink on the blank side.

The card must then be placed in an envelope and mailed before Feb. 29 to: Wild Turkey, Box 4013, Lansing, Mich. 48904. A drawing will determine which hunters get permits.

If preferred, two persons may apply on a single postal card. Both individuals must submit all information asked for above and each must sign the dual application. If such an application is selected, both persons will receive permits.

Like Allegan, the Mio area is also divided into units (four in all). The three seasons there are April 28-May 2, May 3-May 7 and May 8 and May 12.

Baldwin is all one unit, and the seasons there are April 28-May 2, May 3-May 7 and May 12-May 16.

Pike Spearing In Full Swing Bluegill Success Excellent

Bluegill success has been excellent for ice fishermen on several southwestern Michigan lakes, reports the Department of Natural Resources.

The most productive hours are just at dusk, says the DNR, using any of the favorite baits — mousies, wax worms, corn borers, spikes or wigglers.

Better waters have included Hutchins, Duck, Lake Sixteen, Minkler and Green Lakes, plus Swan Creek, in Allegan county; Pipestone Lake in Berrien county; Saddlebag, Donnell, Lewis, Dewey, Paradise, Christian and Diamond Lakes in Cass county; and Lake of the Woods, Lake Fourteen, Van Auker, Gravel, Three Legged, Big Bear, Thayer and Martin Lakes in Van Buren county.

The pike spearing season is also getting into full swing, with numerous shanties appearing on area lakes. Top-ranking northern lakes include Swan Creek, plus Upper Scott, Swan, Miner and Little John Lakes in Allegan county; Eagle and Diamond Lakes, plus Mill and Whit Ponds, in Cass county; and Rush, South Jephtha, Muskrat and Schoolsection Lakes in Van Buren county.

Shanty owners are reminded that they must have their name and address on all four sides of their spearing houses. Also, when moving a shanty, mark the old hole to avoid an accident.

Elsewhere, good steelhead fishing results continues on the St. Joseph River below the Berrien Springs dam. The fish are averaging between four and 17 pounds, with flat fish and spawn bags being favorite baits.

Also, the DNR has received reports of three-pound Atlantic salmon being caught on Gull Lake in Kalamazoo county. Night fishing for smelt is also underway on Gull Lake.

The 38-year-old Dr. Knapper, who holds a number of bicycling road racing records and was an alternate on the 1960 United States Olympic bike racing team, will ride in the MBA 500-mile race, an ongoing event at the show.

Kingsley will give four demonstrations during the three-day event. Her 1975 victories included the South Haven Round Competition at South Haven, the Indoor Professional Archery Association meet in Midland, the Outdoor Professional Archery Association match in Grayling and the Outdoor Target Competition in Kalamazoo.

Show hours are Friday, Jan. 16, from noon to 10 p.m.; Saturday, Jan. 17, from 10 a.m. to 10 p.m.; and Sunday, Jan. 18, from noon until 8 p.m.

Adult admission is $2, school children under 12 $1 and preschoolers free.

Publisher NRC's New Chairman

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — A newspaper publisher on Thursday became chairman of the state Natural Resources Commission, whose first major decision of 1976 will concern the Pigeon River Country oil drilling controversy.

Harry H. Whiteley of Rogers

City, who has served on the commission since 1961, will chair the commission throughout 1976. The commission rotates its leadership annually.

The commission is the governing body for the Department of Natural Resources and is charged with protecting Michigan's environment.

It makes rules and policies over the use of land and waterways in Michigan.

Whiteley, 58, is editor and publisher of the Presque Isle County Advance. He chaired the commission in 1964, 1968 and 1972.

He is past president of the Michigan Press Association and the Michigan Outdoor Writers' Association, and past director of the Michigan United Conservation Clubs.

Whiteley said he expects the commission to decide in March whether to allow oil drilling in the Pigeon River State Forest near Gaylord.

Critics have charged that populations of elk and bobcats, as well as certain flora, will suffer as a result of drilling, but studies show as much as $900 million worth of gas and oil could be pumped from the area.

Snowmobile Guide Ready

The latest "Michigan Snowmobile Guide," published by the Department of Natural Resources, is now available free.

The guide lists facilities open to snowmobilers on state forest lands, parks and game areas. Maps pinpoint the location of many marked trails which wind through about 1,800 miles of scenic backwoods country.

Also, the guide lists the county each trail is located in, its length and how to get to the beginning of the trail. A telephone number is also in the directory so snowmobilers may call ahead to find current snow conditions.

Since publication of the guide, the Shiawassee River State Game Area has been deleted from the list of snowmobile trail areas due to legal liability considerations.

As in the past, such state park units as dedicated natural areas, campgrounds, and outdoor centers will also be off limits to snowmobiling to protect their special values and maintain maximum safety standards for other winter recreationists.

The "Michigan Snowmobile Guide" is available without cost at DNR district and regional offices or by mail from the Michigan Travel Commission, Department of Commerce, 300 South Capitol, Lansing 48913.

HUNTING TIPS: For rabbit hunters in Michigan, all roads lead to thickets, swales, cedar swamps, pine plantations and other such likely spots at this time of the year. Here are some basic pointers which should get them on the right track. It's a good idea to start hunting early in the day when the tracks are fresh or right after a snowfall. Dowagiac Gives Okay For Special Election

DOWAGIAC — Dowagiac school board last night voted its approval of a countywide, March 15 special election on a proposed tax levy to finance construction of a proposed vocational education center.

The unanimous approval came during a special school board meeting. All four K-12 school districts in Cass county have to approve the special election before it can take place.

The Cass intermediate school district board has proposed a $2.2 million building, construction and operation of which would be financed by a $912,000 state grant and a like amount from Cass Intermediate school district residents.

The local money would be produced by a special tax mill levy not to exceed 1.9 mills.

A previous election proposal for a vocational education center was soundly defeated by Cass county voters in April, 1974.

Dowagiac School Board President James Corbit warned the board that if the issue is defeated again, it will be five years before state aid money for construction becomes available.

He added that approval of the vocational education issue would also relieve Dowagiac's immediate necessity for more classrooms.

Supt. Lionel Stacey said the proposed center would probably take as many as 150 students both in the mornings and afternoons from the Dowagiac high school.

The vocational center, according to present plans, would provide vocational training for 400 Cass county students in morning sessions and another 400 in afternoon sessions.

In other areas, R. Gordon Anderson, school business affairs manager, said a decision to begin keeping buses on school property — rather than letting drivers take buses home — will yield several benefits for the school.

By parking the buses at the school after a bus run, the school will save about $7,500; insure buses are started (by school mechanics) on cold mornings; and have buses on hand for regular maintenance.

In addition, he said, with the high school going on split sessions next school year, buses will be used by several different drivers.

Bus drivers, however, have asked a meeting with administration officials over the move.

Bus drivers who drove the buses to and from work before, will have to provide their own transportation to the school.

In a related action, the board voted to seek bids for lighting and fencing for the bus lot. The projects will cost a combined, estimated $8,000 to $10,000, Anderson said.

Bangor Eyes Sidewalk Tax Vote

BANGOR — Bangor city council last night asked its sidewalk committee and the city attorney to prepare recommendations for a property tax millage election in April.

The millage election would concern money for sidewalk repair, construction and snow removal. No tentative amount for the proposed tax was mentioned.

The lack of snow removal by city residents this winter prompted the council's action.

In other areas, the council granted a renewal of a license for Jimmy's Rock Recreation on North Center street for one year and rejected the lone bid of $106 for the city's snow blower as being too low.

The council passed a resolution recognizing the Bangor Bicentennial committee as a non-profit organization.

U-M To Conduct Study For Gobles

GOBLES — The University of Michigan was designated by the Gobles school board to conduct a study of the district's needs for future buildings and programs last night.

The $1,500 study will be coordinated with work architects are currently doing for the school and with local citizens groups, according to school officials.

The study will involve a school district census and population study. Final recommendations will include suggestions for programs the school needs to initiate as well as buildings that will be needed for student population growth.

In other areas, the board approved a reduced-price lunch program for students from low-income families. Previously, Gobles had had only full-price and free lunch programs.

Under the new plan, students from families in low-income brackets could purchase lunch tickets for 20 cents instead of the full price of 55 cents.

Supt. Guy Leversee was appointed coordinator to handle complaints of sex discrimination under a federal non-discrimination requirement. Leversee said he expects no complaints, but the appointment was required by law.

Leversee said that girls now have the right to be involved in any program of the school and that some girls are taking classwork at the skill center, normally a boys program.

Tommie Saylor, high school principal, reported that the high school staff is working on preliminary plans to develop a career education program, as required by a 1964 Michigan law.

Saylor said the law had been neither funded nor enforced since 1964, but plans are for both by this fall.

The board gave final approval to discipline policy for cheerleaders which would suspend cheerleaders for smoking or using drugs.

BUCHANAN

Rezone Ordinance Given Reading

BUCHANAN — An ordinance to rezone a five-block long area on the city's north side was read for the first time in a public hearing last night by the Buchanan city commission.

The proposed ordinance, which would affect some 85 lots or homes, was recommended by the city planning commission as a step to prevent conversion of older homes to duplex apartments, according to city officials.

Specifically, the ordinance would rezone the area from R-2 (duplex apartments) to R-1 (single family dwellings).

The area is roughly bounded by Fifth, Main and Bluff streets and Red Bud Trail north.

The ordinance will come up for formal action at a Jan. 26 city commission meeting. In other areas, Police Chief Daniel Moore presented a report of his department's activities in 1975.

During the past year, he said, there were 423 arrests in connection with 740 known offenses. Of the arrests, he said, 134 were juveniles, and of those, 24 were females.

He added that there were 82 reported thefts from autos, 34 bike thefts and 20 shoplifting incidents.

Moore said there were also 52 people arrested on drunk driving charges; 33 on violations of narcotics laws, 26 for vandalism and 25 on assault charges.

During 1975, he said, there were 241 traffic accidents, 27 involving injuries.

PSC Won't Reopen Testimony

LANSING (AP) — Within two weeks, the state Public Service Commission must decide how much Consumers Power Co.'s gas customers will pay for the utility's Marysville plant. The PSC refused Monday to reopen testimony in the controversial rate case following a tense debate. The three-member commission upheld on a 2-1 vote the quashing last fall of subpoenas issued on former PSC Chairman William Rosenberg, Consumers Board Chairman A. H. Aymond and Commissioner Lenton Sculthorpe.

PHASE I PUBLIC HEARINGS WILL BE HELD:

- (1) On the Orchard Ridge Campus, Oakland County Community College, "J" Building, Room 293, 27055 Orchard Lake Road, Farmington Hills on January 22, 1976 commencing at 1:30 PM and 7:30 PM.
- (2) In the 1st floor auditorium of the Law Building at 525 W. Ottawa Street in Lansing on January 26, 1976 commencing at 1:30 PM and 7:30 PM.
- (3) In the City Council Chambers, City Hall, 1101 South Saginaw, Flint, on January 27, 1976 commencing at 1:30 PM and 7:30 PM.
- (4) In the City Commission Chambers, 9th Floor, City Hall, 300 Monroe Street, NW, Grand Rapids, on January 28, 1976 commencing at 1:30 PM and 7:30 PM.

At Phase I public hearings the Commission is interested in receiving submissions or comments limited solely to the following subjects:

1. The appropriate rate under which service should be rendered to centrally metered customers where the ultimate consumption is for residential use.

Note: This would concern the rate charged by the utility for service to apartments, condominiums, cooperatives, or mobile home parks where gas or electricity is either included in the rent as an incident of tenancy or is resold by the landlord, association or park owner to the tenants.

2. Problems related to requirements that reselling customers sell utility service to ultimate consumers at the same rate applicable to customers of the same class who are direct customers of the utilities.

Note: Reselling customers who sell to residential users are generally required to resell at the utility's residential rates and reselling customers who resell to commercial users at the utility's commercial rates.

3. The revenue impacts on utilities of any revision of current rate patterns for centrally metered or resale service.

Note: A utility's rates to all of its customers generally assume the continuation of established rate patterns. Changing one rate may require changes to others.

4. Problems related to enforcement by utilities of standards of service requirements on reselling customers which are conditions of service to such customers.

Note: Primarily, enforcement of service standards is presently limited to discontinuance of service to landlords which would result in loss of service to tenants.

5. Means of providing for continuity of service to tenants of reselling customers where a reselling customer may be in violation of Commission rule, Commission-approved utility rule or the Michigan Gas Safety Code.

6. Tenant service continuity problems and possible financial consequences to utilities in case of abandonment of utility service distribution systems by centrally metered or reselling customers.

Note: It has been suggested by the Commission Staff that all resale service be prohibited in the future and that all existing resale customers (landlords, associations, park owners, etc) be required to agree to uniform service, billing, customer relations, meter testing and auditing standards as a condition to continuing as a resale customer. Further, some landlords or park owners may, for financial reasons or due to enforcement action, seek to abandon service to their tenants, jeopardizing the tenants' gas or electric service, or expect the utilities to bear the cost of making repairs, replacements or improvements necessary to serve tenants directly.

7. Rights and obligations of reselling customers and their tenants and extent of Commission jurisdiction, if any, related thereto.

Note: Primarily concerned here is the question of extending the Commission's Consumer Standards and Billing Practices, which are available to a utility's residential customers, to the reselling customer's tenants.

PHASE II PUBLIC HEARINGS

The Commission has determined that the utilities shall file certain information with it to aid in its general inquiry. This information is scheduled to be filed on January 30, 1976, and a public hearing to receive and cross-examine this evidence and testimony is scheduled in Lansing at the Commission's offices in the Law Building at 525 W. Ottawa for 9:30 AM on February 17, 1976. Further hearing dates will be scheduled by the presiding Administrative Law Judge as necessary.

Persons, other than the utilities and the Commission Staff, who wish to participate in the Phase II public hearings as a formal intervenor pursuant to Rule 11 of the Rules of Practice and Procedure of the Commission should file with the Public Service Commission, Law Building, Lansing, Michigan 48913 at least five (5) days prior to February 17, 1976, an original and twelve (12) copies of a petition to intervene conforming to the requirements of Rule 11. A copy should also be mailed (First Class) to Consumers Power Company, Legal Department, 212 West Michigan Avenue, Jackson, Michigan 49201.

PHASE III PUBLIC HEARINGS

It may be necessary for the Commission to hold evidentiary or administrative-type hearings for the purpose of adopting rules, regulations, service standards or rate changes as a result of the determinations made by the Commission in Phases I and II. These would be the subject of a separate notice and future hearings.

Copies of the order of the Michigan Public Service Commission in Case No. U-4985 can be obtained from the Public Service Commission's Executive Secretary, 5th Floor Law Building, Lansing, Michigan 48913 and are available for inspection at Consumers Power Company's Division offices in the cities of Alma, Battle Creek, Bay City, Pontiac, Flint, Grand Rapids, Jackson, Kalamazoo, Lansing, Muskegon, Saginaw, Traverse City, East Detroit, Royal Oak and Livonia.

The Michigan Public Service Commission emphasizes that it has formed no conclusions relative to the issues raised in its order initiating this inquiry. The final outcome of the inquiry will result from the relevant evidence presented to the Commission in as full and complete record as possible.

Jurisdiction in this matter is pursuant to Act 106, P.A. 1909, as amended, MCLA 460.551 et seq; Section 22 of Act 300, P.A. 1909, as amended, MCLA 462.22; Act 419, P.A. 1919, as amended, MCLA 460.51 et seq; Act 3, P.A. 1939, as amended, MCLA 460.1 et seq; Act 165, P.A. 1969, as amended, MCLA 483.151 et seq; Act 306, P.A. 1969, as amended, MCLA 24.201 et seq; and the Commission's Rules of Practice and Procedure, 1954 Michigan Administrative Code, Supplement No. 54, R 460.11 et seq.

CASE NO. U-4985

NOTICE OF MICHIGAN PUBLIC SERVICE COMMISSION INQUIRY AND PUBLIC HEARINGS INTO CENTRAL METERING AND RESELLING OF GAS AND ELECTRIC SERVICE

TO

AND TO

ULTIMATE CONSUMERS; TENANTS; MOBILE HOME OWNERS; CONDOMINIUM OWNERS; ASSOCIATIONS OF MOBILE HOME OWNERS, MOBILE HOME PARK OWNERS, CONDOMINIUM OWNERS, LANDLORDS AND TENANTS; GOVERNMENTAL AGENCIES AND OTHERS WHO MAY BE INTERESTED OR THINK THEY WOULD BE AFFECTED

On December 8, 1975, in Case No. U-4985, the Michigan Public Service Commission initiated a general inquiry into the regulations and procedures of gas and electric utilities pertaining to centrally metered customers, including reselling customers, and to provide for appropriate service standards and rate classifications for centrally metered gas and electric utility service.

The Commission desires to fully explore problems and complaints associated with centrally metered and resale service to apartments, condominiums, cooperatives or mobile home parks, including problems with rates, from the standpoint of the reselling or centrally metered customer of the utility, the ultimate consumer of the gas or electric service, and utilities. The Commission is interested in developing equitable and workable standards, rules and regulatory policies related to these matters.

Phase I of the inquiry is for soliciting comments and submissions about these problems from the public. Phase II will consider data which the Commission has required utilities to file, submissions by parties intervening in the proceedings pursuant to Commission rules, and recommendations by the Commission's Staff. Phase III will cover proposed remedies for problems considered in Phases I and II as applicable to individual utilities.

PHASE I PUBLIC HEARINGS WILL BE HELD:

- (1) On the Orchard Ridge Campus, Oakland County Community College, "J" Building, Room 293, 27055 Orchard Lake Road, Farmington Hills on January 22, 1976 commencing at 1:30 PM and 7:30 PM.
- (2) In the 1st floor auditorium of the Law Building at 525 W. Ottawa Street in Lansing on January 26, 1976 commencing at 1:30 PM and 7:30 PM.
- (3) In the City Council Chambers, City Hall, 1101 South Saginaw, Flint, on January 27, 1976 commencing at 1:30 PM and 7:30 PM.
- (4) In the City Commission Chambers, 9th Floor, City Hall, 300 Monroe Street, NW, Grand Rapids, on January 28, 1976 commencing at 1:30 PM and 7:30 PM.

At Phase I public hearings the Commission is interested in receiving submissions or comments limited solely to the following subjects:

1. The appropriate rate under which service should be rendered to centrally metered customers where the ultimate consumption is for residential use.
Note: This would concern the rate charged by the utility for service to apartments, condominiums, cooperatives, or mobile home parks where gas or electricity is either included in the rent as an incident of tenancy or is resold by the landlord, association or park owner to the tenants.

3. The revenue impacts on utilities of any revision of current rate patterns for centrally metered or resale service.
Note: A utility's rates to all of its customers generally assume the continuation of established rate patterns. Changing one rate may require changes to others.
4. Problems related to enforcement by utilities of standards of service requirements on reselling customers which are conditions of service to such customers.
Note: Primarily, enforcement of service standards is presently limited to discontinuance of service to landlords which would result in loss of service to tenants.
5. Means of providing for continuity of service to tenants of reselling customers where a reselling customer may be in violation of Commission rule, Commission-approved utility rule or the Michigan Gas Safety Code.
Note: It has been suggested by the Commission Staff that all resale service be prohibited in the future and that all existing resale customers (landlords, associations, park owners, etc) be required to agree to uniform service, billing, customer relations, meter testing and auditing standards as a condition to continuing as a resale customer. Further, some landlords or park owners may, for financial reasons or due to enforcement action, seek to abandon service to their tenants, jeopardizing the tenants' gas or electric service, or expect the utilities to bear the cost of making repairs, replacements or improvements necessary to serve tenants directly.
6. Tenant service continuity problems and possible financial consequences to utilities in case of abandonment of utility service distribution systems by centrally metered or reselling customers.

7. Rights and obligations of reselling customers and their tenants and extent of Commission jurisdiction, if any, related thereto.

Note: Primarily concerned here is the question of extending the Commission's Consumer Standards and Billing Practices, which are available to a utility's residential customers, to the reselling customer's tenants.

PHASE II PUBLIC HEARINGS

The Commission has determined that the utilities shall file certain information with it to aid in its general inquiry. This information is scheduled to be filed on January 30, 1976, and a public hearing to receive and cross-examine this evidence and testimony is scheduled in Lansing at the Commission's offices in the Law Building at 525 W. Ottawa for 9:30 AM on February 17, 1976. Further hearing dates will be scheduled by the presiding Administrative Law Judge as necessary.

Persons, other than the utilities and the Commission Staff, who wish to participate in the Phase II public hearings as a formal intervenor pursuant to Rule 11 of the Rules of Practice and Procedure of the Commission should file with the Public Service Commission, Law Building, Lansing, Michigan 48913 at least five (5) days prior to February 17, 1976, an original and twelve (12) copies of a petition to intervene conforming to the requirements of Rule 11. A copy should also be mailed (First Class) to Consumers Power Company, Legal Department, 212 West Michigan Avenue, Jackson, Michigan 49201.

PHASE III PUBLIC HEARINGS

It may be necessary for the Commission to hold evidentiary or administrative-type hearings for the purpose of adopting rules, regulations, service standards or rate changes as a result of the determinations made by the Commission in Phases I and II. These would be the subject of a separate notice and future hearings.

Copies of the order of the Michigan Public Service Commission in Case No. U-4985 can be obtained from the Public Service Commission's Executive Secretary, 5th Floor Law Building, Lansing, Michigan 48913 and are available for inspection at Consumers Power Company's Division offices in the cities of Alma, Battle Creek, Bay City, Pontiac, Flint, Grand Rapids, Jackson, Kalamazoo, Lansing, Muskegon, Saginaw, Traverse City, East Detroit, Royal Oak and Livonia.

The Michigan Public Service Commission emphasizes that it has formed no conclusions relative to the issues raised in its order initiating this inquiry. The final outcome of the inquiry will result from the relevant evidence presented to the Commission in as full and complete record as possible.

Jurisdiction in this matter is pursuant to Act 106, P.A. 1909, as amended, MCLA 460.551 et seq; Section 22 of Act 300, P.A. 1909, as amended, MCLA 462.22; Act 419, P.A. 1919, as amended, MCLA 460.51 et seq; Act 3, P.A. 1939, as amended, MCLA 460.1 et seq; Act 165, P.A. 1969, as amended, MCLA 483.151 et seq; Act 306, P.A. 1969, as amended, MCLA 24.201 et seq; and the Commission's Rules of Practice and Procedure, 1954 Michigan Administrative Code, Supplement No. 54, R 460.11 et seq.

Grading Changes Tabled By River Valley Board

THREE OAKS — An administrative recommendation to change the River Valley school district's K-12 grading system from six-week to nine-week marking periods beginning next fall was tabled last night by the school board.

Following discussion on the recommendation, the administration was asked to re-evaluate its proposal and present a more complete report on its merits.

The proposal has been studied by a committee composed of the district's principals, who have consulted with other district administrators and teachers prior to making the recommendation.

The proposal would change the school district's grading periods from six, six-week marking periods to four, nine-week marking periods.

The committee felt that such a change would benefit the school district by allowing two parent-teacher conferences per year in the elementary grades instead of one; would provide more emphasis on student progress; provide for a more flexible curriculum; provide more data on which to base a student's marks; provide more continuity in programs; and bring River Valley into line with other school districts in the shared-time program.

The board said the matter would be brought up again at its February meeting.

In other areas, Trustee Carl Anderson reported that the board's building committee has contacted Binda and Associates, architects, requesting them to scale down and make cut backs on building plans turned down by district voters in September.

He said the committee was also seeking price estimates on portable classroom facilities and will be visiting the Tekonsha school district this month to study the effect of portable classrooms being used there.

Anderson said these are the first steps being made by the committee in studying various ways of meeting the building problems at River Valley. He said the needs and wishes of the community will be considered as well as the needs of students.

Miss Marilyn Kellogg was named to fill a new position of high school choir director for one-hour per day, effective through the remainder of the school year at an estimated salary of $1,150.

HIGH SCHOOL GRADES

Hartford Plans Basic Course In Grammar

HARTFORD — The Hartford school board last night gave its approval for the creation of a basic grammar course for students in the high school sophomore, junior and senior classes.

High School Principal James

Kuppler said a number of students had requested the course.

Administration officials said Tim Westgate, a Spanish instructor with a background in English instruction, will teach the refresher course.

In other areas, the board voted to set up election polls in the Hartford district for the Feb. 24 countywide, Van Buren Intermediate school district special election.

The intermediate school district is seeking approval of a $1,010,000 bond issue for construction of a school for the mentally handicapped and a property tax levy of 1.5 mills to operate the school.

The same issue was defeated in June, 1975.

The board also approved the hiring of Al Steffans, a middle school teacher, as director of student activities.

School officials said Hartford will have 36 junior and senior students enrolled in the Van Buren vocational skills center in Lawrence when the center opens later this month and approved adding a school counselor to the curriculum committee.

Ferry Commuters Going To School

SEATTLE (AP) — Seattle City College is offering a five-credit business course to commuters who ride the Puget Sound ferry each morning. So far, 10 have signed up.

"The teacher will have the advantage that the students can't walk out of the classroom," quipped the instructor, Seattle attorney Alan Comer.

STRIKE CUTS DEEP

NEW YORK (AP) — The continuing strike by workers at newsprint mills in Canada has cut deeply into the supplies of American newspaper publishers, industry leaders say.

SOLVING THE SNOW SHOVELING: Michael Skoviak has found one remedy to battle the cold and snow shoveling near his house in Painesdale in Michigan's upper peninsula. With snowfall for the year already over 130 inches, Skoviak has constructed a tunnel that goes from the road near his house to his back door, a distance of about 125 feet and has windows inside for light. He piled snow and then reinforced it with ice chunks for stability. When asked why he did it he said, "it was something to do during the winter." (AP Wirephoto)

Parent Monitoring Cuts Fennville Bus Problems

FENNVILLE — Fennville school board learned last night student disciplinary problems on bus No. 2, have dropped since parents began taking turns riding the bus.

Supt. James Tackmann reported the parents will continue to ride the bus for the time being, however. A meeting with 23 concerned parents was held Dec. 23, to discuss possible solutions to the problem. At that meeting it was decided that parents would volunteer to ride the bus in an effort to cut down the problem of unruly students.

In other areas, the board appointed four citizens to its curriculum council in an effort to get more community input into the selection of course offerings. Named to the council were Mrs. Shirley Clark, James Davison, Gary Cullison and Mrs. Margaret Sessions, board member. The council was previously composed entirely of administrators and teachers.

The board named three teachers to head various departments. Named department chairmen were David Coffindaffer, K-12 physical education; Jack Rendall, 9-12 science; and Laura Sutton, 8-12 career education. The positions were previously open.

Tackmann reported a 1970 Dodge bus was sold to the Grand Rapids Assembly of God church, highest bidder at $2,550.

The board approved a new policy whereby senior citizen groups of the Fennville area will be able to rent the use of school buses for transportation purposes at the rate of 85 cents per mile.

Two other proposed policies were read for the first time, but no action was taken. One concerns a new policy pertaining to public participation at board meetings in which people desiring to be heard at a board meeting would be requested to have their name put on the agenda. However it would not be mandatory to do so. The other concerns physical exams for school employees and would require each employee to pass a physical prior to employment.

The board also discussed the possibility of purchasing a paging system for the new high school. The administration was instructed to check into prices of various paging systems.

Mrs. Kenneth Sisson encouraged the board to change the school policy which penalizes students who miss school bus runs and arrive at school late. She said the policy needs more flexibility.

Grading Changes Tabled By River Valley Board

THREE OAKS — An administrative recommendation to change the River Valley school district's K-12 grading system from six-week to nine-week marking periods beginning next fall was tabled last night by the school board.

Following discussion on the recommendation, the administration was asked to re-evaluate its proposal and present a more complete report on its merits. The proposal has been studied by a committee composed of the district's principals, who have consulted with other district administrators and teachers prior to making the recommendation. The proposal would change the school district's grading periods from six, six-week marking periods to four, nine-week marking periods.

The committee felt that such a change would benefit the school district by allowing two parent-teacher conferences per year in the elementary grades instead of one; would provide more emphasis on student progress; provide for a more flexible curriculum; provide more data on which to base a student's marks; provide more continuity in programs; and bring River Valley into line with other school districts in the shared-time program.

Young Ludington Woman Missing

LUDINGTON, Mich. (AP) — Foul play is suspected in the disappearance of a Ludington woman, Mason County Sheriff Stanley Jansen said Monday.

Penny Lee Smogoleski, 19, was last seen when she left work at Ludington's Holiday Inn early last Wednesday.

It's Instant Lottery Day!

LANSING (AP) — Michigan renews its love affair with the instant lottery today amidst grumblings it appeals to the compulsive gambler and threatens paychecks. Some $5 million red and black checkerboard tickets have been prepared for the new $1 instant lottery game. It is a successor to the phenomenally successful instant game which sold out all 53 million tickets in about six weeks last fall. About six million winners will split more than $25 million in prizes in the new game.

Direct Caller

WASHINGTON (AP) — Suspicion replaced necessity as the father of invention of the first dial telephone.

Almon Brown Stowge, an undertaker in Kansas City, Mo., suspected that local telephone operators were switching calls to his competitor. So, according to Intellectual Property Owners, a nonprofit organization dedicated to the preservation of our patent system, in 1891 he patented a system to complete calls without an operator.

BICENTENNIAL FACTS
FRANCIS "Swamp Fox" Marion, a southern partisan leader in the Revolution, was a military genius of strategy and tactics who rose from private to brigadier general. He reputedly earned his nickname in the fall of 1780 when the British officer Banastre Tarleton made an unsuccessful attempt to rout Marion by trailing him for seven hours through 26 miles of swamp. Tarleton is said to have exclaimed "But as for this damned old fox, the devil himself could not catch him." The World Almanac recalls.

SEEK ONE JOB
LOS ANGELES (AP) — Police were summoned to control a crowd of more than 300 applicants clustered in a City Hall office to apply for a single unskilled job opening paying $44 a month.

TO KEEP PLANS SECRET
WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford will not discuss recommendations for more stringent airport security suggested by a special task force appointed after the La Guardia Airport bombing that killed 11.

Bloom'dale To Send Two To Convention

BLOOMINGDALE — The Bloomington school board last night approved sending Mrs. Kay Johnson, board president, and Nathan Baylor Jr., board member, to the National School Board convention in San Francisco, April 10-13, at board expense.

Baylor's wife will also accompany him on the junket at her own expense. Total cost of the two board members' four-day trip to the school district was estimated at $550, according to Dr. Donald Dragon, superintendent.

In other areas, the board approved holding the Van Buren county intermediate school district's millage and bond issue election for mentally handicapped children, Feb. 24. The first proposal seeks a 1.5 mill property tax to raise $450,000 to operate a facility for mentally handicapped students. The second proposal seeks a $1,010,000 bond issue for construction of such a facility.

Applications to work on the election board may be obtained from the superintendent's office.

The board approved paying $630 to the Van Buren county department of mental health for its student referral service for

Did Ford Costs Rise $200 Or Only $26

By JUDITH RUSKIN

Associated Press Writer

DETROIT (AP) — Ford Motor Co. says production costs have soared $200 per car since the introduction of 1976 models, justifying the company's recent 2.2 per cent price increase.

But the government's inflation-watch agency said Monday the Jan. 5 price increase appears to be an attempt by the car maker to increase profits.

The Council on Wage and Price Stability estimated the cost increase for all domestic car manufacturers since the start of the new model year at $26.

"The recent decision by Ford to increase prices is not a reflection of industry cost increases since new 1976 model introductions, but rather it appears to be an attempt to widen margins in a period of rebounding sales volume and diminished import competition," the council said.

In response to the council's statements, a Ford spokesman said on Monday the company was "certainly attempting to increase our profit margin. In the 1975 model year we lost $100 for every North American car we produced and sold."

The council's remarks were contained in an update of the agency's report on car prices, issued in conjunction with the introduction of new domestic models this fall. The update was based on confidential cost data submitted by Ford and the other three major domestic auto producers.

Arvid Jouppe, an independent industry analyst, said Ford needed both the original price increase on the 1975 models and the Jan. 5 price hike to restore profitability to its U.S. passenger car line.

"Without the second increase," he said, "passenger cars would remain at marginal profitability."

The passenger cars were being subsidized by other, more profitable Ford divisions, he said.

The council's statement, he said, was an indication of the government's dedication to holding down inflation, while Ford's action was an attempt to "restore normal profits to a major line — U.S. passenger cars. The two are naturally in conflict."

Ford said in announcing the second price increase that it was necessary "to recover increased costs for labor and materials, including new government-mandated safety equipment." The price increase averaged $97 per car.

Ford had originally raised prices at the start of the model year by 4.7 per cent or $247 over 1975 models.

A Ford spokesman said some of the $200 increase in costs had been foreseen before the company raised prices in September. But, he added, cars were not priced at that time to cover all of the expected increases.

Jouppe said previously he believed the firm had wanted a larger price increase earlier but thought the market would not tolerate it.

"Now they feel the market can bear it better than at the beginning of the model year," he said when Ford announced its second price hike.

ENERGY AND FUEL SAVINGS CLAIMS

You will be bombarded in 1976 with ads claiming that a product will reduce fuel consumption, curb heat loss, increase insulation, improve operating efficiency, reduce electrical consumption, etc. Major areas for deceptive advertising will be: windows, fuel oil burner devices, electrical appliances, automobile gasoline savings devices. Study the hypothetical ads in this column prepared for me by the Better Business Bureau of Metropolitan New York, Inc.

WINDOWS: "Replacement window specialists...complete insulated window...genuine thermal insulated windows, no storm windows needed, fully guaranteed. Backed by over 30 years window experience." Or "Thermal insulated windows cut heat loss by 60 per cent...our company guarantees to save you 30 per cent on your fuel bills...or we will pay the difference in cash...maintenance free...weather stripping that seals out drafts and dirt...seals in heat in winter — seals out heat in summer."

"Most suspicious are the superlative or absolute claims for insulation or energy efficiency in these ads. No insulation is 'complete.' Contrary to the ads, you may find you do need storm windows. Some consumers have reported their homes draftier than before they had installed the so-called 'thermal' windows. Wind conditions at your home site are a vital factor."

Question any company that advertises its product is "fully guaranteed." This should mean you're entitled to your money back, no questions asked, at any time, for any reason. And do not expect the media in which you are reading, seeing or hearing the ad to have done all the questioning for you. It couldn't and can't.

On a claim such as "30 years window experience," find out how long the company has been in business. Or on a claim such as "thermal insulated windows cut heat loss by 60 per cent," ask for test data to back up the claim. If you're spending several hundred dollars for windows to help reduce your fuel bill, it may even be worth the fee a civil engineer will charge you to check the claims. And don't overlook the information your local public utility will provide.

Any time a company guarantees "to save you 30 per cent on your fuel bills," get the terms and conditions in writing. And what good is any guarantee if the company isn't in existence? Be constantly on the alert for phony savings. The "sale" price may be the regular price. Or the regular price may be significantly higher than the competition's.

FUEL OIL BURNER DEVICES: "Saves energy...cuts fuel costs up to 43 per cent, provides soot-free heating."

There is no such thing as "soot-free" combustion in a fuel oil burner. Get the documentation to substantiate the fuel reduction claim. Ask: Were the tests for this claim conducted in the laboratory? Or in actual home heating situations? Was anything else done to the furnace before or after the advertised device was installed — such as adjusting the oil nozzle or cleaning the burners?

Look out for savings claims based on undisclosed tie-in sales. To "guarantee" the advertised savings, the company may require that you buy a long-term service contract, fuel oil, or burner.

ELECTRICAL APPLIANCES: "Save 34 per cent on operation of air air conditioner."

In bold type will appear the savings claim and name of the manufacturer. In small type buried way down may be a hedge clause that says the savings claim is based on a com-

Bendix Faces Sex Complaint

KANSAS CITY (AP) — A complaint filed Monday in federal court by 14 women charges the Bendix Corp. with sexual discrimination.

The 14 women say they were or are Bendix employees. They allege they have been discriminated against because of their sex, and thus their constitutional rights have been violated. Each asks for $12,000 damages.

They contend Bendix, based in Southfield, Mich., discriminated against them with respect to promotions, transfers, training and apprenticeship programs, age limitations, seniority, layoffs and employment policies.

The petition also contends that Bendix segregated and classified employees for transfer and promotion in ways which deprive women of equal employment opportunities.

Direct Caller

WASHINGTON (AP) — Suspicion replaced necessity as the mother of invention of the first dial telephone.

Almon Brown Stowe, an undertaker in Kansas City, Mo., suspected that local telephone operators were switching calls to his competitor. So, according to Intellectual Property Owners, a nonprofit organization dedicated to the preservation of our patent system, in 1891 he patented a system to complete calls without an operator.

BICENTENNIAL FACTS
FRANCIS "Swamp Fox" Marion, a southern partisan leader in the Revolution, was a military genius of strategy and tactics who rose from private to brigadier general. He reputedly earned his nickname in the fall of 1780 when the British officer Banastre Tarleton made an unsuccessful attempt to rout Marion by trailing him for seven hours through 26 miles of swamp. Tarleton is said to have exclaimed "But as for this damned old fox, the devil himself could not catch him." The World Almanac recalls.

Bloom'dale To Send Two To Convention

BLOOMINGDALE — The Bloomingdale school board last night approved sending Mrs. Kay Johnson, board president, and Nathan Baylor Jr., board member, to the National School Board convention in San Francisco, April 10-13, at board expense.

Baylor's wife will also accompany him on the junket at her own expense. Total cost of the two board members' four-day trip to the school district was estimated at $550, according to Dr. Donald Dragoo, superintendent.

In other areas, the board approved holding the Van Buren county intermediate school district's millage and bond issue election for mentally handicapped children, Feb. 24. The first proposal seeks a 1.5 mill property tax to raise $450,000 to operate a facility for mentally handicapped students. The second proposal seeks a $1,010,000 bond issue for construction of such a facility.

Applications to work on the election board may be obtained from the superintendent's office.

The board approved paying $630 to the Van Buren county department of mental health for its student referral service for mentally handicapped students of the district. The district has had seven referrals so far this school year.

Dragoo announced that career education orientation periods will be held for high school students from 12-40 to 1-40 p.m. Thursday at the Christian church fellowship hall. A middle school students career program will also be at the church hall the same day from 11:15 a.m. to 12:15 p.m. A career program for elementary students will be Wednesday from 3:45 to 4:45 p.m.

Did Ford Costs Rise $200 Or Only $26

By JUDITH RUSKIN

Associated Press Writer
DETROIT (AP) — Ford Motor Co. says production costs have soared $200 per car since the introduction of 1976 models, justifying the company's recent 2.2 per cent price increase.

But the government's inflation-watch agency said Monday the Jan. 5 price increase appears to be an attempt by the car maker to increase profits.

The Council on Wage and Price Stability estimated the cost increase for all domestic car manufacturers since the start of the new model year at $26.

"The recent decision by Ford to increase prices is not a reflection of industry cost increases since new 1976 model introductions, but rather it appears to be an attempt to widen margins in a period of rebounding sales volume and diminished import competition," the council said.

In response to the council's statements, a Ford spokesman said on Monday the company was "certainly attempting to increase our profit margin. In the 1975 model year we lost $100 for every North American car we produced and sold."

The council's remarks were contained in an update of the agency's report on car prices, issued in conjunction with the introduction of new domestic models this fall. The update was based on confidential cost data submitted by Ford and the other three major domestic auto producers.

Arvid Jouppe, an independent industry analyst, said Ford needed both the original price increase on the 1976 models and the Jan. 5 price hike to restore profitability to its U.S. passenger car line.

"Without the second increase," he said, "passenger cars would remain at marginal profitability."

The passenger cars were being subsidized by other, more profitable Ford divisions, he said.

The council's statement, he said, was an indication of the government's dedication to holding down inflation, while Ford's action was an attempt to "restore normal profits to a major line — U.S. passenger cars. The two are naturally in conflict."

Ford said in announcing the second price increase that it was necessary "to recover increased costs for labor and materials, including new government-mandated safety equipment." The price increase averaged $97 per car.

Ford had originally raised prices at the start of the model year by 4.7 per cent or $247 over 1975 models.

A Ford spokesman said some of the $200 increase in costs had been foreseen before the company raised prices in September. But, he added, cars were not priced at that time to cover all of the expected increases.

Jouppe said previously he believed the firm had wanted a larger price increase earlier but thought the market would not tolerate it.

"Now they feel the market can bear it better than at the beginning of the model year," he said when Ford announced its second price hike.

Two Men Ask Hearings On Robbery Charge

Two more suspects accused of the Jan. 8 armed robbery of a Benton Harbor man demanded preliminary examinations Monday in Berrien Fifth District court. Also yesterday three people were bound over to Circuit court and seven were sentenced.

Jailed under $20,000 bonds were David Cryer, of 367 North Stevens street, and Larry Lee Allen, 28, of 687 Territorial, both of Benton Harbor. They are charged with armed robbery of $130 from Lester Williams, 38, of 592 Highland, Benton Harbor. The alleged offense occurred at Cryer's residence. Last week a woman giving the same address as Cryer asked for a preliminary hearing on the same charge.

The following people waived examinations and were bound over to Circuit court:

Michael E. Wilson, 17, of 1400 North Kephart lane, Berrien Springs, charged with armed robbery of $7 worth of gasoline from Gary Conner, Dec. 29 at the Benton township Cheker Gas station. He was jailed under $10,000 bail.

Terry E. Palms, 20, of Apple street, Coloma, charged with breaking and entering Miller Radio, Coloma township, Oct. 27. He posted $2,000 bond and was released.

Donzell Rosenberg (also known as Thurston), 37, of Gary, Ind., on a charge of carrying a concealed pistol Jan. 1 in Lincoln township. He continued free on $5,000 bail.

Sentenced were:

Homer E. Benson, 20, of 406 Hickory, Three Oaks, 10 days in jail for possession of a starter pistol Jan. 2 in Three Oaks.

Kenneth E. Neidlinger, 33, of 923 Wisconsin, St. Joseph, fine and costs of $33 for throwing fish offal in the St. Joseph river Jan. 6.

Eugene A. Crawford, 48, of 1605 Pearl, Benton township, $50 for creating a disturbance in Benton Harbor Dec. 6.

Donald Harmon, 41, of Chicago, $152 for driving while intoxicated Jan. 10 in Coloma township.

Denise C. See, 28, of Lakeshore Courts, Union Pier, $105 or 20 days in jail for impaired driving in New Buffalo township Jan. 11.

Verlie Samons, 37, of 982 Fairlawn, St. Joseph, $125 for petty larceny of clothes Dec. 2 at Benton Harbor Hilltop.

Christopher J. Williamson, 19, of 605 South Crystal, Benton township, three days in jail and $62 for driving while license suspended Jan. 9 in St. Joseph.

Furloughed Prisoner Sentenced In Berrien

A man arrested for carrying a concealed weapon while on a furlough from a federal penitentiary was sentenced yesterday in Berrien Circuit court to 40 to 60 months in prison.

Sentenced to state prison by Judge Chester J. Byrns was William P. Atcher, 23, of 1008 Superior street, Benton Harbor. He was sentenced for carrying a .32 caliber revolver in a car on Crystal avenue in Benton township on Aug. 16.

Byrns noted Atcher was arrested while on leave from federal prison in Milan, Mich., and called his past record a "sad one," noting terms Atcher's spent in Boys Training school, Jackson prison, and the federal prison.

"I'm sure you don't want to spend the rest of your life in confinement," Byrns told Atcher. Atcher, however, contended the gun was not his, and maintained his innocence.

In other sentences by Byrns: Kenneth R. Turney, 21, of Deifel road, Coloma, was sentenced to 20 to 30 months in prison for attempted larceny over $100—the attempted theft of four tires Sept. 14 from Bridges used car sales on US-31 in Niles township.

Terry J. Taylor, 24, of 3312 Eaman road, Hagar township, got 1 to 5 years in prison for attempted breaking and entering Nov. 3 at the Establishment bar, 211 Market street, Benton Harbor.

In sentences by Judge Julian E. Hughes:

Frank S. Knoll, 18, of LaPorte, Ind., got 15 to 25 years in prison for armed robbery—the theft of $48 at gunpoint Sept. 25 from Betty Stick at the Buffalo party store on LaPorte road in New Buffalo township.

David Welch, 21, of 480 Territorial road, Benton Harbor, drew a 16-month to 2-year prison sentence for unlawful use of an auto owned by Darrell W. Dixon Oct. 27 in Benton Harbor.

George Wheaton, 20, of Benton Harbor, was sentenced to 2 to 7 years in prison for a probation violation. He was placed on probation in July for delivery of PCP, and ordered not to possess any drugs. Court records show Wheaton had one gram of marijuana in his possession when he returned to Riverwood mental health center on Dec. 7.

Thomas W. Edwards, 19, of 5806 George street, Stevensville, was sentenced to 90 days in jail and continued on probation for a probation violation. Edwards failed to report to his probation officer twice in September and left the state in November. He received probation in April for larceny from a Lincoln township house.

Edwin L. Hogan, 20, of Gary, paid $150 fine and costs to avoid a 45-day jail sentence for conspiring to possess an unregistered gun Aug. 7 in 1-94 in New Buffalo township.

Alvin H. Wyrick, 27, of Muskegon, pleaded guilty to attempted carrying a concealed weapon—a pistol—Nov. 29 on Main street in Benton township.

Dwight A. Witherspoon, 21, of Chicago, pleaded guilty to attempted third degree criminal sexual conduct (formerly statutory rape) with a 14-year-old girl Nov. 29 in Niles township.

Tony J. Albert, 19, of 1850 Highland avenue, Benton township, pleaded guilty to attempted larceny from a person in connection with the attempted theft of cash and jewelry Dec. 19 from James E. Jones at 577 Green street, Benton Harbor.

In arraignments before Judge Hughes:

Donald E. Penley, 22, of Harbert, pleaded guilty to larceny from a building—the theft of whisky, cash, beer, and cigarettes from the New Troy American Legion post on Oct. 12.

Walter H. Nicks, 23, of 39th street, Paw Paw, pleaded guilty to unarmed robbery while a co-defendant. Dewey W. McClemore, 28, of 303 Union street, Lawton, pleaded innocent to a charge of armed robbery. The pair was charged in connection with the alleged theft of cash, a rifle, adding machine, clothing, and radio from Howard Welch Nov. 8 on Meadowbrook road in Bainbridge township.

Driver Gets Probation In Death Of Woman

A man accused as the driver of an auto which collided head-on with another car in St. Joseph, killing a young woman in the second auto, was placed on two years probation yesterday in Berrien Circuit court.

Judge Chester J. Byrns also ordered Steven John Hausserman, 22, of Ionia, to serve 30 days in jail and pay $600 fine and costs for his no contest plea to a charge of negligent homicide.

Hausserman was charged as the driver of a car which was in the wrong lane of Lake Shore drive near St. Joseph high school's Dickinson stadium on Aug. 2 and collided with a car driven by Jeffrey Cayo, 19, of St. Joseph township.

A passenger in Cayo's car, Denise Jene Copeland, 19, of 900 Jennings avenue, Benton Harbor, was killed in the crash.

"You'll be punished by the memory of this accident far more than this court could punish you," the judge noted. "Yet it's something the law can't ignore because you had consumed liquor" and then drove a car, Byrns added.

Patient A Consumer, Medical Panel Feels

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — The sick person is more than a patient to a special commission rewriting Michigan's medical laws. He's a consumer.

The 22-member panel appointed by the legislature is working on a comprehensive medical code that would do everything from disclose ownerships in health-related facilities to make it harder for a doctor to get a license renewed.

"What we have is a collection of laws starting a century ago that were never organized or reviewed," said Toby Citrin of Detroit, vice chairman of the Public Health Statute Revision Project. "I think Michigan's done a good job, but the potential hasn't been realized."

The panel's efforts coincide with an "alliance for health" Gov. William Milliken will propose in his State of the State message Thursday.

Milliken, who stopped at the commission's meeting Monday to thank members for their work, said the alliance will bring together Michigan public health, mental health and prevention programs.

This approach, Milliken said, will help us address the priority problems in preventive health services, improve the scope and quality of health care and monitor results.

There are 10 legislators on the panel, which hopes to have legislative proposals in final form within two months.

Some of the major proposals completed so far, Citrin said, include:

- Initiating public ownership at health-related facilities such as hospitals, nursing homes, and hospital suppliers. This would let the patient-consumer know whether a doctor has a financial interest in the hospital or nursing home the doctor recommends. Or, it would make public whether any of the hospital's board members have a financial interest in the company that supplies the hospital.
- Establishing minimum medical services available to everyone in Michigan, and providing a central information source to tell people where they can obtain the kind of service they need.
- The whole Upper Peninsula is very underserved in regards to medical professionals," Citrin said. "What we have now are a multitude of federal, state, county and private services almost totally uncoordinated." The project recommends state and local funds be matched for providing health services.

—Providing major changes in licensing laws. One change would allow unlicensed people with proper training to do jobs such as give immunization shots, take blood pressures and do vision and hearing tests under the supervision of a licensed physician.

"There is no way in which we can take care of the health needs of the state by rigid reliance on licensed professionals," Citrin said. Another change would involve the way medical professionals are relicensed. It would instruct licensing boards to require proof every four years that a person is still competent.

—Changing the way the state licenses medical facilities. There would be a single licensing law, Citrin said, that would provide "stiff daily penalties of up to $1,000 for continued violations. In the past, the health department had to close a facility ultimately to get some results."

—Providing environmental health hazard warnings. The Department of Public Health would be responsible for "raising the signal when they see something happening in the environment that could cause a specific danger."

—Creating new school health services. The proposed changes would allow the Department of Public Health to create comprehensive school health programs, including health education and preventive medicine for students.

In sentences by Judge William S. White:

Joseph R. Gardner, 22, of Detroit, was sentenced to 5 to 10 years in prison for larceny from a person—the theft of $100 from Nathaniel Taltan Aug. 15 on Territorial road in Benton Harbor.

Vernon L. Guidry, 18, of 983 Buss avenue, Benton Harbor, got 3 to 5 years in prison for unlawfully driving away an automobile Oct. 15 from Trans-World Volkswagen, at 170 North Riverview drive, Benton Harbor.

Jesus Gonzales, 21, of Chicago, was placed on two years probation for attempting to carry a concealed weapon Sept. 26 on 1-94 in New Buffalo township.

In arraignments before Judge White:

Larry Biggs, 31, of Niles, pleaded no contest to a charge of second degree murder in connection with the death of James Thompson, 19, who died Sept. 18—11 days after being burned at Biggs' former residence, 1603 Howard street. Charges of felony murder, arson, and conspiracy to commit arson are to be dismissed, according to the prosecutor's office.

Jeff Fintley, 26, of 1638½ Cherry street, Niles, pleaded innocent to a charge of perjury in connection with alleged false testimony he gave Dec. 16 during a preliminary examination in district court in Niles for three men accused of

Democrats Can Pick Delegates In Caucus

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — A new state law allows Michigan Democrats to select their delegation to the national convention without risking a possible challenge from other states.

Gov. William Milliken has signed into law a bill allowing Democrats to elect their national delegation in congressional district caucuses in June. Until now, they had to elect delegates during the presidential primary in May.

National Democratic rules forbid the selection of a delegation in any election in which non-Democrats can vote. And the state presidential primary permits "cross-over" voting, in which a Republican can vote in the Democratic primary and vice versa.

If the Democrats had selected their delegation that way, it could have been challenged at the national convention in New York next summer when a presidential nominee is to be picked.

The new law does not affect Michigan voters who are not deeply involved in party politics. The presidential primary will still be held May 18, and the new law retains the requirement that the national convention delegation reflect the proportion of popular votes cast for each candidate in the presidential primary.

It does, however, permit parties to select their delegations based on county, district or statewide proportions of the vote as a basis. It also changes from three-quarters to two-thirds the minimum number of state delegates allocated to congressional districts.

The law encourages guarantees against discrimination in delegate selection on the basis of race, creed, color, sex, age, national origin or economic status. But it eliminates language that made representation of such categories proportional to their occurrence in the population.

Gentle on your mind...

Two Men Ask Hearings On Robbery Charge

Two more suspects accused of the Jan. 8 armed robbery of a Benton Harbor man demanded preliminary examinations Monday in Berrien Fifth District court. Also yesterday three people were bound over to Circuit court and seven were sentenced.

Jailed under $20,000 bonds were David Cryer, of 367 North Stevens street, and Larry Lee Allen, 26, of 667 Territorial, both of Benton Harbor. They are charged with armed robbery of $130 from Lester Williams, 38, of 592 Highland, Benton Harbor.

The alleged offense occurred at Cryer's residence. Last week a woman giving the same address as Cryer asked for a preliminary hearing on the same charge.

The following people waived examinations and were bound over to Circuit court:

Michael E. Wilson, 17, of 1400 North Kephart lane, Berrien Springs, charged with armed robbery of $7 worth of gasoline from Gary Conner Dec. 29 at the Benton township Cheker Gas station. He was jailed under $10,000 bail.

Terry E. Palms, 20, of Apple street, Coloma, charged with breaking and entering Miller Radio, Coloma township, Oct. 27. He posted $2,000 bond and was released.

Donzell Rosenberg (also known as Thurston), 37, of Gary, Ind., on a charge of carrying a concealed pistol Jan. 1 in Lincoln township. He continued free on $5,000 bail.

Sentenced were:

Homer E. Benson, 20, of 406 Hickory, Three Oaks, 10 days in jail for possession of a starter pistol Jan. 2 in Three Oaks.

Kenneth E. Neidlinger, 33, of 923 Wisconsin, St. Joseph, fine and costs of $33 for throwing fish offal in the St. Joseph river Jan. 6.

Eugene A. Crawford, 48, of 1605 Pearl, Benton township, $50 for creating a disturbance in Benton Harbor Dec. 6.

Donald Harmon, 41, of Chicago, $152 for driving while intoxicated Jan. 10 in Coloma township.

Denise C. See, 26, of Lakeshore Courts, Union Pier, $105 or 20 days in jail for impaired driving in New Buffalo township Jan. 11.

Verlie Samons, 37, of 982 Fairlawn, St. Joseph, $125 for petty larceny of clothes Dec. 2 at Benton Harbor Hilltop.

Christopher J. Williamson, 19, of 605 South Crystal, Benton township, three days in jail and $62 for driving while license suspended Jan. 9 in St. Joseph.

Milliken, who stopped at the commission's meeting Monday to thank members for their work, said the alliance will bring together Michigan public health, mental health and prevention programs.

This approach, Milliken said, "will help us address the priority problems in preventive health services, improve the scope and quality of health care and monitor results."

There are 10 legislators on the panel, which hopes to have legislative proposals in final form within two months.

Some of the major proposals completed so far, Citrin said, include:

- Initiating public ownership at health-related facilities such as hospitals, nursing homes and hospital suppliers. This would let the patient-consumer know whether a doctor has a financial interest in the hospital or nursing home the doctor recommends. Or, it would make public whether any of the hospital's board members have a financial interest in the company that supplies the hospital.
- Establishing minimum medical services available to everyone in Michigan, and providing a central information source to tell people where they can obtain the kind of service they need.
- "The whole Upper Peninsula is very underserved in regards to medical professionals," Citrin said. "What we have now are a multitude of federal, state, county and private services almost totally uncoordinated." The project recommends state and local funds be matched for providing health services.
- Providing major changes in licensing laws. One change would allow unlicensed people with proper training to do jobs such as give immunization shots, take blood pressures and do vision and hearing tests under the supervision of a licensed physician.
- "There is no way in which we can take care of the health needs of the state by rigid reliance on licensed professionals," Citrin said. Another change would involve the way medical professionals are released. It would instruct licensing boards to require proof every four years that a person is still competent.
- "Changing the way the state licenses medical facilities. There would be a single licensing law, Citrin said, that would provide "stiff daily penalties of up to $1,000 for continued violations. In the past, the health department had to close a facility ultimately to get some results."
- "Providing environmental health hazard warnings. The Department of Public Health would be responsible for "raising the signal when they see something happening in the environment that could cause a specific danger."
- "Creating new school health services. The proposed changes would allow the Department of Public Health to create comprehensive school health programs, including health education and preventive medicine for students.

Democrats Can Pick Delegates In Caucus

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — A new state law allows Michigan Democrats to select their delegates to the national convention without risking a possible challenge from other states.

Gov. William Milliken has signed into law a bill allowing Democrats to elect their national delegates in congressional district caucuses in June. Until now, they had to elect delegates during the presidential primary in May.

National Democratic rules forbid the selection of a delegate in any election in which non-Democrats can vote. And the state presidential primary permits "cross-over" voting, in which a Republican can vote in the Democratic primary and vice versa.

If the Democrats had selected their delegation that way, it could have been challenged at the national convention in New York next summer when a presidential nominee is to be picked.

The new law does not affect Michigan voters who are not deeply involved in party politics. The presidential primary will still be held May 18, and the new law retains the requirement that the national convention delegation reflect the proportion of popular votes cast for each candidate in the presidential primary.

It does, however, permit parties to select their delegations based on county, district or statewide proportions of the vote as a basis. It also changes from three-quarters to two-thirds the minimum number of state delegates allocated to congressional districts.

The law encourages guarantees against discrimination in delegate selection on the basis of race, creed, color, sex, age, national origin or economic status. But it eliminates language that made representation of such categories proportional to their occurrence in the population.

ALL ABOUT FOODS
"CONSUMERISM"

A new "ism" has come into English language: Consumerism.

It started in Washington, D.C., and it has to do with helping you, the consumer, when you shop.

New rules and regulations have been introduced, covering advertising, packaging, and such. And I know Consumer Affairs people are making an earnest effort to look out for your interests. But I want to assure you that this same idea has always been back to success in the food business.

For that matter, I'm sure it's the key to success in any business. But I know for a fact that we in the food industry go out of our way to assure that the products we offer you are fresh, pure... and tastefully advertised.

As to keeping our products fresh and pure, the men who stock my shelves regularly replace any items they even suspect may be getting stale. And we have all road of cases where entire shipments were withdrawn from the market because the company involved had reason to suspect that a few cans or jars might contain imperfections.

And as for advertising, we know that an ad may sell you an unsatisfactory product once. But we also know that you won't come back a second time and we simply must have your confidence and your repeat business to survive.

So you see, it's not only a matter of having a conscience. It's just good business for us to treat you right. And that reminds me: Any time you feel that you have not been treated right here at Schneck's I want you to let me know. I'll make it right... with my own brand of "consumerism".

ALL ABOUT FOODS "CONSUMERISM"

A new "ism" has come into English language: Consumerism.

It started in Washington, D.C., and it has to do with helping you, the consumer, when you shop.

New rules and regulations have been introduced, covering advertising, packaging, and such. And I know Consumer Affairs people are making an earnest effort to look out for your interests. But I want to assure you that this same idea has always been basic to success in the food business.

For that matter, I'm sure it's the key to success in any business. But I know for a fact that we in the food industry go out of our way to assure that the products we offer you are fresh, pure... and truthfully advertised.

As to keeping our products fresh and pure, the men who stock my shelves regularly replace any items they even suspect may be getting stale. And we have all read of cases where entire shipments were withdrawn from the market because the company involved had reason to suspect that a few cans or jars might contain impurities.

And as for advertising, we know that an ad may sell you an unsatisfactory product once. But we also know that you won't come back a second time and we simply must have your confidence and your repeat business to survive.

So you see, it's not only a matter of having a conscience. It's just good business for us to treat you right. And that reminds me: Any time you feel that you have not been treated right here at Schneck's I want you to let me know. I'll make it right... with my own brand of "consumerism!"
